TRAFFIC MEN PLAN CONFERENCE HERE

Representatives from Several Cities to Work Out Application of New Rate.

TO BE HELD ON FRIDAY

A conference of traffic men from Sioux City, Council Bluffs, Atchison, Kansas City, and possibly Chicago, St. Louis, Lincoln, Hastings, Fremont and Beatrice, is to be held ir Omaha the first part of August.

J. McVann, manager of the traffic bureau of the Commercial club, just returned from Washington, at once decided to call this conference to see what can be done toward working out the application of the new freight rates as ordered by the Interstate Commerce commission in the ruling just made in the noted Nebraska rate case. The conference will prob-ably be called for Friday, August 4. This is the order in which the In-terstate Commerce commission de-clared the rates made by the Nebras-clared the rates made by the Nebras-ka commission in Order No. 19, to be discriminatory in favor of Omaha as against Missouri river towns in other states. The Interstate Comother states. The Interstate Com-merce commission ordered a new scale of rates, which puts the figures back practically where they were be-fore the Nebraska commission re-duced Nebraska cates, effective Sep-tember 6, 1914. Nebraska and Omaha have enjoyed this reduced rate for two years, until now the interstate body has declared it discriminatory.

Creates Delicate Situation.

The new order creates a complicated and delicate situation. Regarding this, Mr. McVann had the following to say on his return Regarding this, ar. Acceler han the following to say on his return from Washington: "I know that the railroads have been puzzled over the action that must be taken by them, and they recognize the practical impossibility of getting out any final figures by the middle of August, which they must do in order to get the rates into legal effect on September 25. In view of this fact, it seems likely that straight distance tariffs will be published, ap-plying the Interstate Commerce com-mission's maximum scale that is pre-scribed in the order alike to all of the contending cities. "Of course this will not be satis-factory to anybody, but it will furnish a basis from which to work in estab-lishing the new relations, and it is known that the Interstate Commerce commission entertains the view that commission entertains the view that the railroads are free to place the con-tending cities back where they were prior to the issuance of the Nebraska

prior to the issuance of the Nebraska commission's order, except insofar as the new scale modifies the rates then in effect. This is shown by the pro-viso contained in the opinion, reading as follows: "Provided however, that said order shall not restrain said defendants from setab-lishing, maintaining and applying class rates between the said severs named cities which will restore the relationships between as a cities as they existed prior to September 8, 1814." itics as

"Entitled to Relief."

"Omaha shippers regret that the Interstate Commerce commission should have felt obliged to make a decision that would advance the scale prescribed by the Nebraska commis-sion, which was a very satisfactory scale, but no representative of Oma-ha has ever claimed that the situa-tion produced by the refusal of the railroads to readjust the rates from the outside cities was fair to those cities. They are entitled to relief against that condition and the ques-tion of whether the Interstate Com-merce commission went outside of the "Omaha shippers regret that the against interstate Com-merce commission went outside of the jurisdiction conferred on it by the supreme court of the United States in the Shreveport case is a close legal question and one that need not be considered by Ornaha, because the state authorities must take care of that feature of the case. What Oma-ha is concerned with, vitally and im-mediately, is the question of working out the application of the commis-sion's order in the best possible way. This work was commenced as soon as the opinion of the commission was made public and it will be carried on in a spirit of co-operation and

For Emerald Isle

That the death rate among babies is much higher during a hot spell than when cooler climatic conditions pre-vail is shown by a comparison of in-fant mortality for the months of July in this and the six preceding years. Twenty-two deaths of infants un-der 1 year occurred in Omaha during July of this year, according to the figures in the city health office. Three deaths of infants from 1 to 3 years old. In striking contrast are the figures for July, 1915, when only seven deaths occurred of babies under 1 year, the being higher-nine deaths. In July of 1914 there were eighteen deaths of infants under 1 year. Eight years.

I Ten Stores Agree Saturday Night overhead viaduct. Hadley and Kvenild were very nearly in agreement. Both reports provide for overhead crossings at Douglas, Farnam and Dodge streets. To Close Early on

Ten retail firms have already agreed to close their stores at 6 o'clock Saturday nights during the month of August, and the campaign is moving rapidly with new converts all the time. The campaign has just started. Thompson-Belden, Burgess-Nash, and Brandeis started the move-ment, and although it is not taken up officially by the Associated Retailers, the secretary of that organization sent out a letter to the membership ask-ing how many were in favor of it. Those who have already agreed to this 6 o'clock closing are Thompson-Belden, Burgess-Nash, Brandeis, Or-chard-Wilhelm, Albert Edholm, Ryan Jewelry company, C. B. Brown Jewelry company, Brodegaard Broth-ers, Thomas Kilpatrick & Co. and Hendrickson Jewelry company. The 6 o'clock Saturday night clos-ing last year aroused considerable op-position. The retailers made quite a campaign for it, but though it was in general practice in Omaha, many of the campaign for it, but though it was in general practice in Omaha, many of the customers never became wholly reconciled to it. Some of them com-plained throughout the month, espe-cially women, who said Saturday night was the only time it was pos-sible for them to come down town to shop with their husbands.

Man Who Hit Boy With Auto Sues for $1,000 Mental Balm

One of the most novel suits ever brought in Douglas county has been filed by William Grigsby of Cleve-land as a cross petition in the suit brought against himself and Mra. Grigsby by W. G. Nicholson, who asks $10,000 damages from the Grigs-bys because of the death of his son, Paul, killed when he was struck by an automobile driven by Grigsby. Grigsby disclaims responsibility for the accident, asserting that young Nicholson met death through his own carelessness. Grigsby further claims that damages to his machine in the accident and mental suffering of him-self and wife have damaged him to the sum of $1,000 and asks judgment for this sum.

County Dads Will Have More Money For Coming Year

The County Board of Commission-ers received the recommendations of Chairman Frank Best of the finance committee for a levy of 15.95 mills for county purposes during the com-ing year. Last year's levy of 16.6 mills brought in $799,451.70 in revenue, while the new levy will net $822,-177.22, the increase being due to higher property valuations. However, $55,000 is to be set aside for bond redemption purposes this

Want Concrete Floors. The planning board insisted, how-ever, that the crossings should be floored with concrete, that lights should be installed and maintained in the subways by the rairoad and that all three crossings should pre-sent a cellar span from property line to property line. These details Hadley would not accept, claiming that the city should provide lights, asking per-mission to use pillars at the curb line on Douglas street and for the present at least providing a concrete flooring for the Dodge street cross-ing alone.

The council adopted a motion to stand by the planning board insolar as the lights and concrete flooring are concerned, but to waive the clear are concerned, but to waive the clear span on Douglas street. A resolu-tion informing the railroad of just what the city will accept will be for-mally presented tomorrow morning. Hadley could not assure the council that the railroad would at once install the crossings, even as recommended by his own report. It will be neces-sary for Receiver Bush to get per-mission from Federal Judge Hook for any expenditures made on the cross-ings, and Bush is now in New York and Hook is on his vacation. Commissioner Jardine informed Hadley that if the railroad would not accept the city's proposition, based upon the planning board recommen-dations, that viaducts would be in-sisted upon.

is proving a difficult one in the case of David Adelstint. Young Adelstint has a good home, but he wants to go to Kearney. Miller turned him over to the B nai B'rith social service committee, which started out to outfit him with some clothes. Members of the committee entered a store and turned around to look for the boy, to find him gone. He returned at once to Miller and insisted upon being sent to Kearney. Miller placed him temporarily at Riverview home, and Saturday when he went to Riverview to take several lads from there to Kearney Adelstint insisted upon accompanying the group. He had to be pricu away from Miller by main force. Gus doesn't know what to do with him.
