Auburn Blind Man Has Three Diplomas From State School

Stella, Neb., Aug. 5.—(Special).—Prof. C. A. Jones of Auburn, is the only student who has ever finished all the courses from a Nebraska state institution...

Prof. Jones lost the sight of one eye when four years old, from a tiny particle of sand getting into his eye...

Prof. Jones spent fifteen years in the schools for the blind at Vinton, Ia., and Nebraska City.

The industrial course embraces piano tuning, carpet weaving, the making of fly nets, hammocks, brooms, etc.

When in school, he devoted from four to six hours a day to piano practice, and after he was graduated from the institute at Nebraska City, he spent two years teaching.

Improvements Are Made by New Beaton & Laier Owners

A number of extensive improvements have been made at the Beaton & Laier furniture store since the purchase of the controlling interest by George W. Laier and Mrs. A. J. Beaton three weeks ago.

The sales room formerly occupied by Magee's has been added to the Beaton & Laier establishment and the entire sales floor has been redecorated...

An interior decorating department has been added to the store. This department is under the management of F. E. Blind, formerly of Fuchs, Son & Blind.

An expansion sale, with a discount on everything except a few contracted lines, will be launched Monday.

Krug Park is Popular Those Hot Evenings

That hot weather is a valuable asset to the parks is being demonstrated daily at the popular Krug park.

This Little Girl's Midnight Thanks Brought Big Lift for Poor Babies

Elizabeth is only 22 months old now, so soon she will be a raveling beauty when she is 22 years old.

Take the princess of old, Elizabeth will combine beauty and grace with kindness of heart.

It is safe to venture the guess she will follow in her mother's footsteps and become an enthusiastic, ardent member of the Humane society.

In the name of little Elizabeth her mother, Mrs. J. De Forest Richards, gave $50 to The Bee's tree milk and ice fund last week.

One night when it was exceedingly warm little Elizabeth called for a "drink of later." Mrs. Richards brought it to her, noting the damp forehead and the little nightgown wet with perspiration.

"Oh, mamma," she cooed. "This is so cold and nice!" Mrs. Richards' heart was touched at the thought of so many little ones to whom pure drinks and the ice with which to cool it would be unavailable were it not for the contributions to The Bee fund and the generous gift followed.

LIGHT COMPANY TO SPEND ONE MILLION

To Construct New Building to House Huge Turbine Engine.

TUNNEL TO THE RIVER

The biggest building project in progress in Omaha at present, especially when all the equipment to be installed is included, is the big addition to the Omaha Electric Light and Power company plant at the foot of Jones street.

Justly $900,000 is to be expended here in the structure and the equipment.

The addition is to house a huge 20,000 horsepower turbine. The building itself is to cost nearly $120,000, while the engines and other equipment to be installed will bring the figure well up toward the million mark.

A costly bit of construction in connection with this new addition will be the huge tunnel which will probably be no less than 150 feet long, eight feet wide and eighteen feet deep.

Though the excavation work is now only under way and a little work is being done in laying concrete bases, it is expected the job shall be completed by October or November.

World Realty Co. Mum as to What It Proposes to Do

Much speculation is now in progress as to what the World Realty company expects to do at Twenty-sixth and Farnam streets, where the company just bought the southwest corner of Mrs. Jessie F. Shepherd.

Although an old residence building stands on the ground, this is no longer classed as residence property.

The World Realty company, although a new company, is a company that does things with dispatch when it obtains a piece of ground.

Neither Sam H. Goldberg, president, nor W. R. McFarland, secretary of the World Realty company, will make any announcement as yet as to what they expect to do with the newly acquired ground at Twenty-sixth street.

Realty Men Active For Farm Loan Bank

The real estate men of Omaha are not the least of those who are making a concerted fight for a federal land bank for Omaha.

The central working committee of executive committee to work with Mr. Myers consists of F. A. Brogan, T. C. Byrne, Luther Drake, John L. McCague, C. C. Rosewater and A. E. Stryker.

Double Shifts at Work On New Movie Theater

Two shifts are now employed on the construction of the Motion picture theater building at 1410-14 Farnam street, the building being built for the World Realty company.

Contract is Let for the Remodeling of City Hall

R. Butke has been awarded the general contract for remodeling the old city hall.

The Busy Bees :- Their Own Page

HERE it is the first Sunday in August, which reminds us that there is but one blissful month left of the long summer vacation of the busy bees.

How about the resolutions your boys and girls made at the close of school? Have you carried out the plans you made for the most profitable manner in which to spend your life hours, or have you permitted the moments to glide swiftly by, putting off for tomorrow what you could have done today?

Let's hope you haven't, but if you have, here is a warning word and you have yet a month in which to redeem the pledges you made to yourself.

The Busy Bee election of King and Queen is scheduled for the end of this month, the new rulers to be announced the first Sunday in September.

Begin to think about it, boys and girls, and decide who has earned the honor and whom it best befits. Send in your votes early, as at nearly every election heretofore some votes remained uncounted because they arrived too late.

As you all know, the king is selected from the boys on the Red side and the queen is chosen from the Blue side.

This week, the prize book goes to Marie Deviney of the Red side, Edith Kenyon, and Edna Conner of the Blue side, soon honorable mention.

Little Stories by Little Folk

(Prize Story) First Experience with Candy. By Marie Deviney, Aged 13 Years, R. F. P. No. 1, Box 117, Blair, Neb., Red Side.

I am in the eighth grade at school. My teacher's name is Mrs. Ervey. I like her very much. She is good to us. I thought as long as I was going to school I would write a story about my sister and I making our first tatty candy.

Well, of course, mamma, papa and my two brothers were gone. We liked tatty candy real well, and we decided to make some. We first took the receipt and afterwards filled it out.

We were mighty glad when we got it out. We then took the spade and dug a hole in the ground by the old cellar and buried it. We did not tell our parents until about three years ago.

(Honorable Mention.) An Enjoyable Outing. By Edith Kenyon, 3222 Gunning St., Omaha, Neb., Blue Side.

Last summer one of my friend's mother invited many girls and myself to a swimming party at Carter mer ditches were dug to carry the water from the streams and spread it out upon the fields.

Under this system the waters of the Platte, Republican, the Loup, the Niobrara and other streams were led out upon the land, making great fields of grass and grain where before little had been raised.

The Kinkaid Homestead Act—On June 29, 1904, a new homestead act took effect in Nebraska called the Kinkaid act from Congressman Kinkaid of O'Neill, who introduced it in congress.

Reclamation Act—In 1906 the reclamation act, championed by President Roosevelt, made an important change affecting western Nebraska.

Taxes and State Expenses—For many years the state of Nebraska had been running in debt to pay its expenses.

The Cream Separator—Another great change which has come into Nebraska farming in the last twenty years has been brought about largely by the cream separator.

Rise in Price of Land—During this period land has risen very rapidly in price, in eastern Nebraska from $25 and $30 an acre to $100 and $150 an acre.

Irrigation and Dry Farming—Two new methods of farming were followed which greatly helped the state. These were irrigation and dry farming, or summer fallage, as the latter is sometimes called.

ONE OF THE BRIGHT LITTLE BUSY BEES.

Horace Hale Holcomb

Children's Play. By Ricka Breitbarth, Aged 12 Years, Box 245, Pender, Neb., Blue Side.

I will write about the chautauque we had in Pender. It started on Monday and ended on Friday. The last day was hand day or children's day, for we gave a play.

Eats Too Many Cherries. By Florence Browitt, Aged 13 Years, 1821 Fifth Avenue, Kearney, Neb., Red Side.

Edith is a little girl six years of age. Sometimes she is naughty. You know, Edith likes cherries. When her mother lets her she will eat all she can.

The Merry March Hare. By Nola Kerns, Aged 11 Years, Phillips, Neb., Blue Side.

Alvin was playing out in the yard one day when a big breeze came along and without saying "by your leave" whizzed him that way until he was as dizzy as a June bug.

Building Permits For Year Run Far Over Last Season

Building permits in July ran nearly $30,000 higher than in July a year ago. This in spite of the fact that there were but 137 issued in July this year against 164 in July a year ago.

Contract is Let for the Remodeling of City Hall

R. Butke has been awarded the general contract for remodeling the old city hall.

She said, "Why did you go out there without asking me?" Edith answered "I was hungry for some ch-ch-cherries." Her mother said, "Edith, to night you have to go to bed at six o'clock." Edith cried and cried.

At night she was sick. Her mother sent for the doctor. He asked her what she had been eating. She said, "cherries," and began to cry again. The doctor told her not to cry, and to eat some fruit.

Edith was in bed about a month. When she was able to get up she told her mother she would never leave after this, because she didn't like to be sick in bed.

What word of my letters if you take away two leaves or so?

What was the result of the flood? What is water? What is a gentleman has not never can have, but may give to a lady.

These are all easy. I suppose you can give the answers without guessing. I would like to join the Liberty Bell club because I like to protect birds.

A Fawn and Tiger. By Eugenia Blake, Aged 10, South Auburn, Neb., R. F. D. 3, Red Side.

As this is the first time I have written I hope to receive a prize. I am 10 years old and would like to join the Red Side. I am sending a story.

What fine stripes you have! "What fine stripes you have!" The fawn said. "It would be very pleasant if you and I were together as friends. We might then roam through the woods as we liked and always be so happy." "I should like that," said the tiger.

So the two touched noses and then went out for a long walk. It was breakfast time. The fawn saw some fine grass in the meadow. Said he to himself, "One should see his friend satisfied with his own food."

Will you have some of this grass for your breakfast? The tiger smelled the grass, but he could not eat it, for it was against his natural way of eating. He said, "I am sorry, but I can't eat it, friend." The fawn said he might find something that the tiger would like better, so he ran to ask his mother. He went to ask her and she told him not to return to the tiger as he would kill her fawn. So they ran to safety.

Bank Guaranty; Daylight Saloons—In 1908 Ashton C. Shallenberger, democrat of Alma, was elected governor. During his two-year term, the legislature passed an act providing for a bank guaranty fund to insure people depositing money in banks from losses by bank failure.

County Option—The question of county option, or permitting all the voters of each county to determine whether they would have saloons in that county or not, became the exciting political issue at this time.

Governor Chester Aldrich—In 1910 Chester H. Aldrich, republican of David City, was elected governor. County option was the battleground of the campaign and the result was the election of a governor in favor of county option and a legislature opposed to it.

Initiative and Referendum—Among the important acts of the legislature of 1911 were the following: An act providing for the initiative and referendum, permitting the voters to adopt or reject laws; an act providing for the commission form of government of cities; an act to forbid the selling of seed of any kind having weed seeds therein; an act stopping the taxation of real estate mortgages; an act to protect the water in Nebraska rivers and lakes, and an act to secure libraries for the county districts.

Governor John H. Morehead; the Campaign of 1912—At the election of November 5, 1912, John H. Morehead, democrat of Falls City, was chosen governor. The chief feature of the campaign was the spectacular split in the republican party between the supporters of President Taft and of ex-President Roosevelt.

A new party, named the progressive party, was organized, which supported Mr. Roosevelt. In Nebraska the progressive party and the republican party united on most of their candidates, but there was much strife and contention in bringing this about and Woodrow Wilson, democratic candidate for president, carried the state by a plurality of 37,000 over Theodore Roosevelt and a still larger plurality over President Taft.

The new legislature of 1913, in chosen, which met January 6, 1913, had fifty-five democrats and forty-five republicans in the house, eighty-five republicans and fifteen democrats in the senate.

At this election five important amendments were made to greatest changes in that document since it was framed in 1875. The new amendments provide for enactment of laws by the people through the initiative and referendum, for elections once in two years instead of every year, for a board of control to manage the state prison, asylums and other institutions, for a home rule by cities, for increasing the salaries of members of the legislature from $300 to $600 and limiting the time for introducing bills to the first twenty days of each session.
