

Nebraska EXPRESS REGRET AT McNISH RESIGNATION

Republicans Generally Sorry That He Is Leaving Chairmanship.

SOME WHO ARE ASPIRANTS

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Lincoln, Aug. 6.—(Special.)—The announcement of the resignation of J. C. McNish as chairman of the republican state committee was a great surprise to Lincoln republicans and at the same time a source of much regret.

While some of the candidates for state office here had objected to the committee selecting McNish without first consulting their wishes, most of them had come to the conclusion that McNish was a good choice for the place and had confidence he would carry on a successful campaign with perfect fairness to every man on the ticket.

The proposition now comes up as to a successor to Mr. McNish. Many republicans here believe the thing to do is to entirely eliminate all aspirants for the committee offices who were involved in the disagreements between Mr. McNish and Mr. Sutton.

Suggestion Made.

They say the thing to do now is to go out into the state and select a man outside of both Omaha and Lincoln. Get just as far away from the candidates as possible and start in new by selecting a man of capacity who will conduct the campaign to elect the ticket and nothing else.

Several names have been mentioned in connection with the chairmanship, among them being E. D. Beach of Lincoln, present vice chairman; Clyde Barnard of Table Rock; H. F. Lehr of Albion and one or two others.

Beach is one of the rustlers among Lancaster county republicans and has been a member of the state committee for several years. He is a hard worker.

Barnard has a wide acquaintance through his connection with several legislatures as clerk of the house and assistant, and one term as secretary of the senate. He has an extensive acquaintance all over the state and understands the political game from all points.

Lehr Being Pushed.

H. F. Lehr of Albion, has been pushed for the chairmanship several times and was once elected, but declined to serve because of other considerations. He was chairman of the Boone county committee through three campaigns, and was later deputy state treasurer under State Treasurer Brian.

Vice chairman Beach will call a meeting of the state committee sometime this week, probably for Saturday, so a chairman may be made and headquarters opened on the 15th, as originally set.

Victim of Thugs In Weeds Dying For Three Days

After lying for three days sick and helpless in the willows in the vicinity of Big Lake, Council Bluffs, an old man was found yesterday afternoon by Chris Carr, railroad man, who reported the fact to the police department. He was brought to the station in the police car and given temporary treatment and care.

He said his name was Logan Hartley and that his home was at Springfield, Ill. He said he had been following the crowd of harvesters and working whenever he could find the opportunity. He said he had accumulated between $60 and $70, and was carrying it concealed in his sweaty old clothes. He was intending to work his way back home after reaching Council Bluffs, but was robbed of every cent he had by men who attacked him while on the train.

He reached Council Bluffs sick and penniless, and in utter discouragement crawled into the willows to die. He had been there for three days without even having a drink of water offered him.

Hartley will be cared for at the expense of the county. He was helpless from exhaustion and almost dead from mosquito bites when brought to the station.

The Fredricks had been married fifty years, and when Mr. Frederick died his wife's grief was so intense that she collapsed, and her removal to the hospital was necessary.

"I pass on to join him, and I am glad," were Mrs. Frederick's last words.

ROBINS' SUPPORT PLEASES CORRICK

Decision of Progressive Convention Chairman to Back Hughes Is Welcomed.

MEANS MUCH TO CAUSE

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Lincoln, Aug. 6.—(Special.)—The announcement that Raymond Robins would support Charles E. Hughes for the presidency is very pleasing to third party progressives here, and to none more so than Frank P. Corrick, state chairman who was sergeant-at-arms for the convention at Chicago over which Robins presided, and the personal representative of Colonel Roosevelt in Nebraska.

"You may say," said Colonel Corrick to The Bee this morning, "that the stand taken by Mr. Robins is mighty pleasing to Nebraska progressives. This is especially so when it is remembered that Mr. Robins was formerly a democrat and one of President Wilson's strong supporters for the nomination in 1912, though he later assisted in the organization of the progressive party and ever since that time has been one of our leaders."

"It means much to the cause of true Americanism to have Mr. Robins come out for Mr. Hughes," added Mr. Corrick. "It simply means that Mr. Robins sees nothing to hope for any more in the democratic party, at least after this campaign, and that Mr. Hughes will receive the bulk of the progressive vote, including most of those who were formerly democrats."

"The position taken by him is that progressives should not hesitate between the party of nationalism and the party of sectionalism, and he has expressed the very feeling which prompted the progressives to endorse Mr. Hughes, as coming nearer the ideas we advocate than does Mr. Wilson."

"Mr. Robins' letter has a strong sentiment about it that will appeal to every true progressive, and while most of us may be a little disappointed at not being in the fight this year with a party candidate of our own, we feel that in endorsing the republican candidate we have taken the stand that all true progressives should take who believe in true American principles of government."

Henry Ford and His Party Go to Tractor Show at Fremont

Henry Ford, his son Ebsel and a party of twenty-five department heads, experimenters and officials of the Ford Motor company passed through Omaha yesterday morning enroute for Fremont to attend the tractor show. Mr. Ford's secretary, E. R. Bryant, met the newspaper men and said that Mr. Ford had refused to be interviewed on this trip, which was in the nature of a vacation for him, and would have nothing to say before he reached Fremont.

Mr. Bryant said that the new Ford tractor would be demonstrated at the tractor show, but that it would not be put on the market until it was as nearly perfect as the Ford organization could make it. The tractor is intended to do the work of six horses and do it anywhere that horses can go. It draws two plows and can be used on the roads, in the corn fields for cultivation, and almost anywhere else, furnishing power for farm machinery, etc.

The party included a half dozen Hawaiian musicians, who furnish music for the party on the trip and will entertain the visitors at Fremont.

Lad Takes Up His Dog's Battle and Suffers Bad Bite

"Sonny" Yaffe, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Yaffe, 2627 Franklin street, has a small brown dog named "Peanuts." Now you can roast "Peanuts," and you can bark and growl at him, if the latter mode of expression is your disposition. But if perchance you are a large dog with sharp teeth and a thirst for battle, don't try to crack "Peanuts" while "Sonny" is about.

Such a canine essayed the job late Friday afternoon and "Sonny" armed with a small ball bat jumped into the fray. After a considerable battle "Sonny" drove the big dog off, but not before he was bitten severely on the right cheek and left arm. Officer A. C. Anderson later allied himself with the "Sonny" and "Peanuts" alliance, and put bullet through the big stray's head. "Sonny" and "Peanuts" are doing well.

FINDS JOY IN THE LIFE OF CHRISTIAN

Dr. Jenkins Says Nothing Is So Elusive as Pleasures of This World.

CHRISTIAN IS TRULY HAPPY

Rev. Dr. D. E. Jenkins, president of Omaha university, preached yesterday at St. Mark's Lutheran church on "Joy in Christian Life."

"The desire for happiness is instinctive in man," said Dr. Jenkins. "Yet nothing is more elusive. So-called 'pleasure seekers' never find happiness. Their pleasure is vivid, cold, dead, and it leaves a void and a dissatisfaction akin to despair. They are in the position of Tantalus, whose punishment, according to the myth, was to stand in water up to his chin, tortured by thirst, yet every time he stooped to drink the inviting water it receded and not a drop could he touch with his lips."

"True happiness is found in the Christian life, in doing duty day by day, in doing your work, in not seeking happiness. For happiness, as Immanuel Kant said, flees from those who pursue it, and abides with those who do not court it."

Religion is Happiness.

"The Christian religion is pre-eminently the religion of happiness. One of Christ's last remarks to His disciples was: 'These things have I spoken unto you that my joy might abide in you and that your joy might be full.'"

"This is a joy that endures. It abides. It differs in this respect from the ephemeral, empty, spasmodic, unsatisfying joy of the world's pleasure seekers."

"The Christian religion is full of happiness. Christ's sermon on the mount deals entirely with happiness for the word 'blessed' there really means 'happy.' That great sermon constituted Christ's rules to His disciples for the happy life."

"And aside from those rules for right living, aside from devoutness, aside from unselfishness, aside from duty, there is no real happiness. Those who go on pleasure-seeking joy rides through the world, living for themselves alone, shirking their duties, seeking the will-o-the-wisp good time, end up in disaster and the great emptiness of unsatisfied longing."

Joys of the World.

"Lord Chesterfield, perhaps the most brilliant man England ever produced, expressed his great disappointment with the so-called joys of the world."

"We need to emphasize more the joys of the Christian life. It is not a religion of long faces and abstinence from the legitimate pleasures of life. It is quite the opposite. But it recognizes the fact that the real, great and abiding happiness is found in devotion, duty, work, and not in shirking all these."

"Yet this joy is unknown to many, even of our wise men. Prof. Peck of Columbia university, recently had an article in a magazine, not a sensational magazine, but a learned and philosophical one, in which he discussed the question: 'Is Life Worth Living,' and solemnly came to the gloomy conclusion that if a man is tired of life he should have 20,280 right to end it. What a wretched failure is the life of a man who can have such an outlook on earthly existence. What a lot he has missed!"

House Will Probe Alleged Mexican Munition Scandal

Washington, Aug. 6.—Investigation of munitions shipments to Mexico since they first were prohibited by President Taft, with inquiry whether any person connected with such shipments was a contributor to political campaign funds, was asked in a resolution introduced today by Representative Rodenberg of Illinois, republican.

Introduction of the resolution was a sequel to Mr. Rodenberg's speech in the house yesterday in which he declared that Cleveland H. Dodge of New York was interested in a munitions factory, that he was a contributor to the democratic campaign fund and that General Carranza was permitted to import 1,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition a day after Mr. Dodge called on Secretary Lansing, soon after the attack on American troops at Parral.

Mr. Rodenberg expressly stated he did not know there was any connection between the things he mentioned, but he wanted to find out. The resolution was referred to the foreign affairs committee.
