If there was any doubt at any time that doubt is now dispelled. For Oscar Lieben went to the South Side into the stock yards district last Saturday

By a vote of five to two, the stock yards district last Saturday the stock yards district last Saturday and in a few hours had signed up ninety-seven men and horses to ride in this big parade.

No, this is not yet enough men and horses, not by any means. It is a good start, however, and showed Ak-Sar-Ben that there are still horses and horsemen in Omaha in spite of the cheapness of flivvers. Lieben took the measure of the men for suits, so that when they appear on the street in the long parade, one group will be Spaniards, one group will be Frenchmen, another will be a group of trappers with fur caps, and so on down the magnificent line. The costumes are being made up now.

Suit for $5,000 damages has been filed in district court by Mrs. Kristine Petersen, 1903 Vinton, against John Mallett, Mary Mallett, Petrea M. C. Jorgensen, Minnie Ray, H. J. Neilsen, the American Bonding company of Baltimore and Katie Olesen, alleging that while absent from her home on August 7 the defendants, with the exception of representatives of the bonding company, broke in and entered her home, taking confidential and personal papers. It is further charged that Police Officer Neilsen, through his activity in the case, has violated his bond and that defendants caused false statements to be published in The Omaha Evening Bee of August 10 concerning her disappearance. She declares that false statements were made to several of her creditors, among them being the Singer Sewing Machine company, the Central Mercantile company and the Hartman Furniture company, causing her sewing machine and other articles on which she had made partial payments to be removed from her home. Personal property valued at $100 is involved. who was decorated by the French government for carrying wounded from the first line trenches to the Personal property valued at $100 is uncertain as to his fate, and a much- few weeks. married woman in a matrimonial quandary-this is the tangle skein resulting from the setting aside of the livorce decree of Mrs. Mary L. Am-bert by Judge Willis Sears in district court this morning. Here's the story of the hasty mar-riage and the possibilities for leisurely repentance: On May 12 Judge George A. Day granted a divorce decree to Mrs. Am-bert when she charged her husband, Albert B. Ambert, with cruelty and ionsupport.

She was warned at the time that

Railroads Strive to Head Off Shortage of Cars

Both freight and traffic officials of the railroads have united in their ef-forts to prevent a freight car shortage and with the co-operation of shippers, they hope to hold it to a co-udition so that it will not be critical. It is admitted that even now the shortage is acute in many localities and if the present high prices on grain continues, the worst is yet to come. The Interstate Commerce commis-Call for Horsemen

Will there be horsemen enough for the Spanish cavalry, the calavcade of French trappers, the frontiersmen and pioneers who are to make up the historical parade during the Ak-Sar-Ben fall festival?

The Interstate Commerce commission has gotten into the game and is sending out circular letters to railroad officials and extensive shippers all over the west. The commission urgs upon shippers and consignees the necessity of promptly releasing cars by unloading quickly, and upon railroads the necessity of getting the cars back into the congested areas.
