MESSAGE SENT COLONEL

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 22.—(Special Telegram)—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will speak in Nebraska before the campaign is over if an invitation sent to the ex-president jointly by Chairman Beach of the republican state committee and Chairman F. P. Corrick of the progressive state committee is accepted.

The two chairmen held a conference this afternoon which resulted in the following invitation being sent Mr. Roosevelt:
"On behalf of the republican and progressive committees of this state, working in harmony and as a unit for the election of Governor Hughes, we extend to you a cordial invitation to address the voters of Nebraska at the earliest practicable date and to give us, if possible, two days for speaking purposes throughout the state."
"Nebraska is debatable ground, but with the united efforts we are putting forth, and especially with your assistance, which is of the utmost importance to our campaign, we believe we can carry the electoral vote for Mr. Hughes."

Wealthy Hamilton Farmer Severely Hurt

Aurora, Neb., Aug. 22.—(Special Telegram)—John H. Pierson, a prominent farmer living north of Aurora, was seriously injured this afternoon when his automobile was struck by Burlington train No. 51 between Aurora and Alquette. The locomotive struck the hind wheel of the car and hurled it about thirty-five feet. Mr. Pierson's right arm above the elbow was mangled and the right side of his face and head was crushed. The train backed down to Aurora bringing the injured man. He has not regained consciousness and the physicians are doubtful of his recovery.
At the crossing where the accident took place the corn fields obscure the track and Mr. Pierson probably did not see the train until it struck him. Mr. Pierson is 64 years of age. He is the owner of several hundred acres of land.

These officials were Charles Lane, general freight agent of the Union Pacific and H. H. Holcomb, general freight agent of the Burlington.
It is understood that these roads are desirous of getting a 30-day stay on enforcement of the Interstate Commerce commission freight order, and came to Lincoln to get help from the Railway commission. Failing to get assistance from the Commission they took a hurried getaway in order to reach Washington in time for a conference with other railway officials before the Commission.

Among the famous chickens in the car is the only known living daughter of Betty, the $10,000 hen, formerly owned by Ernest Kellersstaas of Kansas City, and herself a prize winner of international fame.

Don't Let Soap Spoil Your Hair

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.
The best thing to use is just plain mulford coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.
Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

HUGHES STANDING FIRMLY BY HIS FLAG

Candidate Says Banner is Still Where He Put It in New York.

HIS MIND NOT CHANGED

Los Angeles, Aug. 22.—Charles E. Hughes told an audience in the Shriners' auditorium last night that he had not "haunted down the flag" he put up in New York.
"We have had periods when the public interest in this country was neglected, when it was derided and not safeguarded by law," he said.
"I am glad those periods are past. I believe they have passed. I believe there is a new sentiment abroad in this land which recognizes the interests of communities and that there is a sentiment which demands protection of the interests of communities against all spoliation, against conspiracy and against combinations of every sort. I am against every abuse of community interests for the sake of private advantage. I did something in New York along that line and I have not changed my mind a bit in regard to it."
Never Hauled It Down.
"I also believe that regulation and supervision by the government is a mockery unless it is just and square with the facts. I put that flag up in New York also and I never hauled it down—and I never propose to."
There again it is the question of studying the facts, of analyzing the actual conditions and coming to conclusions that are fair. What men are afraid of in this country, on one side and the other of a great controversy, is that they will in some way be taken to task, and each side is inclined to push up its side just a little above what is fair and right. Now, let us have the confidence of honest people that it is going to protect the public to maintain individual rights and that it is going to have justice reign in this country—not because it will help you as against this one or that one; not because it will enable you to get this or that, but because it is justice and because on justice must be founded the lasting prosperity of this nation.

Have Passed That Day

"I would have understood that we have passed the day when we had to restrict what was legitimate in order to crush out what was illegitimate and unfair and illegal. We can protect ourselves against every kind of monopolistic practices without meddling."
"We must not scoff at that which makes production possible and expands trade. We must cut where there is abuse, and cut in order that we may prepare the way for healthy action."
"While we cannot live by surgery alone, we can live if we have surgery clean, skillful; surgery where necessary, and that is to build up and make the patient healthy, to set him on his feet, to clear the path for his success."
Mr. Hughes spoke before his second audience of the night at the Shriners' auditorium. The first was an overflow crowd that stretched from curb to curb of the wide street outside for nearly a block.
In his brief address to the overflow crowd the nominee reiterated his views on the tariff, preparedness, dominant Americanism and industrial co-operation.

Inside the auditorium, the nominee faced an audience of which one half was women. Half of the three hundred members of the reception committee seated on the platform, it was officially announced were progressives, the others republicans.

Russ Avery, a former progressive, introduced the chairman of the meeting, Stoddard Jess, banker and republican leader of this city.
In closing his address the nominee said he claimed the support of all "republicans and all progressives" in his campaign.
Mr. Hughes left here at 10:15 for Sacramento where he will speak tomorrow night.
In his address here Mr. Hughes said in part:
"This is not an ordinary campaign. We are to determine in a crucial period whether we shall halt or advance; whether we shall have fostering, ennobling, encouraging policies, or whether we shall enter, wavering, half-hearted and uncertain into the experience which we are sure to meet when the great European war is over."
Devoted to Peace.
"I shrink from the contemplation of the horrors of that war. I am devoted to the ideals of peace and I look with the deepest sense of dismay at the conflict abroad. But at worst, we know that the nations at war have not gone mad; that they are prosecuting their policies and that each nation thinks it has had to take the position it has taken."
"There will emerge from that war a new Europe, which must be met by a new America. We cannot meet the exigencies which are before us unless we have a patriotic conscience of our power and of our unity."
"I desire to see throughout this great land a dominant sense of national unity rising above all differences of race and creed, and inspiring us to a co-operation with the single design to build up and maintain the honor and the prosperity of the United States."

Mr. Hughes spoke of commercial conditions which he thought would prevail after the war

"Then let the United States be warned," he said. "Then let the United States take count of its resources, its talents, its strength, its capacity for co-operation, its self knowledge. Then let the United States arise and in this commercial rivalry prove itself big and strong enough, with a sense of fellowship deep enough, to hold its own worthily among the nations as an exponent of power and efficiency under popular government."
"Let us lay the foundations broad and deep. This is not the question of a day. This is not the question of a few years. We must plan for a long period ahead."
"Our national conditions or, rather, our conditions of national greatness, must be looked at in connection with the betterment of human life for what

Nebraska's Grape Harvest Starts in the Southeast

Stella, Neb., Aug. 22.—(Special)—The grape harvest has started in southeastern Nebraska, and on the local market the price is 5 cents a pound. At Peru, northeast of Stella, large quantities are being shipped, and several hundreds of baskets are daily loaded on the trains at that station.
The grape crop is more than fairly good wherever there are vines.

Fashions For Fall

Fifth Avenue and the Rue de Paree pass in review. The styles that have received the stamp of approval of the most famous old and new world coutourieres are arriving here daily in Omaha.

If one could close her eyes and have a voiced description of the styles seen, together with an imaginative setting where Fashion's devotees parade, the mind picture would appeal vividly in this manner:
Modish Dresses of satin, taffeta or serge and combination find the high favor that their worthiness entitles them to.

Look more closely—one of the most important and pleasing features that Fashion reveals this Fall is the embroidered and Beaded Decorations.

"One of the smartest things I have seen on Fifth Avenue," said the Woman Who Knows, "are the beaded bags that go to match the decoration upon these new dresses."

This vogue for embroidery and beading is indulged in to such a large extent that the well-dressed woman on Fifth Avenue passes with a trimming of fringe on the side of her dress that is at once striking and effective.

Flowing Veils from small hats reveal the accepted vogue for motor wear.

SO PASSES THE REVUE—and the swift transit of these styles from the home of their origination to their presentation in this store enables the women of Omaha to enjoy the vogue of the minute with scarcely any intermission between the conception of the idea and the revelation of the gown itself.

Furs find favor as never before. Miladi must have of necessity a complete set of furs in addition to the fur trimmed garments that Fashion puts her seal upon.

BUT—the Tailored Suit with its never varying appeal to trimness, smartness and wonderful utility value, is not to be sidetracked for any of the newer fads that Fashion offers. Therefore, it is not surprising to have an announcement like this—

The Brandeis Apparel Stores offer a wide assortment of Tailored Suits—the types that every woman knows as the most reliable wear for her Fall wardrobe.

Positive information permits us to announce that for early wear Gabardines and Serges (principally in navy) will be the favorites. Later on "When the Leaves Begin to Fall" Duvetynes, Broadcloths, Velours and a host of other likeable fabrics will be shown in the smartest gowns.

Put your thoughts into action. The mirror we have held up before you is simply a reflection—the actual garments are here for your early Fall wear. It would be wise indeed to inspect them now.
