KAWS TAKE A FALL OUT OF ROURKELETS

Krug's Men Make Errors When Topesks Make Hits and Contest Goes to Enemy.

MILLER BATS A THOUSAND

The well known Topesks started on a winning streak yesterday. They won their second consecutive game. The Rourkelets were the victims, 10 to 7. And as the pesky Links batted the Joesies into a helpless pulp, the Holmes aggregation gained back the game they lost Monday. Curses. Just how the Topesks licked our heroes is somewhat uncertain. Fans, who attended the game, have only a hazy recollection of what happened. About the best explanation is that they swiped it when the Rourkelets weren't looking. Omaha outthit the enemy, amassing thirteen blows to the Kawes twelve, but the Rourkelets also made two errors. Cecil Thompson was the first victim. A young man named Tony DeFazio, who inhales spaghetti and says Victor Emmanuel is the greatest man in the world, was the gent who put a crimp in Cecil. Tony, while Thompson was working, made three hits, sent three runs over with those hits and scored three runs himself. Tony didn't have so much luck when Lou North assumed the hurling burden. Miller in Form. Ray Miller was the only Rourke who did any slugging to speak of. He made four hits and one sacrifice fly out of as many trips to the rubber. Three of the hits were doubles. In the ninth inning Ray threw a scare into Bill Lathrop that so shattered Bill's nerves he had to be derelicted out of the pastime. With two men on, Ray lifted the pill over the right field fence, but it went foul a couple of feet. Then Ray hit a double, but the double only scored one run and Hall, who relieved Lathrop here, ended the agony by whiffing Krueger with the assistance of Ump Krueger.

Twenty Head of Horses Burn in Kearney Fire

Kearney, Neb., Aug. 22.—(Special Telegram.)—Fire, starting about 2 o'clock this morning, totally destroyed the barn on Eighteenth and Central, and it is thought that about twenty head of horses were also consumed in the flames. Ed Wolford, who was employed to look after the horses, was not to be found during the fire, and it is possible that he, too, was a victim of the flames, as he slept in one corner of the old structure. The horses were the property of Frank St. Clair. The barn is an old structure and was the property of a man by the name of McInish of Auburn.
