Cinderella and her pumpkin coach are this season traveling with the Ringling Brothers' circus. The story of her adventures is told in a great spectacle, numbering a cast of more than 1,000 characters and a ballet of dancing girls dressed for all the world like the pictures in the nursery tales. The gigantic pantomime will open the program in the main tent at the Paul and Twenty-first streets show grounds next Monday afternoon and night. When the curtain has fallen on the last scene of the spectacle, the circus will begin. This is said to enlist the aid of approximately 400 performers. Harlan County Has Prize Irrigation by Pumping Plant

Alma, Neb., Aug. 23.—(Special.)—According to a government expert on irrigation, who recently visited here, W. A. Sharpnack has one of the only successfully operated small acreage irrigated farms in his territory, which comprises Kansas, Colorado and Nebraska. The water is pumped from one well by a centrifugal pump operated by gas engine and a windmill pump with a 10x18-inch cylinder. The water is carried by underground tile to all parts of the place and brought to the surface at seven openings or standpipes. The place is a quarter of a mile south of town and is a good example of intensified farming and produces more than 160-acre farms even at the present price of wheat. Potatoes run from $96 to $200 per acre. Sweet potatoes, onions, cabbage, tomatoes, strawberries and cherries are the principal products and the work is handled by four men, including the ice business from the pond in winter.
