

GRIST OF TRAFFIC VIOLATORS FINED

Jitney Driver Hauled Into Court Just in Time to Get an X Assessment.

THE CHARGES ARE VARIED

Paul Berger, a jitney driver, was last but not least of the automobile drivers who faced the police judge Friday morning. The highest fine assessed before 11 o'clock was $5, for speeding and reckless driving. The fine for passing a street car had been $2.50 all the morning. At 11:15 Berger was brought in and attempted to argue with the judge as to his guilt. He was fined $10 and costs.

Those fined $5 and costs for speeding were: Harry Baldwin, 202 North Seventeenth street; D. B. Cumming, 2925 North Forty-seventh avenue; F. W. Farney, 2515 Jones street; L. C. Smith, 6008 Main street; George Naylor, 1109 Farnam street. H. Peterson, 1819 North Twenty-first street, paid $2.50 for speeding. Frank Selby, 702 Keeling building, and Arthur Peterson, Twenty-fourth and Cumming streets, did not answer a "Golden rule summons" for speeding and warrants were issued for their arrest. A warrant was issued for C. E. Miller, 1007 Leavenworth, who did not answer a summons for operating bright lights on paved streets.

Fined for Passing Car.

H. Goodrich was fined $2.50 for passing a street car. William Armstrong, 3602 South Twentieth street, paid the same amount for a similar offense.

R. L. Dunn, 5005 Military avenue, and J. F. Taylor were fined $1 and costs, each for violations of the boulevard ordinance. L. D. Willis, 1002 South Thirty-sixth street, faced the judge for the third time within two weeks and was fined $1 and costs for bright lights on his car. The first two offenses were illegal parking of his car and he received a suspended sentence the first time and a $1 fine the second time. P. M. Martin, 2417 Farnam street, paid $1 and costs for bright lights, as did Ted Savidge, 1029 North Twenty-sixth street.

Cupid Shoots His Darts Twice Into Tom Kelly's Office

Cupid has invaded Tom Kelly's office with the Travelers' Insurance company. Not only that—he spurred on a matrimonial race between Lester Caldwell, insurance adjuster that was, and Bert John Hull, insurance adjuster that is.

Last week announcement was made that Mr. Caldwell's marriage to Miss Norma Gasper of Milwaukee would take place Saturday of this week, after which the young people would go on to Hartford, Conn., to live.

Mr. Hull of Duluth came down to take Mr. Caldwell's place, but stopped enroute at Minneapolis Wednesday long enough to marry Miss Wilma Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harvey Reed. Miss Reed is a Delta Gamma sorority girl from the University of Minnesota. The young people are now at the Fontainebleau.

"All the unmarried folks in the office have their hands up!" says Mr. Kelly. "They're afraid of another arrow."

Minne Lusa Sewer Of Unique Design

Commissioner Jardine, in charge of the public improvements department, is trying out a new idea in connection with the twelve-foot storm water sewer being constructed along Minne Lusa avenue. The sewer is twelve feet across and seven and one-half feet deep, of box type. A twenty-foot paved roadway will rest directly on top of the sewer and the connection between sewer and roadway will be such that in times of unusual flow in the sewer the excess flow may be carried off by means of surface drainage without damage to manholes, as frequently happens in times of unusual rainfall.

A twenty-foot roadway will be laid on the avenue east of the sewer and between the two roadways will be a thirty-seven-foot parkway.

Omaha Wheat Market Returns to Normal

After two weeks of unusual activity the Omaha wheat market, like that of Chicago and elsewhere, returned to normal and prices were steady to unchanged. Prices ranged from $1.44@1.49. There were 751 carloads on the market, practically all grading No. 2 hard.

Corn was a cent off, due to perfect weather over the entire corn belt. Receipts were fifty-seven carloads and prices were 77 1/2 @ 80 1/4 per bushel.

Oats were unchanged, but in good demand, the sales being made at 43 @ 44c per bushel. Receipts were fifty-eight carloads.

George Cowton Has Old School Chum in Trenches

George Cowton, deputy clerk of the federal court at Grand Island, is in Omaha. He is showing friends a letter he just received from his old school chum, W. H. Clarkson, who is with the British forces in France. They were schoolmates at Scarborough, England. Clarkson was wounded in the Dardanelles campaign and spent some time in a hospital in Egypt. He is now with the Lewis machine gun section in France.

"We are in billets most of the time now," he writes, "sleeping in barns and in rooms in houses. I had a bed with clean sheets for two nights, but was able to sleep just as well as I would on the ground or a bunch of straw."

New Books

TREES SHRUBS VINES AND HERBACEOUS PERENNIALS. By John Kirtland, assisted by Dr. H. T. Fernald and Prof. E. A. White. Boston, Williams Bookstore Company, Williams Building. Price $2.50.

In the preparation of this volume, the purpose continually in the mind of the author has been to afford a simple and convenient reference book of the ornamental trees and shrubs and plants hardy in this climate; simple, yet concise, a guide valuable not only to a amateur, but to the busy architect, gardener or plantsman as well. Its form has been suggested by the needs encountered during a long period of private and commercial association with plants, when the material here set forth would at times have been most useful. The author has earnestly endeavored to include whatever information the average householder needs to enable him to make a selection of such trees and plants as are best adapted to his purposes, and to aid him in properly caring for the grounds about his home.

SHAKESPEARE AND PRECIOUS STONES. By George Frederic Kings. Philadelphia, B. L. Lippincott company, $1.25.

The known references of precious stones in Shakespeare's works with comments as to the origin of his material, the knowledge of the poet concerning precious stones and references as to where the precious stones of his time came from. As no writer has made a more beautiful and telling use of precious stones in his verse than did Shakespeare the author believed that if these references could be gathered together for comparison with quotation and if this were done from authentic and early editions of the great dramatist-poet's works, it would give the literary and historical student a better understanding as to what gems were used in Shakespeare's time and in what terms he referred to them. This has been done here and comparisons are made with precious stones of the present time, showing what mines were known and gems were worn in Shakespeare's day, and also something of those that were not known then, but are known at this time.

HOMER'S AUTOMOBILE HANDBOOK. By J. E. Homans. New York, Sully & Klinton, $1.00.

This book is a wonderfully complete summary, within the limits of a volume of moderate size, of the principles of construction and operation of a gasoline motor car and engine. Like other books produced by its author, it is distinctly readable and characterized by lucid and thorough explanations of matters unfamiliar to the average reader. Few books that have appeared of late are better calculated to inform, also to interest, while imparting information.

FROM NATURE FORWARD. By Harriet Doane Egerton. Philadelphia, J. B. Lippincott Company, $2.99. (Morocco leather cover.)

This book is for those who desire the peace, health and success that are vital to every thinker of today. Mrs. Prentiss has drawn her inspiration and conclusions from the open book of life and her words will bring comfort and broad explanations to struggling men and women. She is absolutely nonsectarian, prejudiced to no special cause, it is because of this that her book will be enjoyed by all denominations as nature is enjoyed by every lover of the beautiful.

AMERICAN PROSE. By Walter C. Bronson. The University of Chicago Press, $1.50.

A companion volume to Prof. Bronson's widely and favorably known anthology, American Poems. This volume of representative selections from the prose literature of our country will quickly take its place as a standard book for classroom use as well as for private reading. Clear and attractive in typography, American Prose contains a fund of highly interesting material, the selections covering the period 1607-1865 and including the work of thirty-seven authors.

RETAIL SELLING. By James W. Fisk. New York, Harper & Bros., $1.00.

Mr. Fisk has utilized the results of large and active business experience as well as his mastery of business literature in the preparation of this alert, suggestive book on the various phases of selling. He writes to the point, without waste of words, presenting succinctly ideas and methods which will be immediately useful to every man in retail business, and to students who wish to acquire a practical knowledge of the subject.

HAY FEVER. By William C. Hollopeter. M. D. New York, Funk & Wagnall's, $1.35 net.

A book for laymen as well as physicians, by a man of the highest professional medical standing, who has made special study of, and has been wonderfully successful in, the treatment of hay fever. Every hay fever victim should know what is its history, what are the causes of it, how it may be prevented, and what its treatment should be.

PORE-ARMED. By Granville Fortescue. Philadelphia, John C. Winston Co.

Since many citizens of the United States have become convinced of the necessity of preparedness against war, this book is presented in order to make available information as to the methods in use in other countries, where preparedness has long been accepted in principle and practice. From the experience of other nations, we may receive the light wherewith to resolve our own problem.

EXPERT AUCTION. By E. V. Shepard, New York, Harper & Brothers, $1.25.

The author is a recognized authority on the game. He stands in the front rank of auction experts. He has delved more deeply than any other player into the probabilities and basic principles of the game. "Expert Auction" clearly shows you how adepts actually bid and play their hands. It shows them where they can do still better. It is suited alike to the needs of the beginner and the rated player.

IF YE PULPIT THE LAW. By A. H. W. New York, G. P. Putnam's Sons, $1.50.

A universal royal law pre-supposes a universal sovereign. The authority which gives validity to this law is vested in Christ. If we could unite, asks the author, in our aim and purpose, to destroy all that which now destroys us, should we not be fulfilling the law of Christ, the royal law?

CHRISTIAN CERTAINTIES. By Julia K. Booth. New York, The New Church Press, 7

To reinstate the truths of the Christian religion in the light of their own intrinsic greatness, and to urge their value for the man of today, who, more than ever, is feeling the need of eternal principles in facing the chaotic conditions of these times is the two-fold purpose of this little volume.

THE FARM MORTGAGE HAND BOOK. By Kingman Scott Robins. New York, Doubleday Page & Co.

A book of facts regarding the methods by which the farmers of Canada and the United States are financed. Especially intended for investors seeking information regarding investments in farm mortgages.

THE MAN OF POWER. By Lynn Broad Hooper. New York, 130 Fifth Avenue, The Abingdon Press, 75 cents.

Twelve brief and graphic sketches of the characteristics of the efficient life. There is an interesting and vital treatment of such subjects as mind, conscience, will and emotion; a discussion of social and professional efficiency, and a chapter each on the efficient churchman and the efficient citizen.

THEOSOPHY AND NEW THOUGHT. By Henry C. Sheldon. New York, The Abingdon Press, 50 cents.

A keen and critical analysis of these modern cults. While not overlooking the good points and the elements of truth, the weaknesses and fallacies are clearly portrayed. The author treats his subject with judicial fairness and with fidelity to the principles of philosophy and religion.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES. By Woodrow Wilson. New York, Harper & Bros., 50 cents.

This vivid portrayal of "The President of the United States," which appears now for the first time in separate form, was written by Woodrow Wilson when he was president of Princeton university in 1908. At that time he had no thought that he would occupy the great office of which he wrote. It is, therefore, of peculiar interest to note how theory and practice have met.

THE WAR FOR THE WORLD. By Israel Zangwill. New York, The MacMillan Co., $1.50.

Before all modern Europe was involved in warfare, Israel Zangwill was wont to speculate on war and its effects—witness his play, "The War

God." Now, he writes a book about war while England, where he makes his home, is in the heat of battle, and, as was to be expected, he does not say the conventional thing—he has new ideas and he is unafraid. He goes at his subject bravely to be frank and honest with himself and his readers. Altogether the volume is a unique and permanent addition to literature.

THE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE. By Herbert Welch, Thomas Nicholson and Henry Churchill King. 130 Fifth Avenue, New York, The Methodist Book Concern, 50 cents.

Addresses delivered at the Allegheny College centennial. They deal with various phases of the Christian college, and will be of special value to educators; also to all who seek to understand the reasons for the founding of such institutions and the necessity for their continuance. Here, too, will be found valuable material for educational addresses.

A LAST MEMORY OF ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON. By Charlotte Easton. New York, Thomas Y. Crowell company, 50 cents.

This is a quiet home visit, and the author is seen at close range, through the glamor of an avowed worshiper; but few could come in contact with so great a soul—a man who preached and practiced optimism under stress that would have made lesser spirits crack—without sharing the present writer's enthusiasm for the man himself, no less than for his work.

SELLING THINGS. By Orison Sweet Marston. New York, Thomas Y. Crowell company, 50 cents.

Sales managers welcome this book. It can be used as the basis of weekly sales talks or sent as a gift, it will be a guide and inspiration to the men on the road. The more highly trained and the more generously endowed, naturally, the salesman may be, the more he will appreciate "Selling Things." It makes you love the work. It inspires enthusiasm, it gives confidence, it imparts the power to persuade.

PLAIN FACTS ABOUT MEXICO. By George J. Hagar. New York, Harper & Bros., 50 cents.

A convenient summary of the natural, racial, economic, industrial and institutional conditions in this country of vast possibilities; a book which answers the questions everyone is asking.

Magazine Notes.

The serial story "Bonnie May," by Louis Dodge, is completed in the August number of Scribner's, which also contains "Feet of Gold," by Gordon Arthur Smith; "Chavero," by James B. Connolly; "The Colyum Conductor," by Arthur Chapman, and many other interesting articles and stories. Everybody's for August contains the first of a group of short stories by Booth Tarkington, the author of "Penrod" and "Seventeen," entitled "The Second Name for Vreederburgh." It also contains "Alicia and Little Moses," the story of a match-making spider by George Weston. A feature of Harper's for August is the story by Elizabeth Jordan, "Phillip's Furnis Man," introducing three beautiful characters one a child. In this issue also is an article regarding the roundup in Chienyue by Charles Wellington Furlong. Another good story is "The Pearl," by W. D. Howells.

In the September Women's Home Companion "Billy Foster and the Snow Queen" comes to a very satisfactory and interesting end, while the reader's attention is called to a sweet story entitled "Welcome to Our City," by Annie Hamilton Donnell, the story revolving around the mistake of a well-meaning and lovable small boy. In all other respects the magazine is, as always, full of topics absorbing to women.

There are so many articles of interest in the Mothers' Magazine for September that it is hard to pick out ones for special mention. Of unusual interest is one of the Bettleboro stories by Clara E. Laughlin entitled "When Ellie Slammed the Door," "Professional Training for Motherhood," by Zora Gale, is also instructive, while "The Child's Sense of Humor," by Laura Spencer Porter brings up interesting facts in regard to children, and should be read by all mothers.

Sturges's for September contains an article by Oliver Simmons which will be found entertaining by those interested in inventions and inventors. It gives a description of Edison's methods when he has an invention in the making. The article is entitled "Edison and his Insomnia Squad." "The Double Life of Judge Nevers" is an unusual story, in a way unreal, yet will be read with enjoyment. You will find in Scribner's for September "A Tale of the Mississippi," by James B. Connolly; "Verdun," by Captain X; Sothern's reminiscences of Charles Frohman and Richard Mansfield, also a number of very interesting articles of fiction well worth the reading.

To anyone who wishes to be informed as to the latest inventions, the most up-to-date happenings in the mechanical world, Popular Mechanics will prove to be a source of everything desired in that line. You will be informed, in the September number about paper raincoats that can be folded up like a handkerchief and carried in pocket or handbag. You will find out how violet rays are used to purify the water in a swimming pool in St. Louis. Many other items of extreme interest are shown in this excellent magazine.

Another Stiff Sentence for Man Toting a Revolver

Admission that he had carried a revolver when he, with his pal, entered the store room of John Holst, 2702 Cumming street, east John Sigedi a stiff sentence in the penitentiary when arraigned before Judge Sears the second time Friday.

"One to three years at hard labor," said the judge.

"Thank you very much, sir," replied the prisoner.

Sigedi pleaded not guilty Thursday, but after thinking it over during the night, requested that he be brought into court Friday to change his plea to guilty. Sigedi is the fifth prisoner charged with carrying concealed weapons to suffer the sting of stiff sentences in the courts' campaign against holdup men.

G. L. HAMMER BURIED BESIDE HIS WIFE

Prominent Business Man Who Died from Injury in Omaha Easter Tornado.

FRIENDS ATTEND FUNERAL

Funeral services for George L. Hammer were held at his late residence, 3027 Farnam street, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

They were attended by a great number of his personal and business friends and by many employees of the Byrne & Hammer Dry Goods company, of which he was vice president.

The wholesale house closed at noon. Rev. E. D. Jenkins of the Presbyterian Theological seminary officiated. He referred to the fine character of Mr. Hammer, his devotion to his home and the church, his diligence in business. Mr. Hammer was an active member of the First Presbyterian church. The pastor, Rev. E. H. Jenks, was unable to conduct the services because of absence from the city.

Interment was in Forest Lawn cemetery, beside the body of his wife, who died last November.

No Contagious Diseases Reported for Six Days

Chief Clerk Harrington of the city health office is not boasting about it, but the records show that during the last six days not one case of contagious or infectious disease has been reported to the health department. This is an unusual showing.
