EXAMINER CLAYTON IS GIVEN DISCHARGE

Democratic Insurance Official Relieved for Borrowing of Companies Examined.

BOARD MEMBERS ARE MUM

(From a Staff Correspondent.) Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 7.—Special Telegram—C. S. Clayton, insurance examiner since the democratic board came into power two years ago, has been deposed by the board, the latter alleging unbusinesslike conduct on the part of Clayton in that he borrowed money of officials of insurance companies when it was his duty to examine such companies.

Clayton admits that he borrowed over $100 of John G. Mahler, president of the Old Line company and Rees Wilkinson of another company. He also made a report of the condition of a company of which Joe Wait of Lincoln is president, the complimentary part of the report being used by the company for advertising purposes before the report was made to the insurance board.

Clayton alleges that the trouble is a personal one between himself and Insurance Commissioner Eastham, but just the same he will "defeat the whole bunch this fall." The board consists of Governor Morehead, State Auditor Smith, and Attorney General Reed.

Neither Governor Morehead, the insurance commissioner or the other members of the board will talk. But it is understood that they have been suspicious that Clayton has not been conducting himself with the decorum required of the board in purely financial matters. Other members of the office force with Examiner Harry Sprague will do the examining until a new man is appointed.

SOUTH SIDE AFFAIRS

Young Robber, Disappointed in Receiving Cash, Comes Back Second Time.

THEN IS FRIGHTENED AWAY

Making good his threat that he would be back again at 9 o'clock, a young robber who entered the small grocery of Mrs. Lena Alfred, 4443 South Thirteenth street, at 8:15 o'clock and rifled the cash drawer, later returned, but for some reason escaped after he had gained the door. Mrs. B. L. Johnson, sister of Mrs. Alfred, was in charge of the store all alone on the first visit, but her husband had returned home when the robber made his second appearance.

Shortly after 8 o'clock two young men, one dressed in a black slouch hat and a sport shirt, who wore no coat, and the other dressed in a light gray suit with cap to match, entered the store. Asking the location of "Lane" street, the taller one dressed in a gray suit, advanced to the counter, selected a cigar and then asked for gum. He was shown to the gum case and failed to find the proper brand. He received the gum, and as he handed over 7 cents pay pulled a small revolver at the time.

"Hands up," he demanded. Mrs. Johnson complied and held her place behind the counter until the young robber had come around into the back and opened the cash drawer. When he found less than half a dollar in small change he became very angry. "I've a notion to cuff your head good," he growled. A butcher knife was lying on the table in the rear room at his back. He picked this up and made advances on the woman. She pleaded with him and he threw down the knife and backed toward the door. As he backed out he said: "I'll be back at 9 o'clock. Better watch for the train when it gets in at the railroad yards." He and his pal disappeared. Mrs. Johnson called the police and officers were rushed to the scene. No clue was discovered.

On the second visit the man returned alone. He fled up Thirteenth street, walking rapidly north. Several boys who were detained by the police to watch the store until Mr. Johnson returned, said the man disappeared in one of the big ravines on either side of the street. It is believed that he boarded a northbound street car.

The same grocery store, occupied by Mrs. Alfred, who is now in a hospital, following an operation performed yesterday afternoon, was robbed several months ago by unmasked bandits. Mrs. Johnson lives in the North Side and is keeping the store in the absence of Mrs. Alfred. Mr. Johnson was at the hospital visiting Mrs. Alfred when the robbery occurred.

Death of Mrs. Gilchrist.

Mrs. Richard Gilchrist, aged 72 years, widow of a well-known stockman who died two years ago, died Tuesday evening in Chicago. She is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Arch Coleman, Chicago; Mrs. A. L. Brainard, Los Angeles; Miss Nora Gilchrist, Omaha; Mrs. F. L. Scott, Norfolk, and two brothers, W. F. Gilchrist, Sioux City, and C. H. Gilchrist, Fort Dodge, Ia.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilchrist came to Omaha in 1887. Mr. Gilchrist engaged at once in the stock business and was one of the pioneers in the business. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Wheeler Memorial church at Twenty-third and J streets. Rev. R. L. Wheeler will officiate.

Norris Becomes Booster.

Senator George W. Norris is numbered among the national boosters of the Young Men's Hughes and Fairbanks club. A letter was received yesterday from the senator by the chairman of the educational committee offering hearty cooperation in the boosting of the club.

Most of the members of the club automatically become members of the National Hughes alliance, the nationwide organization for the best interests of the presidential nominee. Assistance from the national and state republican committees has already been applied for with the best success.

Senator Norris wrote that he expects to be in the state campaign in the interests of the state committee for several weeks. He promised to confer with club leaders at such time as he will be in Omaha. Members of the club hope to secure him as a speaker at one of their rally meetings during the campaign.

Held to District Court.

Adam Brenza and John Sprazas, two young men living at 3431 T street, who were arrested charged with breaking and entering the home of James Bartha, 3439 T street, Tuesday morning shortly after 11 o'clock, were bound over to the district court by Judge Reed under $500 bonds. In the preliminary testimony offered by Antonia Bartha, 16-year-old girl, who came home while the robbers are alleged to have been within the house in another room, there was no mention made of a gun nor were either of the two men identified.

Mr. Helen Yasen, 18-year-old housewife, who lives next door to the Bartha home, positively identified John Sprazas as one who left the house fifteen minutes before Miss Bartha appeared to spread the alarm. Mrs. Yasen declared that the noise Sprazas made locking the kitchen door behind him caused her to investigate.

Detective Allen told the court that Adam Brenza confessed to having been in the home. The confession was not denied by Brenza, who was in the court room.

Edward Gillen Dead.

Edward Gillen, one of the men who helped to draw up first incorporation papers of the village of South Omaha, and early pioneer of Nebraska, died this morning at 10 o'clock at the home of his son, John J. Gillen, 5126 South Thirtieth avenue. He had been ill for several years suffering from diseases of old age.

Mr. Gillen came to South Omaha in the year 1887. He was a native of Tyrone county, Ireland. In the early days of Omaha he was one of the contractors who built the Union Pacific railroad bridge over the Missouri river, which is now to be torn down or sold. He associated with the earliest of Nebraska pioneers and took an important part in public affairs during his life.

He is survived by a sister, Mary Magdeline, who lives in St. Louis, and one son, John J. Gillen, former city treasurer of South Omaha and at present United States inspector of Mr. Gillen lived in the South Side all his life except three winters spent in San Antonio, Tex., where he went for his health. He was 66 years of age. His sister, Mary Gillen, who left for St. Louis last week after a three weeks' companionship at his bedside, has been telegraphed and will return to Omaha at once.

Plans for Swine Show.

Advance plans for the big National swine show, which will be staged in the local horse and mule barns north of the stock yards, during Ak-Sar-Ben week, were discussed from a local standpoint by Secretary W. H. Shellberg of the exhibit. The latter returned from a day's visit to the state fair at Lincoln yesterday morning and had much to report of the agricultural and swine exhibits at the state show. While at the state capital, Mr. Shellberg conferred with Dean Burnett of the Nebraska State Agricultural school. The live stock division of this institution plans to be well represented at the swine show.

Afer Garbage Haulers.

"These people have got to learn that garbage is not to be unloaded until they reach the end of the road at the river's edge." Thus spake Health Representative Henry Schmeling this morning in police court when one evader of the law dared to defy him before the judge. H. Walnski, driver of a truck for the Yogie grocery store at 2510 Q street, had been summoned into court charged with dumping garbage in the wrong place.

"This is a free country," Walnski began to say, when Henry broke in

HEATED REMARKS HEARD IN SENATE

Members Quarrel Angrily Over Owen Corrupt Practices Measure.

ASHURST GROWS PERSONAL

Washington, Sept. 7.—While the senate was waiting yesterday on the revenue bill conferees, the Owen corrupt practices bill was taken up and made the vehicle for several hours of acrimonious political debate. Democrats and republicans indulged in personal exchanges and regaled their fellow senators with accounts of campaign contributions and the rewards given some contributors in the past.

The vote to take up the bill was 32 to 14, nine republicans voting with the majority to consider the measure and seven democrats voting against it. Senator Owen, its author, tonight cancelled a speaking engagement before the Ohio democratic convention, to remain here and fight for its adoption. It probably will be taken up again before noon tomorrow and the Oklahoma senator intends to keep it before the senate until a vote is secured or, what is more probable, adjournment is forced by the leaders.

Near Personal Combat.

Senators Curtis of Kansas, republican, and Ashurst of Arizona, democrat, furnished the excitement of the day's debate in an interchange which looked for a few minutes as if it might result in a personal encounter.

The bill would restrict campaign expenditures of candidates for the senate, the house and for the presidency and vice presidency to a greater extent than existing law. Senator Curtis argued that such a measure passed when a campaign is half over might work unfairly against men who have already spent the stipulated amount. He advocated a more stringent law than that proposed and one that would particularly restrict the use of the congressional frank to prevent senators or representatives from sending out campaign appeals at government expense. He read a letter from Senator Ashurst to a constituent reciting his record as a basis for support and said he understood that 70,000 of these had been franked out, in violation of the privilege.

Sweetbreads for Brains.

"If the senator charges that this is a violation of the law," said Senator Ashurst, when he got the floor, "he has sweetbreads for brains."

He explained that his letter had been submitted and approved by the postmaster general and one of his assistants as being matter which could be franked and told how former President Taft, when in the Philippines, and Secretary of War Root exchanged cablegrams at 52 cents a word paid by the government to discuss Mr. Taft's health and a horse-back ride. Calling Senator Curtis the "Pharisee from Kansas," he strode back across the center aisle and shook his finger under Senator Curtis' nose. Senator Root seated just between the two moved back in mock alarm as Senator Ashurst approached. Senator Curtis smiled, but kept his seat. A little later Mr. Ashurst turned on Senator Penrose, who said he had noticed a "copper lobby" around the capitol, whose members had been talking with the Arizona senator. "If," said Mr. Ashurst, "the senator means to say that my vote has been influenced by a copper lobby or any other lobby, he lies." Several senators objected to this language and Senator Ashurst explained he had said "if" and agreed to withdraw his remark.
