The Busy Bees : : Their Own Page

COOL September weather is a boon to Busy Bees. To offset the opening of school, which it must be confessed is not always relished by little boys and girls after their long summer vacations, there are many good times in store.

This month and next are excellent months for hiking parties. There is nothing half so enjoyable as a long walk into the country. Just now the countryside is brilliant with stately sunflowers, lavender thistles and goldenrod, while the trees are beginning to put on their red, green and brown colored dresses. The air seems clearer, the sky bluer and the birds seem to carol more joyously away from the city.

Votes for the Busy Bee election are coming belatedly into the office. Several votes for the reelection of Ruth Ribbel, the last queen of the page, have been received and there are other votes as well.

Nellie Kincaid of the Red side wins the prize book this week. Honorable mention is awarded the new queen, Miriam Mosher, and Elsie Tews of the Blue side.

Little Stories by Little Folk

(Prize Story) Winter is Coming. Nellie Kincaid, Kearney, Neb., Aged 14 Years, Red Side. The Maple is clothed in a gown of red. The leaves are falling brown and dead. The birds are singing their farewell notes. And sit and plume their new fall coats.

(Honorable Mention) From the New Queen. Miriam Mosher, 2959 Farnam Street, Omaha, Neb.; Aged 12 Years; Blue Side. I wish to thank the Busy Bee's and also our editor for electing me queen. I will try and fill my office the best I can. Below is a story I am sending from a well-known proverb.

There was once a king, known far and wide for his great wealth and kindness. One day he was out hunting with his attendants and he saw a beautiful deer dart gracefully by him. Before he had time to aim, the deer was gone.

Having set his mind on having it, he told his attendants to wait for him, that he was going to hunt the deer but would be back presently. He had only followed the deer a short distance when out of the bushes sprang a band of robbers and captured the king. They lived on the top of a high hill in a beautiful castle they had built from the money they had stolen.

The king after having been put in his cell was looking drearily out of the window when he saw a little sparrow twittering joyfully. The king then thought, "Better be a free bird than a captive king."

small sons, Bosworth and Harry, have returned from a short visit in Denver. Little Marjorie Bell Moore celebrated her sixth birthday last Saturday afternoon by a party at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Marsh and family have returned from their summer's outing.

Dundee people having supper at Happy Hollow last Sunday were: H. G. Brown, with four reservations; A. C. Pancoast, five; W. E. Rhoades, four; O. P. Goodman, three; E. E. Kimberly, four, and J. H. Conrad, six.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. George are home from a few days spent at Excelsior Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wagner have taken rooms in the new Hartle apartments.

Mr. James W. Hamilton left on Wednesday for a trip to Colorado points.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ferguson and Miss Olive Ferguson have returned from a motoring trip covering several states.

The Dundee Woman's Bowling club met Wednesday at Happy Hollow for luncheon and the game.

turned on him and drove him within a hundred yards of where our neighbor was working. The coyotes and dog chased one another all forenoon.

After dinner our neighbor took his shotgun, called the dog and went to the field where the coyotes had been all forenoon. He saw one of the coyotes and set the dog on him, expecting the coyote to chase the dog back near enough so that he could shoot him. But it seemed that the coyote suspected treachery and would not come within two hundred yards. After several ineffective efforts to draw the coyote, but really too far away for a dog up to a draw and hid himself to await the coyote as he chased the dog back.

After a long wait he observed the coyote, but really too far away for a sure shot. After waiting a long while for the coyote to come close he thought he would try a shot anyway, and was surprised to see the coyote fall over dead.

I will cast my vote for Florence Steward.

Blackbird Bites Finger. By Ray Stott, Aged 12 Years, Palmer, Neb., Blue Side. I am going to tell you about a blackbird that flew in our upstairs window.

One day as I started to go into the house I heard something fluttering above my head. I looked up and saw something black light on the sill of the window; it went inside of the house, so I ran upstairs and saw that it was a blackbird. I chased it until it flew behind a picture.

Then I caught it and took it out of the house and put a streak of blue paint across its back. Then it bit my finger, so I let go of it, and it flew away and I have not seen it since. This is a true story.

Likes Prize Book. By Muriel Steed, Aged 12 Years, Blair, Neb., Red Side. I desire to express my thanks for the book I received, with which I was very much pleased. The name of it is "The Pioneer."

I will write again to this happy page and would be glad to correspond with any of the Busy Bees. I send my vote for Stella Rogert as queen, because her many stories and poems are very interesting.

Home from Vacation. By Leona Walter, Aged 10 Years, Wahoo, Neb., Blue Side. Will you please send my prize book to Wahoo, as it is my present home. I was just visiting my aunt in Albion, but I am home now. So if you have not sent it to Albion, kindly send it to Wahoo. I will write to the page tomorrow.

Garden Profits. A Boston man who lives in Wakefield and does intensive farming said to a friend the other day: "I got three bushels of potatoes out of that little garden of mine this year."

"That's a pretty good showing."

"I should say it was. Why, I only planted four bushels."—Boston Transcript.

When Electricity Goes in, the For Rent Sign Goes Out

The easiest way to rent that old house, Mr. Landlord, is to modernize it by wiring for Electricity.

Tenants nowadays demand Electricity in their home. It means better home life—more comfort, more cheer, more convenience.

You Can Wire Your Old House at a Small Expense

The investment will pay attractive dividends in the form of increased rental and sure tenants.

A vacant dwelling is a losing proposition for you—nothing coming in, property depreciating.

Wire that old house now and see how quickly you can take down that For Rent sign. Our contract department will explain how cheaply your house can be wired.
