Grain Stored Here Increases 2,000,000 Bushels Last Week

While Omaha grain shipments continue heavy, stocks in storage keep on increasing. This is due in large measure to the fact that large quantities of grain are being sold, but held in storage here until later in the year, when delivery will be made. The total increase in stocks in storage since a week ago is 2,008,000 bushels. The stocks in local elevators now and on this date one year ago are:

	Nov. 1915	Year ago
Wheat	2,244,000	185,000
Corn	115,000	30,000
Oats	112,000	171,000
Rye	26,000	2,000
Barley	25,000	19,000
Totals	3,522,000	437,000

The big increase, it will be noted, is in wheat, with oats a second. This is the first time during the year when the corn in storage has exceeded that of last year. This condition, however, is not expected to maintain, as already inquiries are being made for large quantities to be sent south and southwest. It is expected to begin moving within a couple of weeks.

Woman's Gun Holds Man Until Police Arrive to Get Him

Brought to bay by a revolver in the hands of a woman, Arnon Goldberg was forced to await arrival of the police, who wanted him on a serious charge. The woman is Mrs. William Simeral, 2215 Burt street, Minnie Seides, a domestic in the employ of Mrs. Simeral, was the victim of Goldberg's assault, the police say. The alleged assault occurred Saturday morning when Goldberg, who used to room at the Nebraska Lodging house, applied at the Simeral place for a room. Miss Seides showed him the room, and it was there the assault is alleged to have been committed. He immediately left the house, but returned in the afternoon. Again he had fled before the police could get there. Monday afternoon when Goldberg appeared at the door, Mrs. Simeral leveled a revolver at him and kept him covered. Goldberg was paroled last May when he faced a robbery charge.

Albright Pastor Wants City's Help On Social Center

Rev. Edmund Silverbrand, pastor of the Lefler Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, Albright, has asked the city council to co-operate in the establishment of a social center in the Mandan park district. "We have the backing and indorsement of the South Side Improvement club and it is our aim to make this social center interdenominational in the best sense," said the South Side minister. "We will keep it open every evening and on Sunday, maintain a reading room, have programs and work for the social and educational welfare of the community. Several Roman Catholics are with us on this, so you see it will be a real community proposition." If a legal way may be found to lend a helping hand, the city commissioners will render assistance in this worthy project. It is proposed to establish this social center in a basement to be built under the Lefler church.

Tunes of Scotland Played by Blind Man Bring Tears

A blind man was sitting Sunday night at the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Dodge street, nervously strumming an old guitar. A crowd quickly gathered to hear his scant repertoire of popular songs. Into the front of the audience a big man elbowed his way. His coat was torn, his hat ragged and his face was unshaven. "Play that Scotch piece, 'My Bonnie Jean,' will you, friend?" the newcomer asked abruptly. "I sure will," said the blind musician. "I know what's the matter with you." The big man in the tattered clothes made no reply. The piece was played and he dropped 35 cents into the music-maker's hat. Once more the sightless player went through his repertoire. "I can't give you nothing for it, friend, but will you play that Bonnie Jean song again?" It was the same, raw-boned man talking. The blind man started to comply with the request and the man who asked for it walked nervously to the edge of the crowd. The song finished, he returned to thank the blind musician. But there were tears in his eyes and tears in his voice and he couldn't talk. He reached down, shook the guitar player's hand and walked up Dodge street.

South Siders Protest On Buying Playgrounds

Judge Caldwell of the South Side informed the city commissioners at a meeting of the city council committee of the whole that residents of a forty-acre cemetery would not thank the city officials for establishing a proposed playground on a tract between Q and R streets, from Twenty-eighth to Twenty-ninth streets. A large delegation of South Side people protested against the plan of condemning this property and assessing the cost against an improvement district of a comparatively few property owners. The ordinance was laid over six months, as Mayor Dahlgren and Commissioner Hummel held that it would be advisable to secure legislation on the subject this winter and thus make it possible to pay the cost out of the general fund of the city.

PRISONER KICKS ON HIS NICKNAME

And in the Mixup in Jail is Beaten So He is Sent to the Hospital.

UP FOR BEATING HIS WIFE

When Arthur Endicott, charged with assault and battery for alleged beating of his wife, Ruth, was dubbed "Apricots" by other prisoners in the county jail Sunday trouble started. The nickname rolled Arthur and he swung on a husky Portuguese prisoner. Arms and legs intermingled for fifteen minutes despite attempts of jailers to stop the imbroglio, and Arthur is now being treated for numerous injuries at the county hospital. He was in such condition that he was unable to appear when his case was called.

Endicott was arrested by deputy sheriffs on complaint of his wife. When he was lodged in the county jail he had not recovered from his pugacious attitude and Jailer Schroeder placed him in the juvenile ward. Prisoners held for trial are forced to don the yellow khaki garb, but Endicott was allowed to wear his street clothes. While seated on a cot in the juvenile department Endicott shouted justly to the jailer demanding that the spittoon be moved closer to him. He made a series of demands that annoyed attendants and he was then placed in tier No. 1 among other prisoners bound over from lower courts awaiting trial at the September term. The battle was then staged. Arthur is the second of the Endicott brothers arrested on charges filed by Ruth Endicott alleging unlawful attacks. Leonard was arrested July 3 by Deputy O'Connor and after being held in the county jail was dismissed on motion of County Attorney Magney. Relatives appealed to County Attorney Magney, some urging prosecution of Arthur Endicott and others begging his release.
