WOMEN ARE CARRIED AWAY

London, Sept. 13.—The Bulgarian troops, which took the Danube fortress of Silistria, in Roumania, capture of which was announced by the German war office Sunday, apparently did not take prisoner any considerable number of Roumanians. The official Bulgarian statement of September 11 received here today, says the Roumanians retired "on both sides of the Danube, pursued by our cavalry." (Although this translation of the Bulgarian statement, if taken literally, indicates that the Bulgarians have forced a passage of the Danube, it is improbable that the Bulgarian office meant to convey this meaning. The report of the following day makes no mention of any such operation.)

New York, Sept. 13.—The wireless version of the Bulgarian official statement of September 11 contains the following in addition to the statement as cabled by the way of London:

While driving a motor car carrying Serbs commissioned to go to the Bulgarian line for a conference Mr. Tancock and his passengers were fired upon. He was forced to get out of his car and crouch by the roadside to avoid being hit by the bullets which continually whizzed over his head.

Cares for the Orphans

Sailing to Newcastle, the party arrived in London April 3. After spending six weeks in the English metropolis the Omaha boy went to Corsica and took charge of nearly 1,000 refugees, for the most part children who had lost their parents in the war.

High Cost of Living

High prices for foodstuffs prevail in Serbia, according to young Tancock, sugar at times reaching a retail price of $1 a pound. He said that other staples sold at correspondingly high prices. With the reorganizing of the railway systems of the country relief is expected, Mr. Tancock said.

Whether the mine operators will accept the men back on their old jobs is not known.

MITCHEL'S PLAN TO SETTLE STRIKE FLATLY REJECTED

STATEMENT BY SHONTS

"We Will Not Let Outsiders Come Between Us and Our Employees," He Says.

FEW SURFACE CARS RUN

New York, Sept. 13.—The Interborough Rapid Transit and the New York Railways company formally rejected today the public service commission's recommendation for a strike settlement made yesterday. The two companies, controlling the subway, elevated and "green car" surface lines, declined to hold further conferences with representatives of the union and announced that it is their intention to continue to operate their lines on the present basis.

Test of the Answer

The formal rejection, presented by Richard R. Rogers, general counsel to the two companies, read: "The Interborough Rapid Transit company respectfully represents to the commission that it cannot arbitrate its rights to enter into agreements with 10,306 of its employees out of a total of 11,800 when the employees who have signed are content with those agreements and are endeavoring to carry them out in good faith."

Union for Arbitration

Following the reply of the traction companies, the strikers through William B. Fitzgerald, general organizer of the Amalgamated Association of Electric Street Railway Employees, informed the commission that the strikers could not accede to the request of the commission to bring the strike to a termination in view of the stand taken by the traction companies. He accepted in behalf of the union the recommendation that the questions at issue be submitted to arbitration.
