

THREE INJURED IN AN AUTO UPSET

Omaha People Pinned Beneath Car When It Turns Turtle Near Sioux City.

IN SIOUX CITY HOSPITAL

Charles Henderson, a conductor on the West Leavenworth street car line and Misses Ruth and Sadie Myers, sisters, 612 Hickory street, all of this city, were injured in an automobile accident twelve miles this side of Sioux City and all three are now in the German Lutheran hospital in Sioux City.

According to a telephone report from the hospital, the injuries of Mr. Henderson consist of a number of cuts and bruises. Miss Sadie Myers, who was sitting with Mr. Henderson in the front seat of the machine, escaped with a few bruises and a badly sprained ankle, while her sister, Miss Ruth, who was in the back seat, was more seriously injured than either of the others. She sustained a broken arm, numerous bruises on the body and cuts that required fifteen stitches.

Machine Turns Turtle.

The three young people were on their way to Huron, S. D., to visit friends and relatives. Twelve miles south of Sioux City, Mr. Henderson turned out of a road to pass a team and, in doing so, his machine went into a ditch four feet deep, completely covered by grass and weeds that had been cut and thrown into it. The machine turned turtle, pinning the occupants underneath. The farmer whom they were passing stopped and tried to extricate them from the wreckage, but was unable to do so. He went to the homes of some farmers a half mile away and secured help to lift the machine off the victims. Afterward, one of the farmers took them in his automobile to Sioux City. Henderson and the Myers sisters left Omaha on their South Dakota trip Wednesday noon. At the time of the accident, they were going at a speed of about four miles per hour.

Book Reviews

THE LOCUST FLOWER. By Pauline Brooks Quinton. Boston, Sherman French & Co. $1.25.

I commend these little plays to those who are slipped by the fire-side on winter evenings, and whose fancy still sparkles with an ingenious delight and whose hearts still beat with a human joy which the jewelled bosoms of society have lost or never knew.—George C. Hazelton, jr.

THE LOOK OF EAGLES. By John Talbot Fooks. New York, D. Appleton & Co. 50 cents.

Do you want a real horse story. This is one. It is short, but every line and every paragraph breathes forth such love for horses and such knowledge of them that one's interest is held most steadily to the very end and the only regret one feels is that the story is so short. There is also a little pathos connected with the young race horse who never won the glory that was meant for him, on account of his "look of eagles," because he ran the race of his life with his master on his back to fetch the doctor for the beloved mistress who, in spite of the sacrifice, died, and the young horse, with strained tendons and with the small bones in his legs broken, was able only to be the "father of noted racers."

BALLADS AND LYRICS. By Eldredge Denison. Boston, Sherman French & Co. $1.25.

A book of poems by one who sings for the very joy of it. Sincerity of poetic feeling combines with marked skill and rhyme and rhythm to express and interpret in genuinely poetic form the poet's moods and fancies. There is no attempt at intricate verse forms, no bizarre imagery or striving after bizarre effects, and nothing of the "near-shocking."

THE HOUSE ON THE HILL. By Frederick A. Wright. Sherman French & Co. $1.00.

The contents of this volume are so lyric in character that it might well be declared a book of songs. The poems are intended to bear the same relation to poetry that a melody bears to music. They are full of feeling, as every melody must be if it is worth the singing. Love of men, women, children, friends, home, earth, sea, sky, clouds, winds, love of life in this world and all other worlds, love of beauty, strength, goodness, love of God of whom all of these are parts—such is the passion which gave these poems birth.

FOUR THINGS THERE ARE, and other poems. By May Stranathan. Boston, Sherman French & Co. $1.00.

There is a passage in John Macfie's "Everlasting Mercy" in which he tells of seeing, after his conversion, a camp of gypsies, and speaks of gypsy souls who prefer to remain outside rather than give up their freedom. So these poems have been written outside of any model or precedent, and without any known influence or convention either of style or matter. They might well, therefore, have been entitled "Gypsy Verses."

THE RISING TIDE. By Margaret Deland. New York, Harper & Bros. $1.25.

This is the story of a very modern young woman in revolt against the restrictions which bound women in the past. Imbued with an extremely frank and truthful nature, she sometimes unintentionally offends, but her naturally sweet, frank nature triumphs in the end. Believing in woman's suffrage and the rights of women to be free to do as men do, she makes the proposal of marriage and is rejected, but in the end finds possibly a better fate than the one that had seemed all to be desired.

A SLAV SOUL, and other stories. By Alexander Kuprin. New York, G. P. Putnam's Sons. $1.50.

This volume consists of fifteen stories selected after a careful reading of his works—those which make him a great writer. Here is Kuprin's humor, sentiment, pathos and delightful and entertaining verbosity. His is a rank verbiage—he gives birth to words, ideas, examples, in tens where other writers go by units and threes.

THE IMPOSSIBLE MRS. BELLEVUE. By David Lisle. New York, Frederick A. Stokes Company. $1.50.

Is a woman, having once strayed, right to accept the love of a good man and her chance for happiness or must her past and the world's judgment keep her down forever. This much-discussed question forms the basis of this extremely interesting novel, the scene of which is laid in Monte Carlo, and the heroine, Mrs. Bellevue, a lovely and lovable character, who has been indiscreet, but who has great possibilities for good, which are discovered by the beautiful character, Dr. Helstan, father of the man who finds that, having loved her when he thought her an innocent young woman, finds that even after hearing her story he is unable to give her up. The climax, showing great sacrifice on the part of the heroine and described in a heart-touching way, will be found of exceeding interest and the ending is all that could be hoped for. THE GIRL AT BIG LOON POST. By George Van Schaick. Boston, Small, Maynard & Co. $1.25.

A deeply moving story of great north woods, of life and love at a Hudson Bay trading post of chivalry and intrigue of bravery and devotion. The author knows his country and a few ritters can compete with him as a story teller in his chosen field. Like his previous books, the new novel is marked by an unaffected sincerity—which adds zest to the reader's pleasure. It is a remarkable story of sincere love between two people of entirely different races—the white man and the Indian maiden.

THE VAN HAAVENS. By C. Hilton-Turvey. Boston, Small, Maynard & Co. $1.25.

This might be called the story of a family. The elder Van Haavens would have spoken of the family—and would have allowed modern life to engulf them even while they resented its encroachments. On the shoulders of young Willoughby Van Haavens fell all the burden of sustaining the family in its struggles with the world and the story of his fight is inspiring. The book is a novel in the best sense of that much abused word; it is many-sided in its presentation of human nature and the author's insight into life stimulates the reader's interest to the ultimate satisfaction, unforced enthusiasm and complete enjoyment.

THE HAUSPRAU RAMPANT. By E. V. Lucas. New York, George H. Doran Company. $1.20.

This is a translation, a condensation of the famous German letters "The Buchholz Family," a German classic of the 70's by Dr. Julius Stinde, reminiscent of Dickens and not unlike the popular series "The Peterkin Family." A delightful amusing book which should be of interest to all lovers of German literature. "Like Barry Pain's 'Eliza,'" says Mr. Lucas in his introduction, "The Buchholz Letters" started out to be purely funny, but were too much for their author, and became by flashes real documents.

THE GIRL PHILLIPA. By Robert W. Chambers. New York, Appleton & Co. $1.40.

Yesterday she was but a slip of a girl leading the uneventful life of a cashier in a little French cafe near the border of Belgium. Today she is deeply involved in one of the most desperate struggles ever waged by the secret service systems of Europe. Such is the suddenness with which the Girl Philippa is thrust by fate into the center of the momentous events which precede the European war. An English officer, an American artist, a Sister of Charity and the Girl Philippa are the chief figures in the story. Dramatic incident piles on incident with bewildering rapidity, and there is always that delightful touch of romance which has made Mr. Chambers a favorite with a million readers.

TISH. By Mary Roberts Rinehart. Boston, Houghton, Mifflin Company. $1.50.

Letitia Carberry, or Tish, as she is called by her intimates, Lizzy and Aggy, is an adventurous and surprisingly active and eccentric spinster. The chronicle of her escapades and excursions in which she is invariably accompanied by these two ancient cronies, is full of humorous surprises and laughable situations. In short, she is the most amusing and popular of all the characters of Mrs. Rinehart's versatile imagination and one of whom readers never tire.

THE THIRTIETH COMMANDMENT. By Rupert Hughes. New York, Harper & Bros. $1.40.

The eternal conflict between finance and romance is the subject of this brilliant new novel of metropolitan life. An absorbing story of a beautiful, lovable, spirited modern girl, who, having discovered how often the checkbook's groan drowns the love song, made up her mind to give up love or to make money herself.

TEN BEAUTIFUL YEARS! By Mary Knight Potter. Philadelphia, J. B. Lippincott Company. $1.25.

Artists, nurses, wives, husbands, mothers, fathers, men and women whom we know, in their loves and sacrifices, in their yearnings and disappointments, they are the subjects of these stories. They are subtle, but convincing; they are serious, but entrancing. The author, with an amazing delicacy, and a too rare artistry, has carried on with distinction the splendid tradition of the American short story. All who have an appreciation of this fascinating literary form will find in "Ten Beautiful Years" a feast for the imagination, a fund of stimulating enlightenment.

WHEN A MAN'S A MAN. By Harold Bell Wright. Book Supply Company. $1.25.

No one needs question the ability of the author of "The Shepherd of the Hills" to write a beautiful, interesting story which appeals to the heart of the reader and this, his latest book, certainly makes a strong appeal. The leading character, Honorable Patches, is one of the most beautiful characters, combining the gentleness and courtesy of a "real gentleman" with the natural "grit" of a genuine cowboy raised on the plains. One can only say that it is a pity such a noble character received so little return for his nobility, in fact, the writer should favor the public with a sequel telling the further life of this unusual man. The other characters, while notable in their own way, are secondary to the man who, although he never rode a horse in his life, mounted the wild "Stranger" and smilingly took his life in his hands and, when thrown, was willing to try again.

Magazine Notes.

As an aid to knowledge of the political situation and up-to-date happenings, the World's Work is very valuable. Extremely interesting in the September issue is the article on Mayor Mitchell of New York and the illustrations accompanying same. The article on Louis W. Hill, the successor of the great "Jim" Hill, the railroad magnate, is of leading value, and the shorter items in regard to political affairs are worthy of mention.

Of interest in the September Popular Science Monthly, especially while attention is centered on affairs at Washington, is the description of the Senator's subway; the monorail car, which quickly carries officials from the senate building and the house of representatives to the capitol. Also, as moving pictures are quite an interesting feature of the day, and as one is always looking for "thrillers," the description of how under-the-water films are taken will be found worthy of note.

ROW JANICE DAY WON. By Helen Beecher Lane. New York, Gully & Kleinteich. $1.25.

Readers of the previous "Janice Day" books will be eager to welcome the third volume in the "Da, Something" series. The book, while melodramatic in its intensity, has many delightful touches of down east quaintness and humor, and, taken as a whole, will undoubtedly place the gifted author where she rightfully belongs—among the leading fiction writers of the day.

Seaboard Getting Large Shipments of Omaha Wheat

Omaha dealers discharged a quarter of a million bushels of wheat today, 200,000 bushels going to the seaboard for export and 50,000 to the Minneapolis mills. The wheat going to Minneapolis is sold for December delivery, on track in Omaha, and at a price 1 cent above Chicago on the date of delivery. The premium is due to the superior grade of wheat coming to the Omaha market.

The slump that started in wheat prices during the Thursday session continued today and sales were made at $1.45 1/2 @ 1.51, a drop of 3 to 4 cents. Receipts were 127 carloads.

Corn advanced one-half cent and sold at 80 1/2 @ 81 1/2 cents per bushel. Receipts for the day were 22 carloads.

Oats were strong and a quarter to a half up, selling at 42 3/4 @ 43 1/2 cents per bushel. The receipts were 53 carloads.

ACIDS IN THE SYSTEM

Acids accumulating in the system in excess, poison the blood and cause a great variety of diseases, affecting the skin and other mucous surfaces, the heart and arteries, brain and general nervous system, joints and muscles.

Some of these diseases are Rheumatism in its many forms, Catarrh, Eczema, Hives, itching and burning of the skin, dizziness, mental depression and a variety of other ailments. You must eliminate the acid from your system and purify your blood before you can be rid of your trouble. S. S. has been purifying and nourishing the blood for over half a century. It is also a very efficient tonic and being purely vegetable, it is the most efficient agent known in the cleansing of the blood and toning up of the system.

AFTER PROHIBITION—WHAT?

A well-known Nebraska Building Contractor says:

"Tell the Home Owners and Business Men of Nebraska something about the DECREASE in property values, and the INCREASE in taxes that follow in the wake of state-wide prohibition."

THE PROOF

Excerpts from editorial in Nashville, Tenn., "Banner" (Tennessee adopted Prohibition in 1908)

 "There is no disputing the fact that property values in Nashville have depreciated. Property recently sold at public auction has been knocked off to bidders at a figure far less than the assessed valuation."

"The oppressive tax rate has brought to Nashville innumerable vacant houses, many of them on the most desirable residence streets. The man of small means is practically prohibited from owning his home, and the city taxes have made it no longer profitable for the owners of rental property."

That's What Prohibition Does to Home Owners and to Owners of Business Property.
