Command Respect. "Nearly every man present remem-bers how he was obliged to pound with his fists one or two of his play-mates before they would respect him. But these incidents were so rare and the necessity for their use so seldom that only a small fraction of the re-spect of playmates was obtained through force. So also the major portion of the respect that comes to men and nations is derived in other ways. To this general rule universi-ties and university students are no exceptions.

ties and university students are no exceptions. Terhaps the most characteristic difference between a university and any other organization is that the for-mer must stand at all times for abso-tute truth. States may exist and do a still be permeated with corruption. We are free to admit this in connection with any system of government other than our own, and many of our fel-low citizens do not make an exception in this respect. So also religious ays-terms full of error may do much for the welfare of mankind. "At the current rate of mining," the brief says, "the coal areas of the companies, thus leagued and combined together, according to the generally accepted calculations of geologists and mining engineers, will outlast by many years those of any ompetitor. In time, therefore, this combination if not dissolved will own or control every ton of commercially available anthracite known to exist, and whilst in almost any other branch of indus-try it is at least possible for a mon-oply of anthracite, the supply of which is limited, there can be no such pro-tection—only the law can afford re-lief." ## NEW POLICY IS INDICATED

London, Sept. 19 .- The Wireless Press today gave out a Berne dispatch quoting the Suddeutsche Zeiung to the effect that the German great general staff has been moved from the western to the eastern front.

The great German headquarters which directs operations on all fronts and at which the emperor and chief of staff spend much of their time was and at which the emperor and chief of staff spend much of their time was in Belgium in the early weeks of the war and subsequently was moved to northern France. In the spring of 1915 it was at a town near Lille. Ac-cording to unofficial reports it was transferred later to a small village further east. Since the appointment of Field Marshall von Hindenburg as chief of Marshall von Hindenburg as chief of staff it has been reported that he de-sired to leave in France and Belgium sufficient men to hold the line and devote his energies to the east, for he is credited with the belief that it is on this front that the first conclusive victories must be won.

on this front that the first conclusive victories must be won. Last week he returned from France to the eastern front. It was also re-ported that Emperor William, Chan-cellor von Bethmann-Hollweg and representatives of Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey were at the east-ern headquarters for a conference which was to decide the shaping of the campaign in the east.

The correspondent went over the ground today where they went to it and saw where they stuck in trenches under shell fire which they had gained after their second charge and which were not in the original plan. The night before the battle the staff of-ficer in charge of that branch of the front showed the correspondent the Canadian objective. No home run was expected from them, but only a sac-rifice fly, to use base ball language, but they made a home run and brought in all the men on the bases. They gained their first objective in an uninterrupted dash absolutely on time.

an uninterrupted dash absolutely on time. There was the trench which the "Byng boys" held on the morning of the fifteenth, as the correspondent saw it today. Behind it and ahead of it shell craters were so thick that you could step from one to another. Hav-ing taken their objective, their part was finished, but General Byng de-cided, despite the complicated time table methods of a modern offensive, that he could go further. The com-manders of British corps of all kinds from Cockneys to the clerks, stock brokers and farm hands of the new army, made the same decision. So they worked in conjunction as every-thing in these big moves must be co-operation and team play. Capture of Courcelette.
