

M'ADOO WILL GIVE OMAHA SQUARE DEAL

Secretary of Treasury So Promises at Commercial Club Luncheon.

EXPLAINS FARM LOAN LAW

A M'ADOO STORY.
Secretary McAdoo told this story at a luncheon given in his honor at the Commercial club:
"A democratic friend of mine in the south was asked by his republican friend advice regarding the wisdom of the latter locating in Texas in the legal profession. The democratic friend made this reply, 'As an honest lawyer you will find no competition in Texas, and as a republican, you will be protected by the game laws.'"

"I anticipate by your eager and confident faces that you expect a farm loan bank in Omaha. There is no position that tempts me so to profanity as to have to be neutral, but Omaha is going to get a square deal," stated Hon. William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury of the United States, speaking at noon to a large gathering of men at the Commercial club.

The secretary gave a succinct and interesting explanation of the scope and operation of the farm loan bank law.

"The farm loan system is a reciprocating part of the credit mechanism of this country. It does not collide nor conflict, but rather dovetails in," continued the speaker.

Politics Has No Part.

"There is nothing political in these things," he added. "I have contempt for men who think only of legislation for the benefit of some political party. We should discuss economic problems as intelligent men, above partisanship, discarding political bias and prejudice. There is a splendid element of American citizenship that stands between the political parties and says to the party in power, 'Serve all of the people or you may never have another chance.' We need more of truth and less of misrepresentation. It is this independent element of our citizenship that is going to save our country from besetting ills."

"The prosperity of the country today is due largely to a responsive credit system, which enables business men to go forward with wholesome confidence. We have in the past failed to adequately organize the farm credit of the country."

Benefits the Farmers.

The speaker referred to the people of the west as vigorous, with a vision, and a citizenship which has been an inspiration to the people of the east. He explained that the farm loan banks will be for the benefit of the moderate and bona fide farmers and not for land speculators. He said that the federal reserve act has enlarged the credit resources of the country.

Introducing Secretary McAdoo, Gurdon W. Wattles said:

"There is a feeling of cordiality and good will on the part of the bankers of Omaha toward the farm loan banks. Omaha is the natural base for a farm loan bank. Prosperity has come to us in such a degree that we are no longer dependent on outsiders, but we realize that great benefits will accrue through the establishment of a farm loan bank here. It will relieve many from the results of misdirected information and will encourage saving in this community."

Secretary McAdoo was accorded a generous reception from the gathering of representative men of Omaha.

Woman Tips Police, Who Get Fast Plumbing Thieves

Plumbers may possess the reputation of slow workers, but plumbing thieves are speed kings. The solution is probably in the manner in which each hits the pipe.

Frank Delbridge, 1506 North Twenty-fourth street, and F. J. Myers, 2221 North Fifteenth street, were noted careening through the vacant residence of Charles Husters at 1610 North Twenty-seventh street. Mrs. Ida Rainwater, 1614 North Twenty-seventh street, saw them plucking plumbing as they careened, and phoned headquarters. The patrol arrived, but were too late to snare the offenders at this point, but a diligent search of the neighborhood revealed them completing operations in an untenanted mansion at 1011 North Twenty-ninth street. They were corralled.

Again Jelinek Will Try to Get That $20,000

When Judge Estel's court opened Friday morning Anton Jelinek again brought to trial his suit against the street railway company asking $20,000. This action has been buffeted about in the courts since 1911. Jelinek was awarded the judgment in district court; the case was appealed to supreme court and the decision reversed. The supreme court ordered the case returned to district court for retrial.

Jelinek complains that he was struck by a street car at Twenty-second and Cuming streets, January 24, 1911. His skull was fractured, the hearing in the right ear impaired and the sight of his right eye destroyed.

Saloon License Granted When Protest Withdrawn

James Cunningham's saloon license was renewed at the meeting of the county commissioners when the protest of George J. Neuman was withdrawn. Mr. Neuman complained that Cunningham, operating a saloon at 601 West Q street, had violated the 8 o'clock closing law and had disordered of intoxicants on the Sabbath. Without warning the protest was withdrawn and the license renewed. The license expired June 15 and the saloon has since been closed.

Not Forgetting His Side Line

Mac and Jim Slip Away From the Curious and Go to View the Movies

Where did Mayor Dahlman and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo go after the dinner tendered the cabinet officer last evening at Hotel Fontenelle? Did they go roller skating?

No. The secretary of the treasury of the United States of America whispered to the mayor of Omaha this thought: "I would like to go to a picture show."

It was 9 o'clock and the lobby of the great hotel was filled with persons who wanted to get a glimpse of the keeper of the national exchequer. And the keeper of the national "kale" was anxious to attend the movies.

Secretary McAdoo is addicted to the movies. It is his passion, and, of course, when he is away from home attending the farm loan hearings and other functions, they do say he is a regular devil for the movies.

Mac and the mayor slipped out of the hotel and in a few minutes they were enjoying the silent drama. The secretary is partial to films that have a kick in them, with a good laugh now and then. He likes to laugh and he thinks Charley Chaplin has a better job than a cabinet officer.

The mayor piloted the secretary around to a few of the movie theaters. Omaha is proving to be a veritable oasis for Secretary McAdoo and party, who have been out thirty-one days, and last night was the third night they slept in beds other than sleeping cars. The dinner last night was the second of the trip in which the menu did not include chicken.

"Just a trifle satiated with chicken," remarked the secretary. "The function was the first of the trip at which Mr. McAdoo did not have to speak."

"You bet we like Omaha," said Herbert Quick, who regards himself as a former Omahan. Mr. Quick has dispensed with his mustache.

Hughes Captures Interloper in Home

J. W. Hughes of the Uintah apartments was preparing to carve himself a portion of mashed potatoes Thursday evening, when he happened to glance toward his bedroom and discovered Ed Fitzgerald, interloper, canvassing his tweeds.

Hughes dropped his tools and then dropped Fitz, after which he telephoned police headquarters and awaited the limousine. Fitz was sent to jail for sixty days.

Big Rush to Rescue Justice Britt's Exiled Car

Justice of the Peace C. W. Britt is having his troubles.

Every mail brings a variety of padlock and skeleton keys from friends who sympathize with the justice in his affliction.
"I've got more keys than Omaha's largest hardware store. Each key carries a different notation and advice from the unknown donor," said the down-hearted justice. "It's all been brought about through my unfortunate losing of the key to the padlock on my garage. The two keys originally provided have been lost in the shuffle. Because of losing the keys my diver has been tied up behind the door of the garage. Then, again, on another occasion I entrusted the key to my wife after the door was locked and the machine placed in the garage. She, too, lost the key and it was necessary for me to rip the hasp and the padlock from the door in order to get the machine out. Now some evil-minded friends insist on rubbing salt in the wound by mailing me daily consignments of keys. I'm becoming a regulation locksmith. The collection includes every variety of keys from a watch key to a huge skeleton key about seven inches long."
