Bennett is Held For Impersonating Secret Service Man

Clarence E. Bennett, held by the federal authorities on a charge of impersonating a United States secret service man, was bound over to the federal grand jury following a hearing before United States Commissioner McLaughlin. His bond was fixed at $500.

The chief complaining witness, John P. Williams of Davenport, Ia., testified that he became acquainted with Bennett in an Omaha saloon. Afterward, according to Williams, Bennett represented himself to be a secret service man; the Davenport man also testified that his newly acquired "friend" tried to interest him in a Texas land proposition.

An obscene picture, said to have been in the possession of Williams and which Bennett threatened to "turn over to the government authorities," figured in the case.

Bennett was arrested last week by Hugh Mills, a secret service man.

HOSTESS IS MISS MAGEE

By A. R. GROH.

We Omaha folks know a thing or two about the farm. Which is natural, for do we not live in a city that draws its wealth from a "vast and fertile agricultural empire," as the booster litrachoor says?

Our agricultural wisdom was amply demonstrated Sunday, when a number of Omaha newspaper people were guests at Summer Hill farm.

The hostess was Miss Edith Field Magee, aged 3 months, and the finest baby ever born on this or any other planet.

Miss Magee was assisted by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Magee, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas.

The farm implement examination started right after the thirty-five guests had arrived. Arranged in a great circle in the barnyard were thirty-one different farm implements, and everybody was provided with a card and pencil and invited to name 'em.

Name All But One.

The prize winner got them all right but one, and the second prize winner all but two! How's that? Of course, there were a few slight errors, such as naming the grindstone a "spinning wheel" and the beehive a "berry crate" and the seed tester an "incubator." But these are mere trifles, not worthy of notice.

But look! Who are these three gentlemen who come from the bunk house wearing high silk hats and carrying long whips. As we live, they are our old friends, Miles Greenleaf, J. C. McArthur and "Charlie" Thomas. And they are thus arraked because they are going to be judges in the horse show. They take their places on the "judges' stand."

Now the barn door slides open and out comes a "sulky" (one of those two-wheeled things, you know) drawn by an honest farm nag and driven by Miss Margaret McShane. The horse's front legs are modestly clad in blue overalls.

Regular Horse Show.

To describe the laughter is quite beyond the powers of our weak typewriter. Two more "sulkeys" appeared drawn by similarly-clad horses and driven by Miss Mary Duffy and Mrs. Martin Harris.

Slowly, in regular horse show style, they drive thrice around the track and then stop their steeds skillfully before the stand of the august judges, where the ribbons are awarded amid great applause.

The next event on the program was a chicken race. Not a "chicken" race, but a chicken race. Miss Eva Mahoney, Miss Ella Fleischmann and Mrs. Roland Jones were the drivers. The feathered racers didn't enter at all into the spirit of the event, refusing even to keep to the track, so that eventually the fair contestants picked up the birds and ran to the finish. Great excitement!

Milk the Cows.

Three men now appeared clad in suits of spotless white and bearing tin pails. They were soon identified as Lester Heyn, Roland Jones and Martin Harris, and it was announced that they were going to milk the cows.

But this promise was never fulfilled, for the three cows in the corral respectfully but firmly declined to be milked by amateurs, though the milkers threatened, cajoled, entreated and murmured soft "so, bossies."

Then everybody went down, via hayrack, to the hog yard and watched the men feed the pigs, and Mr. Magee showed them over some other parts of the 1,600-acre ranch.

Dinner followed close upon this, a most novel and charming dinner. The room was decorated with cornstalks and lighted by Japanese lanterns and candles, and candles in pumpkins. The tables were decorated with autumn leaves and pumpkins.

It was a chicken dinner. 'Nuf sed. Again the powers of our weak typewriter fail at description. The feast of chicken mingled with the flow of soul. To record the "bright" things said would require at least seven columns. (Of course, they were newspaper people, so one would expect that, would not one?)

The little hostess had to leave for Slumberland before the dinner, but it is recorded here for her future information that she got three rousing cheers and any number of compliments.

Then back came these honest city farmers to town in the cool of a starlit evening.

Ada Weatherly is Placed on Trial for Killing Negro Rival

Accompanied by her spiritual adviser and surrounded by attorneys and court attaches, Ada Weatherly, a pale, haggard woman of 45, appeared in criminal court to face the charge of manslaughter for killing Minnie Wilson, colored, following a fight over the affections of her soul mate. Mrs. Weatherly will plead self-defense. According to the statement of her attorneys, Carl Benjamin and R. J. Madden, the Weatherly woman was attacked by Minnie Wilson with a rock. She declares she grabbed a butcher knife and stabbed the Wilson woman fatally to save her own life. Trouble arose at Sixth and Pacific at midnight June 18, when the rival women were disputing over the affections of Hayti Weatherly, the common law husband of the prisoner. Deputy County Attorney Ramsey is prosecuting.

Because he stoutly declared that he was prejudiced against racial intermarriage and protested against white women consorting with colored men, Police Officer Thomas was hastily dismissed from serving as a juror.

Legless and Armless Man Drives Gas Bike Across Continent

Despite the fact that he has no legs and but one arm, A. H. LeRoy of Los Angeles, who stopped in Omaha while on his way from New York, is on his third round trip across the continent with his motorcycle and sidecar. Minus three of his limbs, LeRoy makes the most of his misfortune and seems to enjoy himself immensely in the role of a seasoned tourist.

The motorcycle is a stock Harley-Davidson, with a few minor changes made so that it can be started by hand and the brakes operated by hand. In place of the customary saddle on the motorcycle, he has two hand levers for the magneto control and for the throttle. Sitting in the sidecar all of the controls are within easy reach.

Committees Meet to Make Plans for Visit Of President Wilson

The committee in charge of the plans for the reception of President Wilson on his visit to Omaha October 5 to review the historical parade met with the celebration committee at noon, details and their execution incident to President Wilson's stay here being worked out.

The program committee is composed of G. W. Wattles, chairman; Gould Dietz, Victor Rosewater, Everett Buckingham and G. M. Hitchcock.

John Lee Webster is chairman of the celebration committee.

It was decided that quarters for President Wilson while he is in Omaha will be arranged for at the Hotel Fontenelle.

Decatur Bank Claims Again Filed in Court

Claims growing out of the failure of the Farmers' State bank of Decatur are again attracting the attention of lawyers, claimants and state officials in Judge Day's court, Deputy Attorney General Barrett appearing for Nebraska to contest the payment of the amounts. Frank Iams of St. Paul, Neb., has employed John Lee Webster to aid him in collecting $12,000. The proposed Central State bank of Omaha claims $8,000, while Albert S. White of the proposed bank asks $45.25 as interest on the $8,000 loan. The Central National Life Insurance company claims $7,681.50.

Claims filed by the Central National Insurance company for $7,800 were Monday afternoon denied by Judge Day on the ground that certificates of deposit brought into court were duplicates and that the originals held by the officers had been paid once.

WHEAT SALES MARK UP A NEW RECORD

Bulk of Sales of Cash Wheat Are Made at Prices from $1.56 and $1.57.

DEMAND EATS UP RECEIPTS

The general run of cash wheat established the highest price in the history of the Omaha market when the bulk of the receipts sold around $1.56¼@1.56⅝, with the top at $1.57 per bushel. A couple of weeks ago a carload of wheat wanted specially for milling purposes, owing to its superior grade, sold up to $1.58 per bushel, but yesterday the bulk of the sales made a new top.

Wheat, here and elsewhere, owing to what was reported as an enormous milling demand, coupled with heavy buying for export, shot prices up 1½ to 2½ cents above those of Saturday. Receipts were heavy, being close to 200 carloads, and so good was the demand that the tables were cleared long before the closing hour of the exchange. The low price for the day was $1.51½, and this was on an off grade.

Corn did not go along in sympathy with wheat, the prices being ¼ higher to ½ a cent lower than Saturday. The sales were made at 78½@82¼ cents per bushel.

Oats were strong and ½ a cent up, selling at 44½@45½ cents per bushel, and the demand good.

Increase in Stocks.

The weekly report of the superintendent of storage showed a big increase in stocks on hand as compared with the corresponding date of one year ago. The figures in bushels:

	Now.	Year ago.
Wheat	1,812,000	142,000
Corn	73,000	104,000
Oats	1,814,000	212,000
Rye	39,000	7,000
Barley	87,000	21,000
Totals	3,864,000	486,000

The surplus stock of wheat continues about the same as a week ago, with the big gain in oats. Some large sales of oats were made late last week, but they did not move out of the elevators, and consequently they are figured as stocks in storage.

First Six Called to Jury Box Excused

When they declared they would be unable to deliver a fair and impartial verdict because the complainant had not taken out his second naturalization papers, although a resident of the United States for nine years, the first six men called to the jury box in Judge Redick's court in the trial of the case of Philip Bagato against the Great Western were dismissed. These men were William B. Taylor, Michael L. Clark, republican candidate for sheriff; George W. Rane, William H. Lyons, John T. Considine and William J. Miller.

Bagato is suing for $2,990 damages sustained when he was crushed by car wheels while loading a box car for the company at Oelwein, Ia. The accident occurred September 18, 1915. Attorneys for the railway declare that Bagato has already signed a release with the provisions that if he was re-employed and his hospital bills paid suit would be dropped.

Clark Powell Returns With Motor Show Ideas

Clarke G. Powell, secretary of the Omaha Auto Show association, has returned from a two weeks' trip through the east, where he picked up a number of ideas for both the motor exhibition in February and the closed car solon, which will be held the last of October.

Mr. Powell comes back with a decorating scheme for the auto show which he says will "knock Omaha to its knees."

"But there is one thing that attracted my attention more than anything else," said Mr. Powell, "that was the sucessful manner in which the traffic is handled in the eastern cities. There aren't any jay drivers or any jay walkers back there. And make the automobiles go about three times as fast as they do in Omaha. But the traffic is handled properly and motorist and pedestrian alike behave themselves. Omaha can learn a lot from the eastern cities."

To street car patrons:

At the request of the Ak-Sar-Ben Governors and the City Authorities, the routing of all cars on the South Omaha Line, during the Ak-Sar-Ben Carnival, will be changed in the downtown district, and cars will run as follows: From 17th and Cuming east to 16th, South to Webster, east to 15th and south to Howard. On northbound trips, from 15th and Howard to Webster, to 16th, to Cuming, to 17th.

This change is effective September 26, 1916.

We trust that none of our patrons will be seriously inconvenienced on account of this temporary change in routing.
