Street Speaking Is Barred During Ak-Sar-Ben Week

City Commissioner Hummel stood right up in council meeting when he discovered a filibuster to declare Jefferson square a prescribed public forum, where orators may dispense their propaganda without let or hindrance.

Mr. Hummel suggested that street speakers should be required to hire a hall, the Auditorium for instance.

The outcome of the discussion was that street speaking will be prohibited during the Ak-Sar-Ben season and not allowed at Fifteenth and Douglas streets on Saturday nights under any circumstances.

Business men on Douglas street protested against conditions which prevailed last Saturday evening, when three policemen diverted legitimate street travel from Fifteenth and Douglas streets.

Six-Cent Light Law Passed by Council

The city council unanimously passed an ordinance fixing 6 cents per kilowatt hour as the maximum for electric current in this city.

Commissioners Butler and Parks, who dissented in the committee of the whole meeting Monday morning, joined the majority upon passage of the measure.

Mr. Butler endeavored to have the 30 cents minimum charge stricken out, but the other commissioners believed this charge was reasonable.

The terms of the ordinance provide that the new rate shall become effective January 1, 1917.

Other provisions of the ordinance were announced Monday.

Corporation Counsel Lambert's report on the findings of the Commercial club's special committee was received and placed on file, and the city council's electric light committee, of which Mr. Lambert has been chairman, was dismissed from further service.

The proposed street lighting contract will be brought up for discussion next Monday morning.

Farmers Go to Wyoming To Locate Near Douglas

Officers of the Burlington immigration department are taking a party of twenty-five Iowa and Nebraska farmers to Douglas, Wyo., for the purpose of locating them on the lands north and west of the town.

In the locality where the Nebraskans and Iowans are going they are permitted to take homesteads of 320 acres each, living on the same six months of each year for a period of three and one-half years, and at the end of that time they may make final proof, having twelve acres under cultivation.

Much of the land in the vicinity of Douglas is within what the government has designated as a mineral zone. That the settlers may protect their rights and keep off oil and mineral prospectors, the government permits the occupants of the land to file for minerals, as well as for homestead purposes.

Mention of Mother Reaches Robber's Heart

A negro highwayman returned a gold watch to Harry Dudley, 665 North Central boulevard, Monday night after the robber had gained possession at the point of a gun. It happened at Thirty-second and Franklin streets.

"My mother gave me that watch and I have carried it with me for twenty-five years," pleaded Dudley. "You may have it then," said the negro. The highwayman relieved Dudley of certified check for $50 and a diamond stick pin.

Public Inspection of Creighton Gymnasium

A public inspection of the new gymnasium of Creighton university will be held Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5:30 o'clock. All Omaha is invited to attend and inspect the new gymnasium, which is one of the best and most completely equipped in the west.

JUDGES ARE NAMED FOR SWINE SHOW

Most Mammoth Undertaking of the Kind Ever Attempted Opens Next Monday.

MANY STATES TO EXHIBIT

There have been hog shows and hog shows held in the United States, but never a hog show so truly national in scope as the big National Swine show heralded for Omaha October 2 to 7, inclusive.

When the doors of the huge horse barns on the South Side are thrown open next Monday, visitors to the recognized greatest and most epoch-making porcine stock exposition ever attempted in North America will have the opportunity of feasting their eyes upon the sleekest, most beribboned and purest-blooded porkers in all hogdom.

Every swine raising state in the union is sending its finest hogs to the first annual National Swine show; one of the noteworthy facts in regard to the quality of the hogs entered here is that the mediocre and just good animals will be conspicuous by their absence; there will be nothing but the very best from their respective communities.

All Champions Here. Practically every state in the great corn belt will be presented by champions—champions that have earned the title of champion in competition with the cream of herds from the country round. In this way Greek will meet Greek in Omaha, and any hog leaving Omaha decorated with that significant bit of ribbon will be a national figure in hog circles—a champion undisputed.

Considerably more than 1,000 pens have been reserved for the assembling of pure-bloods. In fact, the enthusiasm of the National Swine Growers' association officials didn't near come up to the demands of the show, for it has been necessary to construct 300 more pens other than those in the horse barns, to take care of the entries.

Wealth Represented. The value of the hogs at the show will run well into the hundreds of thousands of dollars; some of them it will be impossible to buy at any price. The wealth of the breeders who will visit the show from all parts of the country is in the millions.

There will be many distinguished visitors at the show, one of them to be none other than President Wilson. The officials who have been named to determine the National Swine show destinies of the different breeders are as follows:

- Poland-China—Ray Davis of Maryville, Mo., breed superintendent; Charles A. Marker of Auburn, Ill., judge; Thomas A. Shattuck of Hastings, Neb., consulting judge. Jersey—Robert J. Evans of Chicago, breed superintendent; Prof. Herbert W. Mumford of Urbana, Ill., judge. Berkshire—Frank E. Springer of Springfield, Ill., breed superintendent; Wm. N. Loyd of Roscoe, Ill., judge. Chester-White—P. Moore of Rochester, Ind., breed superintendent; William A. Hoover of Okaloosa, Ia., judge; I. T. Cunningham of Xenia, O., consulting judge. Hampshire—E. C. Stone of Peoria, Ill., breed superintendent; A. L. Goodenough of Morrison, Ill., judge. Poland-China—Fred Obenchain of Ellettsville, Ind., breed superintendent; Colonel Thomas Vinnege of Indianapolis, Ind., judge.

Demand for Seats For the Retailers' Concert Course Big

"I never realized there could be such a demand for seats as there has been in the last week, or ten days," said L. C. Nash, one of the directors of the Associated Retailers' concert course.

"It certainly upholds my claim that the Omaha public enjoys and wants good music and is willing to pay for it, too."

"The demand for seats is so great that the committee in charge, consisting of George Brandeis, Mr. Belden and myself, have decided that unless all subscriptions have been returned for before October 1, the seat tickets will be placed on sale. This we believe is only in fairness to the music loving public, as well as the Associated Retailers, who are promoting the course."

"We are very anxious to make this season one of unbounded success and have secured as principals some of the world's most famous artists."

"It might be well to add that the prices being asked for the entire season, including the five numbers, are less than those asked for the two operas—Carman and Il Trovatore—in Tulsa, Okl. Just for the operas the prices there are $2 to $7 per seat for each performance, while those asked for the retailers here are but $4 to $10 for the entire course. And we must realize that Tulsa is a much smaller place than Omaha."

Must Have Got the Wires Crossed

WINDOW MEN PLAN TO DAZZLE OMAHA

Keep Plans for Week of Wonderful Windows Secret Until Night of Opening.

MONEY SPENT LAVISHLY

Window display men are very secretive creatures these days. For the window trimmers plan to startle all of Omaha Wednesday night when the "Week of Wonderful Windows" opens.

Not a word of what their windows will contain, what the decorative scheme will be or anything about their precious windows can be extracted from a single window trimmer.

All day Wednesday the windows of the big downtown retail stores will be curtained while the store artists summon all their skill, their knowledge, their wonderfully decorated windows Omaha ever saw. At 7 o'clock the shades will be drawn aside and the dazzling array unfolded to the public gaze.

Intense Rivalry Prevails. Intense rivalry prevails among the display men of the different stores to see which one can prepare the most attractive, beautiful and original showing. As a result every man is putting forth his very best effort and from an artistic standpoint the Omaha windows to be opened to the view of the public Wednesday night will be the equal of any ever shown in the United States.

Thousands of dollars will be spent by the retailers on this event.

The postoffice band will parade the downtown streets starting at 7 o'clock, the hour when the shades will be drawn, and the siren whistle will blow to announce the opening.

Wants Big Damages For Being Placed On Wrong Train

Suffering with pneumonia, anxious to leave El Paso, Tex., and return to her home in Omaha, Helen L. Cattin and her mother, Maude A. Cattin, were placed on board a train going in the opposite direction, toward California, and suffered injuries from which they will never recover, according to a petition just filed in district court here.

Helen, a girl of 14, asks the El Paso & Southwestern railway, the Burlington, the Pullman company and Receiver Dickinson of the Rock Island to pay $25,000 damages.

Miss Cattin was carried from the hotel to the station in an ambulance on a stretcher, she alleges, and after being placed on the California train was refused permission to leave at Columbus, N. M., by trainmen, because of the fear of another Mexican uprising. They were unloaded in the cold at Hachita, N. M., 175 miles from El Paso, and there suffered serious exposure, they assert.

BEATS WIFE TO DEATH AS CROWD LOOKS ON

Jesse Talbert, Colored, Pursues Woman Along Street and Murders Her.

THEN GIVES HIMSELF UP

Jesse Talbert, negro painter and paperhanger, living at 806 North Twenty-third street, chased his wife half a block, and when he overtook her at Twenty-third street and Cumming, murdered her in view of hundreds of passersby, at 7 o'clock last night. He struck her over the head with a base ball bat, crushing her skull, and when she fell, he swung again and again, breaking the bones in her body at each blow.

He then escaped, but in a few minutes appeared at police headquarters, where he surrendered himself to Captain M. F. Dempsey.

He said his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mattie Cook, started the trouble by stabbing him several times in the abdomen. He was bleeding profusely when examined by surgeons.

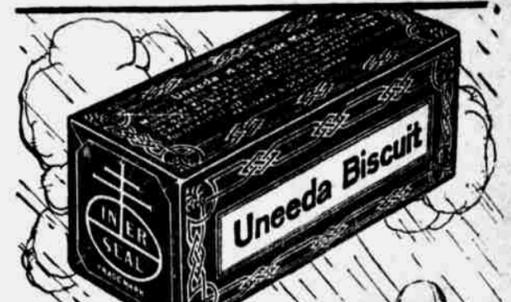

Mrs. Cook said Talbert came home "with a grouch on" and commenced to quarrel. The quarrel led to blows and the killing followed.

City to Move Against Slow Paving Contractors

The city council passed an ordinance which empowers the city engineer to take over public improvements in cases where the contractors do not live up to the time agreement as stipulated in contracts. The city has experienced considerable difficulty this year with dilatory contractor.

Chicken Thief Leaves Portion Of Trousers With Watchdog

Thieves gained entrance to the henhouse of William Kulus, 1709 Martha street, and made way with six fine chickens. Upon investigation Kulus found his watchdog chewing a portion of a man's blue serge trousers.
