CHEERING CROWDS GREET PRESIDENT ON WAY TO OMAHA

Wilson Refuses to Make Talks in Any of Cities as He is Speeding Westward to Nebraska.

PEOPLE WANT TO SEE HIM

President Will Consult Leaders at Chicago This Evening on Plans for Visit There.

NO REAR PLATFORM TALKS

Alliance, O., Oct. 4.—President Wilson was greeted by cheering crowds when he passed through the middle west en route to Omaha today. At Salem and Alliance, O., several thousand persons packed the railroad stations and applauded as Mr. Wilson stepped to the rear platform of his private car.

When the president awoke this morning he found several hundred telegrams from people along his route urging him to at least show himself. He was told he was very popular in Ohio and Indiana and the people wanted to see him. He was informed that if he would only consent to speak in several places for a few minutes large crowds could be gathered easily. He reiterated that he would make no speeches before reaching Omaha.

The president has selected three members of the board to investigate the railway eight-hour law. Announcement of their names will be made as soon as they have consented to serve.

Not Campaign Tour.

Canton, O., Oct. 4.—Speaking briefly here, President Wilson explained that he was not on a campaign tour. One man in the crowd greeted the president as "Eight-hour Wilson" and another called out, "Your greatest president since Lincoln."

"I am not making any speeches," said the president, "but it is extremely cheering to be greeted in such a way and so unexpectedly. It is the kind of hospitality that makes a man's heart very warm. I appreciate it and wish you all sorts of good luck. Give my regards to Senator Pomeroy."

Passes Through Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 4.—President Wilson passed through here early today en route to Omaha for his first middle western speech of his campaign. No prolonged stops were planned before his arrival at Chicago tonight. He will speak in Omaha tomorrow night.

In spite of persistent attempts on the part of democratic leaders to have the president deliver a number of rear platform speeches on the way to Omaha, he absolutely refused to make any such plans. The president took the position that he will not make a stumping tour to aid his campaign.

Mr. Wilson is making the trip on a special train. In his party are Mrs. Wilson, Secretary Tumulty, Dr. C. T. Grayson, the White House physician, and a corps of secret service men and stenographers.

Short Stop at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Informal conferences between President Wilson and western leaders of the democratic party are expected to take place tonight during the hour and a half he will be in Chicago on his trip to Omaha.

Local democratic leaders in conjunction with national committee officials today began work on plans for the visit of President Wilson to Chicago on October 19. Announcement was made by Judge Clarence N. Goodwin, head of the National Citizens League, who anticipates the meeting will be held at one of the most important of the president's campaign speeches is expected to be delivered here.

Invitations to the meeting which will be held at the Union Stock Yards pavilion at night, will be sent to 10,000 men and their wives who have been naturalized since January, 1915. The seating capacity of the pavilion is nearly 15,000.

Judge Goodwin will preside. Governor Dunne and Mayor Thompson will be asked to make brief addresses.

The center of the disturbance in the west, that was located over Wyoming Tuesday morning, moved southward during the last twenty-four hours and now over the southern Rocky mountain slope. The disturbance has lost energy, and while unsettled conditions continue in the west, the outlook for fair weather in this vicinity tonight and Thursday has greatly improved. An area of high pressure, surrounded by lower temperatures, is moving down from the northwest and will bring cooler weather over this vicinity tonight and Thursday. Snow in the northwest and rain in the mountains were general during the last twenty-four hours. Clear weather prevails east of the Missouri river, except along the Atlantic coast, where it is cloudy.

OMAHA'S WEALTHIEST CITIZEN PASSES AWAY.

GEORGE A. JOSLYN.

GEORGE A. JOSLYN HEARS LAST CALL

President of Western Newspaper Union and Said to Be Wealthiest Omahan Dies.

WAS ILL FOR LONG TIME

George A. Joslyn, president of the Western Newspaper Union, reputed to be Omaha's wealthiest citizen, died at noon yesterday.

Mr. Joslyn had been in ill health for several months and for the last month his death was expected at any time.

George A. Joslyn was born June 30, 1848, at Northfield, Vt., and remained on his father's farm until he was 16 years of age, when he started out in the world for himself. He went to Montreal, where he was given employment in a shirt, collar and cuff manufacturing establishment owned by a relative. He was married in Montreal to Miss Sarah Selbeck, who survives him. There were no children.

Leaving the shirt factory he learned the printing business and moved to Des Moines where he resided for a brief period.

To Omaha in 1880.

He was very adept in acquiring knowledge of the printing and general newspaper business. In 1880 he was sent to Omaha as western manager of the Western Newspaper Union. At that time he had a small interest in the company and with thrift and hard work he increased his stock and in time became the head of the company. He invested in real estate and he possessed an unusual faculty of making his money earn more money for him.

It has been said of Mr. Joslyn that he was one of the luckiest men in Omaha in that he made his investments count and could see a good investment in the dark. He bought interests in unprosperous mines near Joplin, Mo., but they turned out to be profitable "gold mines," figuratively speaking.

Was Judge of Men.

In his successful career with the Western Newspaper Union he had the faculty of selecting efficient men for the responsible positions. He built up a splendid organization from an administrative standpoint. The company expanded until it covered most of the country, serving thousands of daily and weekly newspapers with "patent insides." His ready-print company is the largest of its kind in the world.

The Joslyn residence at Thirtieth and Davenport streets, has been known for years as "The Joslyn Castle." It is one of the show places of the city, with spacious, well-kept grounds. A few years ago Mr. Joslyn took exception to what he believed was excessive taxation, and, closing his beautiful home, moved to New York City, but afterwards returned to Omaha and resumed his home at the old location.

Not a Public Figure.

Joslyn was a man of retiring disposition. He spent his life at his office and home and rarely was seen at any public function. He was quiet in his mode of living and positive in his likes and dislikes.

In a suit brought by the government against the Western Newspaper Union Mr. Joslyn went to Washington and offered to show that his company is not a trust in that it reduces the price of inside pages of newspapers to many patrons throughout the United States. The case is pending.

Mr. Joslyn invested much of his money in Omaha real estate and improved some of those holdings. The funeral will be held at the family residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment at Forest Lawn cemetery. The services at the cemetery are to be entirely private. It is also requested that no flowers be sent.

Bank Teller and Cash Disappear

Salt Lake City, Oct. 4.—Officers all over the country have been asked to assist in the search for Warren C. Mangum, former paying teller of the Continental National bank here, who left yesterday, taking $15,300 of the bank's money with him.

Mangum quit work at the bank Saturday night after checking in his accounts. The clearing house receipts had been padded in such a way that his shortage was not discovered until today. Bank officials say that all of the money was taken Saturday. Mangum had been employed at the bank for ten years.

Chief Executive Will Arrive at Noon and Spend Busy Day in Omaha

Eyes of Entire Country Are Directed to Nebraska's Metropolis During Visit.

The eyes of the whole country are turned to Omaha today.

For the president of the States will be here, riding with his wife as the head of the historical parade, reviewing the parade and, in the evening, delivering an address at the Auditorium.

It will be, perhaps, the biggest day that Omaha has ever seen. The visit of a president alone is a big event. Combine that with the historical parade and the carnival and the various Ak-Sar-Ben activities and the day looms tremendous.

The multitudes have swooped down upon the city from all around and from a distance of hundreds of miles. The gaily decorated streets are crowded with people. Numerous bands parade up and down, dispensing music that adds to the festivity of the scene.

The president and his wife left Chicago last night. They are accompanied by the president's private secretary, Joseph Tumulty; his physician, Dr. Cary T. Grayson; two stenographers, six secret service men, seven newspaper men and one maid. The president and Mrs. Wilson will be together at all the affairs of the day in which they will participate.

Arriving at the Union station at 11:40 a. m. they will be escorted direct to the Commercial club, where luncheon will be served. The dining room will be filled to capacity. The president will make a short address.

Following this, he and Mrs. Wilson will be taken by automobile to Sixteenth and Cuming streets and will head the historical parade all along the line of march until they reach the presidential reviewing stand in front of the court house.

After reviewing the parade here, they will go to the Fontenelle, where the "presidential suite" has been reserved for them.

The formal dinner to the president there will begin at 7 p. m. After this the president and Mrs. Wilson will proceed to the Auditorium, where the president will deliver an address at 8:30 p. m.

From there they will go direct to the Union station and enter their private car. They leave Omaha at 10:10 p. m. for the east.

MASONIC BRETHREN LAY CORNERSTONE

Impressive Ceremonies in Connection With New Temple Solemnly Carried Out.

THOUSANDS IN PROCESSION

In the presence of more than 3,000 members of the Masonic order, including grand lodge officers, both past and present, and sojourning brethren from all sections of the state, as well as a crowd of several thousand persons which packed the streets in the neighborhood of Nineteenth and Douglas, the corner stone of Omaha's new Masonic temple, the finest west of Chicago, was laid with impressive ceremonies yesterday afternoon.

Marking as it did one of the most important epochs in the history of Masonry in Nebraska, the laying of the corner stone of the structure that is to be the magnificent home of the local lodge, brought together a notable gathering of the members of the ancient order.

Preparations for Ceremony.

Long before the hour set for the ceremonies Masons who were not to have a part in the program, members of Masons' families and hundreds of interested spectators sought places of vantage near the new temple corner. By the time the ceremonies had begun the corner of Nineteenth and Douglas streets was a solid mass of humanity.

Temporary stands seating about 500 persons were constructed about the inner stand, in which the officers of the grand lodge and the orator of the day were to take their places. The entrance to the sands surrounding the corner stone on three sides was banked with green and yellow foliage.

Masons who were to take part in the cornerstone laying ceremonies and a large representation of the different lodges of the city assembled at the old temple, Sixteenth street and Capitol avenue, at 1:30 o'clock.

Procession Moves Promptly.

Heading the procession, which started from this point, was a battalion of police, with Chief Henry Dunn and two captains in the forefront.

The Masonic body acting as escort was the Arab patrol of Tangier temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, in full uniform.

Then came the Blue lodges of Omaha, with a division for visiting brethren, followed by the Knights Templar, forming a special escort for the officers of the grand lodge.

Shriners who are members of the Knights Templar marched with that

RUSS FORCE WAY OVER ZLOTA LIPA

Part of Village in Macedonia Captured and Three Bulgar Rushes Repulsed.

FIGHTING IN DOBRUDJA

London, Oct. 4.—After three days of incessant and furious fighting the Russians are reported to have won a considerable advantage in their new drive on Lemberg from the south and to be threatening the important railroad town of Bzeczany, fifty miles southeast of Lemberg.

Reuter's Petrograd correspondent says the Russians, under cover of artillery fire, forced their way across the Zlota Lipa river south of Bzeczany, driving the Austro-German forces from the heights. The Russian artillery then advanced and began a bombardment of the camps, military establishments and suburbs of the town.

British troops yesterday morning pushed forward from their new position near Karajaker, on the west bank of the Struma river, in Greek Macedonia and captured a part of the village of Yenikeui, says an official statement issued by the British war office today.

The Bulgarians launched three counter attacks and fighting for the newly won position still is in progress.

Fighting in Dobrudja.

Petrograd, Oct. 4.—(Via London.)—Russian troops are continuing their offensive against the forces of the central powers and their allies in the Roumanian province of Dobrudja, says the Russian official statement, issued today. Russian gunboats on the River Danube have bombarded the left flank of the Bulgarian army near Rachova, which lies about fourteen miles south of Tchernavoda. The text of the statement says:

"Dobrudja: Russian gunboats bombarded the left flank of the Bulgarian army near Rachova, which is beyond Tchernavoda, on the Danube.

"Our offensive in the region of Rachova, Tzopadin and Treveli continues."

Germans Lose Town in Somme.

The message was signed by Ralph B. Cole, director of National Republican speakers' bureau at New York.

Fight Upon German Chancellor Takes Tangible Form

Berlin, Oct. 4.—(Via London, Oct. 4.)—The campaign against Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg is daily assuming a more tangible form. A circular demanding retirement of the chancellor has been sent by a vociferous group of his opponents to such members of the Reichstag as are considered open to their arguments.

Attacks are made on the chancellor's attempts to reach an agreement with England, his first attitude toward Belgian neutrality and his policy in the submarine issue. The only name of international prominence among the signers is that of Ernst Haackel and the circular is regarded as symptomatic rather than serious.

Another factor which is disturbing the political situation is a breach of the political truce proclaimed at the outset of the war which has been made by the Saxon socialists.

Meanwhile the chancellor and the Reichstag leaders continue to discuss the points at issue behind closed doors on an even more confidential basis than before.

Boy Bandits Rob Six Chicago Saloons

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Two bands of youthful automobile bandits, one of them having a boy in knee trousers as a member, held up six saloons within an hour early today. Sums ranging from $10 to $25 were taken in each robbery.

The boy, armed with a revolver, was usually the first of the band to burst into the saloons. He was directed to "cover" the occupants while his companions robbed them. In one instance a saloon keeper yelled for help and the bandits kicked him into unconsciousness.

Police believe the robbers are members of an organized gang which has been holding up saloons and restaurants in different sections of the city for the last week.

RAILROADS MUST RETURN ALL CARS

Railway Commission Makes Order Covering Freight Equipment in State.

BURLINGTON HARDEST HIT

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, Oct. 4.—(Special Telegram.)—All railroads entering Omaha will be required to return all freight cars by them "within a reasonable time," according to an order of the State Railway commission made today on application of the western demurrage bureau. The Union Pacific, Great Western, Missouri Pacific, Illinois Central and Wabash have grain terminals of their own or an exchange agreement which enables them to get satisfactory exchange of cars, but the Burlington, which ships large quantities of grain, has no adequate terminal elevator and complains that it has a hard time getting its own cars for use by its own patrons, the other roads getting them and holding them for the movement of their own grain.

Beeman's Name Off Ballot.

The death of Frank E. Beeman of Kearney, who was a candidate for the district judgeship of the Twelfth judicial district, has brought a communication to Secretary of State Pool, which he has referred to the attorney general's office.

The inquiry was whether the name of a deceased candidate should be placed upon the judicial ballot and the attorney general has decided that the name of a candidate nominated at the primary who has since died should not appear on the ballot.

Shakespeare himself in a plaster bust led the parade in the title float. Galloping off the prow of the float was the winged horse, Pegasus, always to be associated with poetic inspiration.

The Merry Wives of Windsor were next with Falstaff, the famous braggart, sitting at his ease beneath an oak tree, drinking his flagon of brew, and talking big, with the famous antlers on his head, while the six merry wives tripped lightly around and behind him.

All's Well That Ends Well came next with the king of France seated on the throne. Two bronze lions guarded the throne, one on either side. The soldier, Bertram, the count of Roussillon, and the duke of Florence, conspicuous in the drama, were present.

King Richard the Third came next, and as the mishap struck stumped about the castle one could almost hear him gnash his teeth in the frenzy of his passions, or lick his lips with anticipation as he watched the murderers quietly stealing up to the tower, bent upon murdering the two princes imprisoned there in order that the wicked Richard, their uncle, might make himself king.

Two Dromios. The Comedy of Errors followed. Aegeon was foremost in the picture, with the temple in the background. Antipholus and the two Dromios were seen in their characteristic poses.

Macbeth and his wicked wife came next, with such vividness of expression.

Norfolk, Neb., Oct. 4.—Greatly encouraged over the prospects of a dry victory in Nebraska this fall, the prohibition national campaigners today closed their meetings within this state at Wayne and left for Iowa and South Dakota points.

About half of Nebraska is now dry under local option regulations and the campaigners have been told that the other half probably will become arid territory this fall.

President Wilson is coming to Nebraska tomorrow and the dries are hopeful, but not optimistic over the prospects that he then will state his position on prohibition. In the light of his coming both J. Frank Hanly and Ira Landrith, the national candidates, continued today to call attention to the fact that he had failed to reply to two telegrams sent from the dry special train asking him how he stood on prohibition.

His pressing duties and his official dignity, Landrith said, "will not permit him to take notice of the two respectful telegrams, but he is neither too busy nor too dignified to tell one O'Leary what he thinks of a man who calls him a pro-British sympathizer."

A dry fight is on in South Dakota and parts of two days will be spent there.

KING AK-SAR-BEN XXII ENTERS THE CITY OF CIBOLA

Royal Monarch Comes Into Chief City of His Kingdom and Receives the Keys From the Mayor.

TO TAKE HIS CROWN FRIDAY

IS MOST KINDLY MONARCH

Amid a classical display of illumination, accompanied by an educational representation of noted scenes from Shakespearean drama, King Ak-Sar-Ben XXII arrived in the streets of his chief city, Omaha, last night shortly after 8 o'clock.

Out of the north came the benevolent king, entering the gates of the great city, shedding a veritable Niagara of variegated radiance from a long line of vehicles electrically lighted, like a thousand oriental dawns crammed into one and flashed forth like a bolt from the zenith.

Long had the expectant multitude of loyal subjects from all parts of the realm blacked the streets for miles and miles, waiting in patient wonder for the fast rocket of radiance shot into the northern sky, heralding his coming over the horizon.

Here Comes the King.

"He comes! The king comes!" the shout went up from those who detected the first signs in the distance, and then the multitude of subjects pressed closer and closer upon the steel cables that held them from the danger of the streets, and stood on toes for the best possible view of the regal magnificence of the cortege.

It was as though a shower of stars had alighted on the caravan and stuck. It was as though the king were holding the gorgeous procession of color in a leash of sidereal fire.

Bands Enliven Procession.

Eighteen softly rolling vehicles constituted the nucleus of the cortege. Eleven bands enlivened the procession with music to delight his majesty and to please his subjects, for King Ak-Sar-Ben is a benevolent monarch, a kindly ruler, who delights in the pleasure of his subjects.

Seventeen beautiful Shakespearean scenes worked out in living characters with rich scenery in the background, were represented on seventeen floats that glided through the streets as on gently rolling waves of light. Following this came the float of the king himself, who sat in regal dignity as he passed through the streets, smiling in gracious majesty upon the loyal thousands who paid him homage.

As if to clear the way for his majesty's regal procession a platoon of sixteen mounted police, headed by Chief Dunn of the municipality of Omaha, rode at the head of the column.

It was unnecessary, for the loyal legions had long since fallen back behind the steel cables, making room for the great king who rules not with a rod of iron, but with grace, benevolence and charity, and who is therefore loved by all.

Followed then the twelve governors of Ak-Sar-Ben, mounted on handsome chargers, every governor wearing a spotless white suit of serge.

A band followed with military music lending a fiery quickstep to the procession, and a snappy action that sent the blood of loyalty bounding in the veins of all who saw and listened.

At the gates of the city hall Mayor Dahlman leaned far over the balcony and placed the keys of the city into the hands of the king, while the procession passed on, out of sight, and to the royal castle where the king is to receive his crown formally on Friday evening.

Title Float. Shakespeare himself in a plaster bust led the parade in the title float. Galloping off the prow of the float was the winged horse, Pegasus, always to be associated with poetic inspiration.

The Merry Wives of Windsor were next with Falstaff, the famous braggart, sitting at his ease beneath an oak tree, drinking his flagon of brew, and talking big, with the famous antlers on his head, while the six merry wives tripped lightly around and behind him.
