

Nebraska

REPUBLICAN IS THE PARTY OF PRINCIPLE

John L. Kennedy Draws Cheer After Cheer in His Speech at Nebraska City.

REAVIS DELIVERS ADDRESS

Nebraska City, Neb., Oct. 4.—(Special.)—John L. Kennedy of Omaha, republican candidate for United States senator, and Congressman C. F. Reavis of Falls City resumed the campaign in the First congressional district tonight by addressing one of the most enthusiastic audiences at the courthouse here which ever assembled in Otoe county.

Judge Paul Jessen of Nebraska City presided and introduced the speakers. All evening the courthouse was thronged with voters, young and old, and much interest was manifested in the coming election. Mr. Kennedy speaking on the leading issues of this campaign and on the question of good citizenship, remarked that a great deal had been said about the failure of certain foreign-born citizens to be loyal to the government of the United States.

Attitude Misunderstood
In his opinion, this was due to a misunderstanding of the attitude of the foreign-born citizen. Mr. Kennedy mentioned the fact that he, too, was of foreign birth, but that he realized that every foreign-born person had a certain warmth of feeling for the land of his birth and was on that account no less loyal to the land of his adoption. He stated, however, that he believed that every foreign-born person should shed such beliefs as he possessed which were inconsistent with good citizenship at the water's edge on entering America.

Mr. Kennedy brought forth a storm of applause when he stated that the republican party had already been, and still is, the party of principle rather than of personality, and that the principles of republicanism were time tried and true, and that one who campaigned upon them was never obliged to change front.

He stated that he had never been obliged to change front in a quarter of a century of campaigning for these principles, and that the republican party might be called the party of patriotism as distinguished from other parties which had their foundation in partizanship.

Prosperity Built on Woe.
Congressman Reavis spoke of the present day prosperity, but added that his democratic friends should not be too hasty in expressing their pride, for that prosperity, he said, was built upon the woes of a warring world, and the result of taking from the rank of producers and placing in the rank of consumers more than thirty million of the best men of Europe.

Mr. Reavis spoke of the wasteful extravagance of the democratic administration, and of the sectional manner of applying the good republican doctrine of protection. He objected to the products of the farms of the south being protected at the expense of the farmers of Nebraska, and he objected to the appropriation of government money to build drainage ditches for the southland when his farmer constituents were obliged to build them at their own expense. He pointed out that the democratic senator and the former democratic congressman from the First district had always voted against the interests of Nebraska in this respect, while he and the other republicans had voted for Nebraska and against such legislation.

Golden Wedding of Cass County Couple
Plattsmouth, Neb., Oct. 4.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. William Gilmour observed their golden wedding anniversary here Monday. They were married in Plattsmouth October 2, 1866, and have lived on a farm near here for forty-six years.

Twelve children blessed their union, five of whom survive. The living are: James of Ulysses, Neb.; William of Idaho, Hester and Samuel at home, and Mrs. W. B. Livingston of Plattsmouth.

Eleven of the women who called at the Gilmour home to felicitate the happy couple had an average age of 75 years. Two of the callers, Mrs. Joshua Gapia and Mrs. Harrison Smith, were 86 and 84 years old, respectively.

Mr. Gilmour, who is 78 years of age, came to Nebraska with his father in 1857.

British Red Cross Steamer Blown Up

Paris, Oct. 4.—A British Red Cross steamer blew up on Sunday morning in the straits of Dover, according to a Bologne dispatch to the Figaro. The dispatch says news of the disaster was received by wireless, but that details are lacking.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

Omaha Welcomes President Woodrow Wilson

The presence of His Excellency, the President, at this double celebration, gives Omaha the opportunity to record an occasion of great historical importance.

The state is proud of her fiftieth birthday. Omaha points with pride to her wonderful record as the Metropolis of the Middle West.

In the review of events that have transpired during the past fifty years, nothing in the retail mercantile history of Omaha stands out more prominently than the record of the store that is pictured below. As an achievement it is unique. As a very big factor in the upbuilding of this Western Metropolis, it occupies a high position. Upon the occasion of this visit of the Chief Executive to the City of Omaha, it takes this opportunity to proclaim its loyalty and desire for service paramount.

THIRTY-FIVE years have elapsed since, the founder of this store, J. L. Brandeis, opened the tiny establishment on South Thirteenth street, that was destined to be the corner-stone of one of the biggest mercantile establishments in the Middle West.

THE winning of this Western Territory has been obtained by means of aggressive and progressive methods. That this store has more than kept pace with the spirit of the times is evidenced by its remarkable growth. From one end of this western country to the other, the name Brandeis is a synonym for highest integrity.

"THE FAIR," the first effort of this later-to-be Merchant Prince, opened up in the little store with only a few hundred square feet of selling space. Today the mammoth establishment which he has left behind him as a monument to integrity and oneness of purpose, has a floor area of 300,000 square feet of selling space. It is particularly appropriate at this time that Brandeis Stores, in celebrating their thirty-fifth anniversary, should give to the people of Omaha renewed assurance of their desire to perform greater and greater service and give CERTAIN SURETY OF SATISFACTION.

IT is a cosmopolitan as well as a metropolitan establishment, inasmuch as it caters to all classes of people. It is the inland port for the markets of the world.

TODAY, in welcoming the visitors who have come for miles and miles around to witness the Ak-Sar-Ben celebration, this great store opens wide its doors and bids everyone take advantage of the scores of accommodations and conveniences which only an immense establishment like this can offer.

"Let There Be No Stranger Within OUR Gates," is the slogan that we have adopted.
