

OMAHA FOREVER, SAY HOG SHOWMEN

Prize Hogs Grant Past Motion Picture Men and Society Judges.

LADIES GAUGE "CUTENESS"

The greatest swine show ever held in this country, bar none, both from a standpoint of quality and number of exhibits and the notable persons who attended...

The National Swine show, which opened Monday morning in the big horse barns on the South Side, has proved successful in a degree far beyond the expectations of all concerned.

Show Here Always. The first great swine show, truly national in scope, the event which has had its premier in this city, bids fair to stand unrivaled as the most ambitious hog class each year, many exhibitors maintaining that Omaha should be the exposition point indefinitely.

The Chester-White exhibitors, for instance, held a banquet at the Castle hotel Thursday evening at which a unanimous resolution was adopted advising that Omaha be chosen as the show city again in 1917.

A Big Reason.

One reason why hog men contend that Omaha stands without a peer as the logical city for the show each year is that the horse barns constitute the ideal locale for the purpose.

Breeders and show men concede the fact that the show cannot be so well taken care of anywhere as in the huge, fireproof horse barns, with their unexcelled facilities as to sanitation, light, decorative possibilities and accommodations for visitors.

Judging of all classes in all breeds was finished today. The regular show lines were disposed of in the morning, the special classes being judged in the afternoon.

"Pigs Is Pigs." One of the features on the last day of the show was the judging of pigs by a committee of prominent Omaha women. The little squealers, in litters of about twenty sows and ranging in ages from a week and a half to six weeks, were judged, not on their fine points as future prize porkers but from a standpoint of "cuteness" and "disposition."

Dainty pink ribbons were tied on the hungry little fellows by a committee consisting of the following women: Mrs. C. C. Allison, chairman; Mrs. Louis Nash, Mrs. Joe Barker, Mrs. H. H. Baldrige and Mrs. Archie Love. Prizes aggregating $300 were awarded the owners of the pigs.

Drys and Moosers Plan New Party

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Information is given in a statement issued today by the publicity department of the prohibition party that preliminary steps have been taken during the last thirty days looking to the organization of a new national political party, which, its friends believe, will hold the balance of power in the United States in the near future.

The statement reads in part: "The new party is really a coalition and will be made up of the following elements: Progressives, who were left without a leader when Roosevelt announced his fealty to the republican party; Party prohibitionists; Women voters in the eleven suffrage states; The church members who are in sympathy with the temperance cause; Active work toward the organization of the new party along practical lines, it is said, will be begun after the election of November 7."

Heavy Roads Delay Practice Hike of the Tenth Division

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 6.—The Fifth, Eighth and Ninth Massachusetts infantry, Second brigade headquarters, three cavalry troops and a signal corps battalion will leave for home as soon as the Georgia National Guard troops arrived here to relieve them, it was announced today.

The Massachusetts men are now on a practice march into New Mexico with the Tenth provisional division. Because of heavy roads and slow time made this march may end at Las Cruces, N. M., where camp will be established and maneuvers started. The rear column left Mesquite today and a part of the troops have reached Las Cruces. It is expected to return here on the evening of October 14.

Industrial Truce Talked in London

London, Sept. 25.—The suggestion that an industrial truce for five years should be arranged now as a guarantee of Britain's highest interests in the era of mechanical progress that he said was bound to follow the war, was made by Sir Charles Wakefield, the lord mayor of London, while presiding at a large gathering of representatives of all branches of the engineering industry at the Mansion house.

"Whatever might be said of the future of commerce in general," said the lord mayor, "we are all surely agreed that the nation and the empire must zealously guard the security and progress of engineering. It is mainly on the engineering workshops of this country that the fighting forces of the alliance depend for mechanical means of victory."

The lord mayor's suggestion was greeted by cheers from all present, including representatives of various government departments.

Schools Flourish in Lutheran Synod, Reports Indicate

Arlington, Neb., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—The third day's session of the annual convention of 400 delegates, representing 30,000 communicant members of Lutheran Missouri Synod in Nebraska and Wyoming, was marked by a stirring plea for the support and advancement of colleges and seminaries.

Reporting on the condition and requirements of the sixteen colleges and seminaries of the Missouri Synod, the synod's president, Rev. F. Pfotenhauer of Chicago, said: "At present we have over 2,000 students in training for the ministry and the church school. It should be easy for the 600,000 communicant members of the joint synod to raise until next May the amount of $100,000, still necessary for the building and repair fund, and $90,000 annually for the synodical fund, from which are paid the salaries of the instructors."
