"VAN" OFFERS CHRISTIE FILMS
 Establishes Novel Exchange for Exclusive Handling of "Funny Christie Pictures."

"AL" CHRISTIE FAMOUS
 Lovers of a good, strong, spontaneous laugh will be pleased to know that "Al Christie," famous as a producer of comedy films for the Nestor Branch of the Universal Co., has embarked into the producing game on his own accord.

Such is the case, and a program of hilarious Christie films is quite ready for booking through a special local exchange, formed for the purpose. In fact, no less a personage than "Van," or Van Husan, to be proper, manages the local agency, which is styled the Christie Comedy Exchange, with quarters at 301 National building, corner 12th and Harney Sts., Omaha.

Al Christie retains most all of the humor dispensers who have worked with him so successfully during his career with the Nestor people, and Billie Rhodes, The Sunshine Girl of the Films, takes a liberal share of stellar honors.

Among the early Christie releases are "A Seminary Scandal," "His Baby," "By the Sad Sea Waves" and "His Wedding Night," all screamers—each one a film that will entice money into the coffers of a moving picture show.

Managers throughout the country find a real scarcity of really funny films, even though deluged with serious efforts, and these managers would do well to immediately get in touch with "Van" and his screaming "Christie Comedies."
