Movie Actresses and Their Hair

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact (this is a secret), many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture which they make up for themselves by putting a teaspoonful of carthox (which they get from the druggist) in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. After its use their hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness is delightful, while the stimulated scalp gives the health which insures hair growth. Adv.

To Stop Speculation Milan Takes Over Millions of Eggs

Rome, Oct. 21.—The municipal authorities at Milan have seized 100 cars, containing 15,000,000 eggs, as the result of a campaign to prevent speculation. Milan, Rome and other centers have been eggless for the last week, notwithstanding the existence of immense stocks. It was expected that the government will fix a uniform price of 3 cents throughout Italy and seize and sell all eggs at this price.

Bessie Barriscale in "The Green Swamp" at Dundee

One of Triangle's features is the film which the Dundee presents today. "The Green Swamp" is a play of much interest, featuring Bessie Barriscale. Miss Barriscale appears to good advantage in every incident of this film. A Nestor comedy, "It's All Wrong," is also part of Sunday's show. Monday's program shows "Saving the Family Name," Tuesday, "The Marriage of Molly O'"; Wednesday, "Sally in Our Alley"; Thursday, "Society Hypocrites"; Friday, "Barriers of Society"; and Saturday, "Honor Thy Name."

Burt Theater Features Mary Pickford Today

In a way all her own Mary Pickford will entertain the patrons of Burt theater throughout today's shows. Selou is a more entertaining film flashed on the screen than "The Bishop's Carriage," which helped Mary Pickford to fame. The week's offering features such films as "The Unattainable," "The Pilgrim," "The Blindness," "Peg O' the Ring" and others. Mr. Alward is meeting with success in operating the Burt and his experience in the show business is proving valuable in catering to the neighborhood patrons.

No Lower Rates in Sight For the Present, at Least

Washington, Oct. 21.—Lower passenger fares between St. Louis, Mo., and Keokuk, Ia., and Illinois points, prescribed some time ago by the Interstate Commerce commission, will not become effective without further proceedings. The commission to lay postponed indefinitely the operation of its decision. The Business Men's league of St. Louis was the complainant in the case against the railroads.

"The Police Reporter" Featured at the Besse

Something of importance, the dictionary says, is a real feature. The exhibitor naturally is pleased when he can feel certain that the show which he is advertising is of a type worthy of the expression, "a real feature." "The Police Reporter," which is to be at the Besse theater, shows daredevil George Larkin and Ollie Kirby in daring exploits.

The Busy Bees : : Their Own Page

FASCINATING in their interest are the stories that boys and girls in public schools turn in to their teachers, so many of the instructors declare. Some times the stories are entirely original, some times which they have read or which the teacher has read to them. Such are the stories, written by Hazel Wickenberg, Anton Steiskal, Jennie Doyle, Sylvia Gustafson and Lillie Krepcik, fifth and sixth grade students of Miss Marian Fritz, language teacher at Train school. Each one of them is well constructed and well written, neat in appearance and the Busy Bee editor is indeed glad to print them for other little Busy Bees to read. Halloween is the next event for the Busy Bees to celebrate, and since this is distinctly a holiday set aside for boys and girls to observe, the editor is expecting a goodly number of Halloween letters telling all about the jack-o'-lanterns, black cats, witches, broomsticks, etc. Don't leave out any part of the fun. Eleanor Kirk of the Red Side won the prize book this week. Hugh O'Neill and Edythe Olsen, also of the Red Side, won Honorable Mention.

Little Stories by Little Folk

(Prize Story.) Old Gander Bites.

By Eleanor M. Kirk, Aged 9 Years, Stockham, Neb., Red Side. I have never written to this page before, but I have decided to tell you of my experience with an old gander. One day an old gander chased me and so I thought that I would get even with him. Then I grabbed him by the neck and undertook to put him in the tank, for it was nearby. I did not get my hand close enough to his head, and of course he wanted to escape, so he bit me on the arm when I was about to drop him in. Then I dropped him in, and of course he wanted to get out, but he couldn't. Pretty soon papa looked out of the window and saw me crying, then he came out and asked me what was the matter, and I told him. He then walked over to the tank and pulled the gander out. The mark of his bill stayed on my arm for a few days, and I will advise you children never to try putting a gander in the tank. I hope Mr. Wastebasket is not waiting at the door for this.

(Prize Story.) An Exciting Journey.

By Lillie Krepcik, Omaha, Neb. Once upon a time there were two little cousins whose names were Lucian and Lilly. Lucian was 5 years old and Lilly was 4. One day when all the folks were out Lucian said to Lilly, "Let us go out and see the world." "Alright," said Lilly, "I will go and get my doll and my little lamb. You go and get your satchel and some food and we will go." So they got some food and went. Presently Lilly screamed because she saw a vine and thought it was a snake. Their maid happened to be coming along the road and heard Lilly scream, so she took them home and scolded them because they were told to not go any further than the garden gate. Lucian scolded Lilly and called her a "scaredy cat." Next week they started on another journey. Lucian took a great big stick that was in the hall and they went. As they were going out of the garden gate their big dog Rover followed them and they did not notice it. Before they left they said, "Goodbye, old home, goodbye." After they had walked some time two great big boys came and tried to hit Lucian and Lilly. Their dog knocked one of the boys down, but the other ran away. Lucian and his cousin went home saying, "We are not going on any more journeys." And this is what ended their second journey.

(Prize Story.) Finds Duck Eggs.

By August Stephens, 4311 South Twenty-sixth Street, South Side, Omaha, Blue Side. Last spring we girls were playing camp and had very much fun. The place where we played was like a forest. It was surrounded by trees and weeds. I was running along when I nearly fell over some eggs. I looked and they were some duck eggs. I took them home, but nobody was at home. When mother came home I told her and she said we might as well set them. So we put them under a hen. About three weeks later out came thirteen small ducks. The mother hen was so proud of them she would not let anyone touch them. They are growing big and fat now. We have thirty-eight rabbits. I wish to win a prize book.

(Prize Story.) Rescues Kittens.

By Dagmar Olsen, Aged 12 Years, Weeping Water, Neb., Blue Side. I am going to tell you about my little kitties. One morning when papa was feeding the horses he heard a little kitten meowing. He went to look for it and found it in the spout. It had fallen into the spout from the hayloft and could not get out. It may have been there for some time. Afterwards papa and I went up to the hayloft and found another one. They are Maltese. This is the first time I have written to the page. I would like to join the Blue side.

(Prize Story.) Has Maltese Cats.

By Pauline Sellers, Aged 10 Years, Kearney, Neb., Red Side. This is my first letter to this page and I hope it will not reach the waste basket. I have two playmates. They are two large Maltese cats. They are very pretty. One of our neighbors brought them to me when they were wee kittens. Mamma said we would not keep them. One day I saw one of them playing with something in the barn yard. I went out to see what it was. I found it was a large rat, not quite dead. So my pets are useful, too. And mamma thought we had better keep them then.

(Prize Story.) Does Well with Violin.

By Kenneth Ayers, Hebron, Neb., Red Side. I have written a letter before. I am going to write a story about school. I started to school when I was 5. I am in the fourth grade. I like geography. I have gone to school every day this year. I like spelling and reading. I am taking violin lessons and the teacher says I am doing good. This ends my letter.

(Prize Story.) Writes Poem on Sunset.

By Grace Moore, Aged 14, Silver Creek, Neb., Blue Side. I am sending a poem, which I composed myself, entitled, "Sunset." It is original. One evening this fall when I was down on the bank of the Platte river bordering our ranch, I looked off in the far west and saw the sun setting. It appeared to me so beautiful I came home and thought of a title to give the poem. Then I wrote, or composed, one verse that night; then kept on composing two or three lines until I had finished it. It took me about two weeks to compose it. All things are wrapped in silence: The sun is setting low, Reflect the gorgeous glow. The sky is crimson, blue and gold, With green and purple shades— All unlit and one great flaming mass, Till the glow of evening fades. The river—a sheet of moving gold, Reflects upon the evening sky, And the cry of the lullaby Floats out upon the air. The ripples of the water Sing and play with ease, While slowly from the hilltop Evening comes unwillingly.
