Nurse Sues Road For Being Ejected By the Brakeman

Miss Althea D. Lattimer, a nurse, is suing the Burlington railroad for $5,000, alleging that on May 19 she was ejected from the train while traveling from Omaha to Villisca, Ia. In her petition she states that she had time to eat her dinner in the diner before arriving at Villisca, but before she had finished the train had departed from the Iowa town. The conductor refused to stop the train immediately and when he finally did so it was one mile the other side of her destination...

Death Calls Away Pioneer Architect

J. E. Dietrich, aged 63 years, pioneer architect of this city, died at his home, 1014 South Twenty-eighth street, Monday night, after a long illness. He came to Lincoln from Philadelphia forty years ago and was connected with the Burlington engineering department there. He came to Omaha four years later and took a position in the same capacity with the Union Pacific road. Latter the firm of Dietrich & Guth was established. Mr. Dietrich recently had offices in the Paxton block. He is survived by two daughters, Miss Lucy Dietrich, and Mrs. James Smith. His wife died October 17, this year. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock from the home to St. Peters church at 9 Interment will be in Holy Sepulcher cemetery.

Air Castles Topple Upon Young St. Paul Tourist

Omaha proved to be the "end of the world" for young Frank Mastell, a 14-year-old St. Paul (Minn.) youth who ran away from home last Saturday. He was out to "see the world," but his dream of conquest vanished and his air castles toppled over when the unromantic local police picked him up while he was scrutinizing a railroad map in a downtown ticket office. The police turned the boy over to Gus Miller of the juvenile court, who arranged for transportation back to the saintly city.

Music to Be Featured At the Hotel Loyal

The management of the Hotel Loyal has engaged the celebrated Spanish violinist, Senorita Amina, and the popular baritone singer, Fred Walden. Both of these talented entertainers have just closed successful engagements in the east. The management of the Loyal says that from time to time the highest class entertainment obtainable will be featured from 6 to 8 p. m. daily and 12 to 2 and 6 to 8 p. m. Sunday.

Auto Thieves' Sorcery Peeves Owner of Cars

T. J. Bruner, 4119 Harney street, reported Monday night the theft of his auto. This morning he learned that it had been abandoned at Twenty-second and Leavenworth streets. Before he could get there it was gone again. William Ord, 2521 Bristol street; William Houlett, 4706 South Twenty-fourth street, and C. M. Henderson, 3328 South Twenty-fourth street, report the theft of cars to the police.

Firemen's Mother, Pioneer, Dies After Operation

Mrs. Rosanna J. Brown, aged 68 years, died following an operation at a local hospital Monday. She is survived by two sons, both Omaha firemen, Charles and Leonard Brown. Mrs. Brown was a pioneer resident of Omaha. She lived with her daughter, Mrs. J. McCauley, 2204 South Sixteenth street. Interment will be in Hanley, Ia.

Welfare Board Gets Job For Two World Tourists

Police saw Lloyd Jones and Frank Mastel, both 16 years old, and of St. Paul, before they saw much of the world. The ambitious tourists were brought to headquarters, where they strenuously objected to being sent home. The Welfare board got jobs for the youthful travelers at the Gordon-Lawless company and the lads willingly went to work.

Subject to Croup.

"Our little girl is subject to frequent attacks of croup," writes F. O. Strong, Calpella, Cal. "I always give her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as one or two doses of it cures her." This is a favorite remedy for croup, as it can be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. It contains no narcotic.—Advertisement

CROOK MADE SOUP TO BLOW HIS NOSE

Four "Crackmen" Keep Stolid Silence as Police Give Them the Third Degree.

ACTIONS ARE SUSPICIOUS

The four apparent crackmen, who were arrested Monday night by Officer Charles Pipkin and Detectives Rooney and Murphy, were all suffering from "lockjaw" when interviewed in the private office of Chief of Detectives Maloney. No amount of cajoling or persuasion would lead any one of the quartet to reveal that he or his pals were crooks, or ever saw each other before. Fred Martin, one of the number, admitted that he had made the "soup" or nitroglycerine, from dynamite that he stole in a Missouri quarry.

Retort Courteous.

"What were you going to use it for?" inquired Chief Maloney. "To blow my nose," leering retorted Martin. The chief waved him back to his cage. The very fact that the men are taking the attitude of silence, instead of attempting to clear the suspicion against them, is enough evidence for the police that they are not greenhorns in the game. Officer Anton Francel looked them over this morning and took an extra look at Martin. Just what he learned from his observation will not be revealed at present, on advice of the chief.

Big Gang Here?

In substantiation of the theory that the four men taken are not the whole of the crew, which is believed to be an organization of considerable numbers, comes the report to headquarters this morning that during the night crackmen sawed their way through the panels of two rear doors into Emil Thompson's saloon at 1314 North Twenty-fourth street, blew the safe and made away with $113, an $18 check, diamond ring and other jewelry. Detective Felix Dolan, who investigated the robbery, asserted that the safe door had been blown open with nitroglycerine after the approved fashion of yeggmen. Rugs and canvas were used to deaden the sound.

Battle Without Aid Of Planes as Eighty-Mile Wind Blowing

With the French Army on the Somme Front, Nov. 7.—(Via Chantilly, From a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press.)—The battle today in the district between Saillies and St. Pierre Vaast wood was fought without the assistance of aeroplanes. The wind blowing eighty miles an hour prevented the planes from ascending and consequently the artillery fire from a hundred German batteries as well as from the French and British was uncontrolled aerially. Every inch of the battle ground was a danger spot and the correspondent of The Associated Press and other correspondents were compelled to take shelter in a dugout.

When the French infantry attacked a powerfully defended series of trenches with trench mortars and grenades, they found a strong garrison, which in one part surrendered in a body with their officers, more than 500 running at a racing pace into the French lines and for two miles and a half to the rear accompanied by only half a dozen French guards. It was a strange sight when they ran the gauntlet of the German barrage fire. St. Vaast wood is more than two kilometers square with many positions enfolding each other and proved a most difficult problem for the French. But French infantry finally rushed the place and held it with slight losses. The battle continued into the night.

Paderewski Not Enthused Over New Polish Kingdom

Long Branch, N. J., Nov. 7.—President Wilson was asked today to include in his Thanksgiving Day proclamation an appeal to the people of the United States to give aid to European war sufferers. The request was made by Ignace Paderewski, the pianist, and a delegation, representing organizations interested in the relief work in Germany, Austro-Hungary, Poland, Russia, Armenia, Syria and other countries.

Electoral Nominee Named to Fill Vacancy in Missouri

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 7.—Henry Kersting was nominated by the republican state committee to fill the vacancy in the republican ballot caused by the suicide today of Frank B. Bublir, republican nominee for presidential elector from the Tenth Missouri district. The nomination of Kersting was made too late to get on the official ballot and republican voters will be urged to write in the name. One hundred and eighty thousand slips, containing the name of Kersting for elector were printed tonight and will be sent to the St. Louis polling places tomorrow morning. The judges will be instructed to paste them on the ballots.

Mellificia Casts Her First Vote And Feels that She is Emancipated

By MELLIFICIA.

Voting is no "pink-tea" or feminine sort of diversion. You can't stand around and gossip a wee bit with your neighbors or comment on Mrs. Jones' new bonnet. It's a strictly business-like affair and the election officials haven't got any time to listen to your tale of leaving the breakfast dishes unwashed or who your husband told you to vote for. I learned all this when I went to vote for the School board this morning. The city "ed." is to blame for my voting. If he hadn't sent me out to endless staff meetings, where I drank in all sorts of suffrage "dope" until I yelled "Votes for women" in my sleep, I wouldn't even have known that it was my "solemn duty" to vote for the school board, since these are the only candidates those selfish men permit women to vote for. "I'm gonna vote for the School board," I announced solemnly to my family.

Develops Fast.

"How many children of school age have you got? And how much property do you own?" scoffed my young brother. You know, at times I am overcome with dismay at that young brother. How one of high school years can have developed into such a rabid anti is more than I can understand. "I ignored the first question in my most dignified manner, but to think twice, may several times, before I answered the second. "You only need $50 worth of property," I answered with the calm begotten by superior political information.

No Diamonds.

"Well, where is your $50 worth?" queried that incorrigible youngster. I answered him not, but breezed (consult Hypodermic Needle for derivation of that word) over to the court house, into the tax assessor's office. Trembling in my knees, I stood at the counter. An office hiring came up to the counter, gave me the "once-over," nothing rapidly, plain suit, plain hat, eyeglasses, determined mouth and seized me up in a minute. "I'm, suff," he sniffed under his breath. Ain't that strange? "Wanna vote for the school board," he barked. "Yes."

Doctors Will Cut Boy's Badness Out

At the request and with the full consent of the parents, Harry Bowen, 12 years old, a ward of the juvenile court, will undergo an operation at Lord Lister hospital Thursday morning in an effort to make a "better boy of him." His adenoids and tonsils will be removed. Dr. Henry and Dr. Foltz are to perform the operation. The lad, according to Gus Miller probation officer, is backward and delinquent in school and has other bad habits. The juvenile court officer believes that the operation will make a normal boy of him.

Pearl Memorial Revival Will Conclude Sunday

Mrs. Mabel Stevens, the woman evangelist, will continue to hold revival meetings until November 12 in the Pearl Memorial Methodist Episcopal church. There will be services every night except Saturday, when Mrs. Stevens will hold a reception in the basement of the church. There will be Bible readings every afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Reports from Every State

All Agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Wonderfully Relieves Woman's Suffering. From all parts of this country the clearest evidence is constantly coming to the office of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., proving the wonderful power shown by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in controlling ills peculiar to women. Here are letters from Vermont, Arkansas and New Jersey:

It Cured Me!

Roxbury, Vt.—"A year ago last December I was taken with a female trouble and doctored for it but did not get any help until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back troubled me a good deal and these troubles lasted so long that I grew terribly poor and I felt a great deal easier lying down. No one knows what I suffered. I did not dare consult another doctor I was so afraid he would say I had got to have an operation. I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was a god-send to me for after suffering about eight months this wonderful medicine cured me."—Mrs. NELLIE E. FRENCH.

Her Best Friend.

Weehawken, N. J.—"I must call you my best friend for what your remedies have done for me. I am 50, and am passing through the Change of Life and for some time I felt bad but since I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel fine and will recommend it to every woman who suffers as I did."—Mrs. KATHIE LEONHARDT, 419 7th St., Weehawken, N. J.

Had Awful Pains in Side.

Branch, Ark.—"Every month I suffered with cramping pains and I had awful pains in my left side. I was very irregular. I had a tired feeling all the time and did not sleep good at night. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and in three months I was well."—Mrs. MAE GATTIS, Branch, Ark.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Does Not Have to Take Off Her Hat Or Tell Her Age

Donald J. Burke of the election board at First precinct of the Eighth ward, Twenty-fourth and Cuming streets, proved himself equal to the occasion when a woman entered to vote for Board of Education members. She appeared embarrassed when she found herself the only woman in a company of men. Mr. Burke explained the law and placed her at mental ease.

Charles H. Brown Is Slightly Better

Charles H. Brown, secretary and treasurer of the Brown Realty and Investment company, who has been critically ill with pneumonia at his home, 201 South Thirty-third street, is reported to be slightly improved. Chances for his recovery are better than they have been any time during his illness.

Omaha Teachers to All Register Ahead Of the Convention

Omaha teachers to the number of 491 enrolled Monday afternoon for the Nebraska State Teachers' association convention in Omaha, which opens a three days' session Wednesday morning. The 491 teachers are a little less than half the teachers here. The other half are registering at the headquarters desk at Hotel Rome, where Treasurer J. F. Matthews is handling the enrollment.

Hard-Fought Campaign In New Hampshire Ends

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 7.—The campaign just closed was the hardest fought in this state in a decade and tonight both parties claimed victory here as assured. The republican state committee claims the state by a decisive margin, and victory for Henry W. Keyes, republican candidate for governor and two candidates for congress.

Men Hand Out Cards.

On my way to labor, I saw a lot of men handing out cards in front of a bar that had seen better days. I didn't think that was the place to vote, but a sign in front said it was, so I went. The passage was dark and stifling, then I entered a small, crowded, gas-lighted room where the voting was going on. Actually I never saw so many men crowded together in so small a room. The election officials had their books all ready and one of them who got up too late to have any breakfast was eating a sandwich. On two sides of the room were voting booths and I had to smother a giggle when I saw them. The men in voting looked so funny, like horses each in their own stall, or like they had to eat off the shelf. (You mustn't tell I said this, now.)

Borrows a Pencil.

Anyway, a nice, gray-haired man made me swear that I had been over to the court house to file for that tax on my books that father gave me for a birthday present, then someone else handed me a ballot and I went into a booth that didn't have a pencil and had to come back and borrow some nice man's fountain pen and go back and vote. It was during this proceeding that I stumbled over Mr. Ballot-Box. My, but he was an unassuming person for all the speeches that have been spoke about him and all the things that have been written about him, too. I should think he would have the big head and be an ornamental, imposing-looking thing, but he wasn't. As I said before, there was no time to waste about that voting place because the room was too small and there were too many people in it, and the election officials were too busy, so I heaved a sigh of relief, now that I had done my "solemn duty," and reported to the boss about three minutes later than if I hadn't stopped to vote.

Proprietor of 'Hogan's Flop' Leaves Fortune

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Ben Hogan, former prize fighter, who once fought Tom Allen for the heavyweight championship of America and lost, left an estate valued at $58,000. Hogan, who died several days ago, for years conducted a soup house and lodging place for "down-and-outs" on the west side. His will, filed for probate today, leaves his estate to relatives in the east.

Walters Finds the State in Fine Shape

General Manager Walters of the Northwestern is in from a western inspection trip and asserts that conditions in the agricultural sections of the territory visited are the best in the history of Nebraska and Wyoming. Mr. Walters asserts that with the enormous crops raised during the last year and with the high prices received for everything they have had to sell, the farmers and ranchers are in fine shape financially. The mild weather of the fall has enabled farmers to push along their farm work with great rapidity and while winter is not expected soon, everybody is ready for its coming.

Young Suicide Will Be Buried Beside Mother

Funeral services for Chance Jewell, aged 22 years, who hung himself in the county jail, will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Stack & Falconer's chapel. He will be buried by the side of his mother in West Lawn cemetery.
