OMAHA ROOTERS TO SEE LINCOLN GAME

Special Train to Carry Local Enthusiasts to Capital City for High School Conflict.

LINCOLN IS THE HEAVIER

Half a thousand Omaha gridiron enthusiasts are going to Lincoln Saturday for the championship clash between Central High of Omaha and the interscholastic warriors of the capital city.

A special train which will carry almost this number of loyal Omaha rooters will leave over the Rock Island Saturday at 12:15.

The Central High team will go down in the morning on the Burlington and it is expected a large number of rooters will go with the team.

A block of seats have been reserved for the Omahans. These seats will go on sale at Beaton's the latter part of the week.

In addition to the first team game, the second eleven of the two schools will tangle in a curtain-raiser. This fray is exciting, almost as much interest among the high school lads as the main event.

Despite the fact that the Lincoln team is the heavier, Mulligan's crew will go into the game favorites. The lineups of the teams and the weights of the players are as follows:

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 7.—A reorganization of the Lincoln Base Ball club of the Western League was perfected last night.

T. J. Hickey May Head American Association

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 7.—American association affairs came to the forefront again when C. H. Wathen, owner of the Louisville club, confirmed reports that Thomas J. Hickey of St. Paul had been in conference with him today.

"When the time comes for the annual meeting," Joseph Cantillon, manager of the Indianapolis club, who was here yesterday, said, according to a report printed here, "you will see Mr. Hickey elected. There is not a chance for him to miss connection now, because five of us have pledged ourselves to vote for him."

Mr. Cantillon is reported to have said that Mr. Chivington was not to be replaced because he had not been a capable executive, but because in his judgment Hickey would make a better one.

JOCKEY KILLED ON THE PIMLICO TRACK

Two Others Are Seriously Injured When Their Horses Fall During Race.

H. TANZEY MEETS DEATH

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—One jockey was killed and two others were seriously injured at Pimlico track today. Harry Tanzey, 23 years old, Brooklyn, N. Y., fell with his mount in the second stephatch race and was killed. A little later "Tom" Parrette had his ribs and wrist broken by a fall. In the last race Clinton Preece broke his leg when his mount fell.

France Talking of Jail Bird Slackers

Paris, Oct. 24.—The protection from German shells enjoyed by convicts through their own misdeeds, while the law-abiding men of France able to bear arms are making such heavy sacrifices, has raised a discussion as to the propriety of sending to the front of all able-bodied men now in prison.

"Jail-bird slackers" is the name given to men sentenced in 1914 or previously to periods of confinement that have carried them over the first two years of the war. A law recently introduced in the Chamber of Deputies by Pierre Rameil and Andre Hesse contemplates the incorporation of certain categories of these men. The proposition was received with considerable satisfaction until a study of the question developed forcible objections. A great many people held that it would be according to much honor to allow convicts to fight the front alongside the gallant soldier of the republic. Others held that the results would scarcely justify the experiment while the number of recruits that could be obtained this way, estimated at the Ministry of Justice between 3,000 and 4,000, would furnish too small an effort to justify the risk. It would be necessary to provide an organization absolutely separate and distinct from any other arm of the service to prevent contact between convicts and the soldiers of the regular army.

A great many prisoners have begged for the privilege of a suspension of their sentence to permit them to go to the front, and have thus appealed with some force to the sentiment of charity-minded people. There are precedents, however, showing that the men who have gone to the front to clear themselves of stains upon their record have not in every case justified the hope that was entertained.

Chinese Financier Plans Big Reform

Peking, Oct. 16.—Chen Chin-tao, the new minister of finance, has outlined plans for financial reform and prepared estimates on the possible income of China under effective administration, which shows an annual total of $49,000,000 silver.

This amount is in decided contrast to the recent annual receipts of the central government, which have been about $70,000,000 silver. Of this sum, the minister of finance says that only $30,000,000 silver can be absolutely depended upon.

The receipts of the central government have dwindled terribly under revolutionary influence. At present less than half a dozen provinces are remitting to Peking, and finances are in a precarious condition.

Chen Chin-tao has advised that a foreign loan of $1,000,000,000 silver should be contracted at once. Of this sum he would use $25,000,000 for the resumption of specie payment on the notes of the Bank of China and the Bank of Communication. For the disbandment of surplus troops, $20,000,000 more will be required. Reorganization in the various provinces would claim an expenditure of $25,000,000, and he suggests an appropriation of $6,000,000 for the improvement of railways, and $40,000,000 for administrative expenditure.

An elaborate plan for the reform of tax collection is outlined, including the making of a proper budget and the reformation of the currency system. He would establish an inspector-general for the supervision of tax collection throughout the republic, fashioned somewhat after the reorganization foreign bankers effected to collect salt taxes pledged to them as security for a reorganization loan. The minister of finance estimates $120,000,000 can be realized from the land tax under proper supervision.

Two Dreadnoughts Of Kaiser Hit by British Torpedoes

London, Nov. 7.—A claim that two dreadnoughts were hit by the British submarine which yesterday was reported launching a torpedo at and striking a German dreadnought in the North Sea, is contained in a further report received from the commanding officer of the submarine, it was officially announced today. The two dreadnoughts claimed to have been struck were battleships of the Kaiser class.

The naval registers show five dreadnought battleships of the Kaiser class, all completed between October, 1912 and August, 1913. Besides the name-ship of the class, they are the Friedrich der Grosse, Kaiserin, Prinz Regent Luitpold and Koenig Albert. The displacement of each is 24,700 tons, length 564 feet, beam ninety-five feet and draft twenty-seven feet.

Their armaments consisted of ten twelve-inch guns, fourteen six-inch guns, twelve twenty-four pounders and four anti-aircraft guns. They are equipped with five torpedo tubes, and the Kaiser's best speed record is given as 23.6 knots.

Reports from British sources that the Kaiser was sunk in the Jutland sea fight last May were semi-officially denied in Berlin. It was stated that the Kaiser was only twice lightly hit by gunfire, one man being killed.

BUGGY BUILDERS STILL BUSY

In Spite of Automobiles Their Business Seems to Be Holding Up.

Every year since 1872, when few trades or lines of industry had national organizations or annual conventions, the carriage builders of the United States have gathered in some city, alternately in the east and west, to talk business and have a good time.

The years since 1872 have brought some amazing changes in transportation, but the carriage builders are still doing business and their announcement of their forty-fourth annual convention in Cincinnati next month does not indicate that they are downhearted by the probability that another year will see one motor car in this country to every twenty-five inhabitants.

There are fewer carriage builders than there used to be, but they still do an amount of business that will surprise some persons. The figures for 1914, recently made public by a special census bulletin, show 1,187,000 horse-drawn vehicles of all kinds made in the country that year of which 558,000 were buggies. The total value was $135,793,357 and 5,320 establishments were included in the enumeration.

The motor car is coming and coming fast, as some of us may have observed, but it is not putting the horse out of business any more than the railway or the trolley car or the bicycle did—and it is not likely to in our generation or the next. The country is big enough for millions of motor cars without shutting off the demand for 500,000 or more new buggies every year.—Boston Herald.

BOTH SIDES WILL CHARGE MURDER

I. W. W.'s and Posse of Citizens Will Be Prosecuted, It Is Stated.

WALSH WON'T DEFEND MEN

Everett, Wash., Nov. 7.—Responsibility for the pitched battle between 250 members of the Industrial Workers of the World and a posse of 150 Everett citizens at the city dock yesterday in which seven men lost their lives and fifty were wounded, was placed upon the men on the boat by the coroner's jury which investigated the death of the two Everett citizens killed in the riot.

The jury after brief deliberation returned a verdict that Charles O. Curtiss, a posseman, who was instantly killed, and Deputy Sheriff Jefferson Beard, who died of his wounds early today, met death from "gunshot wounds inflicted by a riotous mob on the steamer Verona at the city dock."

Shots Fired From Ship.

All but two of the witnesses called testified that the shots fired were fired from the Verona on which the invading Industrial Workers came from Seattle.

William H. Bridges, a deputy sheriff, testified concerning the conversation that passed between Sheriff McRae and the men on the boat before the shooting began.

According to Bridges the conversation between the sheriff and the Industrial Workers were as follows: "Boys, I'd like to speak to the leader of the bunch. Who is your leader," asked Sheriff McRae.

"We're all leaders," shouted the men on the Verona in chorus. "I want to tell you," McRae replied, "that you can't land in this town. You must stay on the boat and go back to Seattle. You can't land here."

Shooting Becomes General.

"The hell," shouted a man standing in the bow of the boat. Then, according to Bridges, the man who uttered the last retort opened fire on the posse and the shooting became general.

Athol Gorrill, student of Spokane, who was visiting here; Harry B. Blackburn, a night watchman, and Elmer Bucher, all of whom were members of the citizen's committee, were in a critical condition tonight from the wounds they received during the fighting.

All of the injured here will recover.

Will Charge Murder.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 6.—Announcement by Prosecuting Attorney O. T. Webb of Snohomish county that charges of murder would be filed against all members of the Industrial Workers of the World who could be identified as actually having participated in the gun fight at Everett, Wash., yesterday, marked today's developments in the aftermath of the riot at Everett yesterday, in which seven men were killed and fifty wounded.

Herbert Mahler, secretary-treasurer of the Industrial Workers, stated that his organization would seek to prosecute members of the Everett citizen's committee on murder charges.

Efforts to induce Frank P. Walsh, former chairman of the Federal Industrial Relations commission to take charge of the defense of the Industrial Workers, are being made by William D. Haywood, general secretary-treasurer of the Industrial Workers of the World, according to a telegram received today from Mr. Haywood, who is in Chicago.

Walsh Won't Come.

Kansas City, Nov. 6.—Frank P. Walsh, former chairman of the Federal Industrial Relations commission, tonight declared he would not take charge of the defense of the Industrial Workers of the World in jail in Seattle in connection with the riot yesterday at Everett, Wash. Efforts to induce Mr. Walsh to head the defense counsel were made in a telegram from William D. Haywood, general secretary of the Industrial Workers of the World, sent from Chicago.

Science in the Kitchen.

Thomas A. Edison was praising the excellent native dyes that have sprung up since the war. "There was a lot of silly, ignorant talk among us at the beginning," he said. "Who'd have believed that such talk would have borne good fruit—good dye fruit?" "Yes, the talk was so silly and ignorant at the beginning that it reminded me of the cook who said to her mistress: 'That there new butter you've got in is certainly a fine scholar, ma'am.' 'Yes?' said the mistress. 'Oh, yes, ma'am,' said the cook. 'The servant's sitting-room is altogether a different place of an evening since he came.' 'Yes, yes, indeed. He talks science—science—all evening long. It is certainly fine.' 'What kind of science does he talk, cook?' 'Well, ma'am, last evening, for instance, he showed us how we was all descended from Mr. Darwin.'—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegram.

WU TING FANG IS FOREIGN MINISTER

Diplomat Stationed at Washington Many Years Member of Chinese Cabinet.

FRIEND OF UNITED STATES

Peking, Nov. 7.—Wu Ting Fang has been appointed minister of foreign affairs. His appointment was approved today by the virtually unanimous vote of Parliament.

Wu Ting Fang was Chinese minister at Washington for several years. Two previous selections of Premier Tuan Chi-Jui for the foreign portfolio were rejected by Parliament because of the monarchial leanings of the men designated.

Under the guidance of Wu Ting Fang the Chinese foreign office will be conducted by a man who has perhaps a greater degree of familiarity with American affairs than any other Chinese statesman. During his two terms of service at Washington he gained a national reputation for his picturesque personality and his wit. He was regarded at Washington as an exceptionally capable diplomat and a friend of the United States.

During the Boxer uprising of 1900 he succeeded in getting through a message to the American minister, Mr. Conger, who, with his colleagues, was in the compound in Peking, and whose fate was a matter of concern to the State department. His sympathies were manifestly with the United States during the troubles and this led to his recall. In 1907 he was again appointed minister at Washington and was recalled in 1909.

Wu Ting Fang is a pronounced liberal and was in sympathy with the revolution which led to the overthrow of the Manchou dynasty, sharing in the work of forming a republican government. After President Yuan Shi Kai announced his intention of becoming emperor of China, and the revolution started in south China, Wu Ting Fang advised the president a few weeks before his death last summer to retire from office.

As foreign minister Wu Ting Fang's most important work probably will be in connection with the difficult questions of relations with Japan. He has been a sympathizer of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the southern revolutionary leader, and during the administration of Yuan Shi Kai did not take a prominent part in public affairs, so that little is known in this country in regard to his attitude toward the differences between China and Japan.

Art Renaissance in Wake of World War

Rome, Oct. 22.—That the war will result in a rebirth of architectural art in vaster and more beautiful buildings than the coliseum or the American skyscraper is the opinion of Dr. Jesse Benedict Carter, director of the American academy in Rome, who has just been appointed by the French government to deliver the Harvard series of lectures this winter before twelve of its provincial universities.

Dr. Carter expressed this opinion in the Roman forum during an interview with The Associated Press, just after his first annual lecture there, a lecture which was attended by Ambassador Thomas Nelson Page and other Americans. Said Dr. Carter: "An art renaissance has two basic requirements, first a crisis, then the contributed wealth of a few people. This war has furnished both. Let me explain the second requirement. While this war has impoverished a majority of the people of Europe, it has enriched a lot of contractors and munition manufacturers, who after the war will have more money than they can spend. Such men have ever become art patrons, stimulators, rather than buyers of old art treasures, as happens in countries where there are a great many millionaires. "This war will surely bring a healthy reaction in art. It means the death of cubism and other follies. It will bring the intense suffering and the sympathy therefor which results in great art productions. One of the peculiarities of the new artistic temperament will be an apparent indifference to suffering. I have observed during my war travels everywhere this apparent indifference among people who I knew were suffering desperate personal losses. "The new art mind will turn out products that will astonish by their beauty and by their benignity. This war has been an inconceivably immense thing and it is making our minds accustomed to immeasurably big objects.

Savage Sharks Fight Boat. A school of more than 100 man-eating sharks attacked the Boston fishing schooner Muriel while the crew of that vessel were fishing off Oshagan recently. The man-eaters swarmed about the vessel and, despite the efforts of the fishermen, destroyed between forty and fifty trawls and devoured the fish they contained. Party of the big sharks were killed by the Muriel's crew. Some of them were brought in. The schooner brought in about 15,000 pounds of fresh groundfish, but as much more was devoured by the hungry sharks when they attacked the trawls.—Boston Transcript.
