

QUIT MEAT WHEN BACK HURTS OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Says Uric Acid in meat clogs Kidneys and irritates Bladder. A glass of Salts is harmless way to flush Kidneys, says authority.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink—Adv.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"A breaking out which caused my baby much suffering came first in minute blisters on his cheeks, and spread downward covering his chin, neck, and chest. It formed a crust and his clothing seemed to aggravate it. The eruptions must have itched and burned. He was almost a solid scale. I picked up a paper with an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I immediately sent for them. I only used two cakes of Soap and one box of Ointment and he was healed." "DRYS" WEEP, SING AND SAY PRAYERS

Prepared Jubilee Meeting Before Voters Cast Their Ballots for Prohibition.

VICTORY FROM HEAVEN

A big jubilee to celebrate the dry victory was held by Frances Willard Women's Christian Temperance union at the Young Women's Christian association this afternoon. "We cried for joy and sang the doxology when we learned Nebraska had gone dry," said Mrs. C. J. Roberts, president of the union. "I was not surprised, I felt sure we would win. The work and prayers of all the good men and women in this state would be answered, I knew. We were so sure of a victory that at the prayer meetings yesterday, which were crowded the whole day, we invited the women to come to the jubilee meeting today."

Mrs. G. W. Covell, pioneer suffrage and temperance worker, rejoiced in both suffrage and prohibition victories in South Dakota, as well as Nebraska's going dry.

Talk Suffrage. Mrs. H. C. Sumney also rejoices in the suffrage victory of the neighboring state. "It makes our own suffrage campaign in 1918 all the more certain. Suffrage sentiment is growing by leaps and bounds since its endorsement by the national parties. South Dakota's victory shows the wisdom of Nebraska going into an immediate campaign."

Mrs. Sumney is watching eagerly for the West Virginia returns. She has just returned from a four weeks' suffrage speaking tour there.

Grain Prices Boom, Big Foreign Demand

Grain prices were decidedly higher, wheat scoring an advance of 4 to 7 cents over the prices of Monday. Election results, grain men assert, had nothing to do with the sharp advance, it having been brought about by the enormous foreign demand developing within the last few weeks. On the Omaha market the receipts for the day were fairly heavy, there being 139 carloads of wheat. It sold all the way from $1.75, up to $1.84 per bushel. Corn receipts were thirty-nine carloads and prices were up 2 to 3 1/2 cents per bushel, the old stock selling at 87@93c, with new at about 2 cents per bushel lower. Oats advanced 1 1/2 cents and sold at 51 1/2@52 cents per bushel. The receipts were thirty-eight carloads.

Curran, said to be a former Omahan, now living in Gotham, is "single, married, divorced, widowed; also whether he has any children and a line on his reputation." She does not indicate the nature of her interest in Mr. Curran, but states that the "matter is very important."

Frank Andrea was sentenced by Federal Judge Woodrough to five months and sixteen days in jail, which five months and sixteen days he has already served, that being the time since he was arrested May 22. So he was liberated as soon as sentence was imposed.

"I think this time I've been in jail has cured me of the 'dope' habit," said Andrea. "I never sold any dope as charged, but had to have it for myself."

Andrea said he has an aged mother living in Florence and that he will go to work to support her.

Wife Won't Cook for Him Nor Will She Eat With Him

Complaining that his wife won't cook meals for him except on rare occasions, and then won't eat at the same table with him, Charles W. Beerup, a traveling salesman, seeks a divorce from Nellie Beerup. Cruelty is the specific allegation. Beerup states in his petition, filed with the clerk of the district court, that he is home only on Saturdays and Sundays, but that his wife always makes it a point to be somewhere else when he is in Omaha.

Public Improvements Want Binding Contract

The department of public improvements has given the Grant Paving company one more opportunity to make good a promise to carry out several city paving contracts which have been neglected. If this work is not started at once, as agreed, the city will take over the contracts. Next season's paving program will be placed on a basis which will hold the contractors to "strict accountability."

Candidates Hope Against Hope As the Returns Are Carried In

Over in a far corner of the election commissioner's office on the morning after election sat a stooped, gray-haired man, his face wearing the uttermost lines of dejection, down-in-the-mouthness and altogether indigo frame of mind. He was not one of the unsuccessful candidates, but he was of a host that had worked for a loser.

Someone said that twenty years ago this man was a power in local politics; now he was a "dead one," less than a flash in the pan, losing out on even the chance of gleaning a few crumbs from the political counter—a minor job in one of the county offices.

Politicians, candidates—both successful, unsuccessful and still in doubt—swarmed like bees about the election commissioner's office all day long. What a variety of emotions flitted over their countenances—worry and dejection, peace of mind and elation, joyousness and jubilation.

As some new ballot box was brought in to the office and opened there was a rush for places of vantage, a scurrying for pencils and paper and a hush as the returns from such and such a precinct were read. Hope springs eternal in the human breast; likewise you can't convince a candidate he's defeated until every vote is in and every vestige of doubt removed.

Hoping against hope and conceding nothing as long as the totals continued to fluctuate with the counting of each new batch of ballots, the obvious losers took defeat in different ways—some gracefully and with the smile that won't come off, others not so gracefully and muttering strange things to themselves.

The election commissioner's office seemed to be the mecca for the candidates for county offices, at least they were all represented there at the opening of the ballot boxes as the day progressed. Congratulations, or expressions of "it's too bad, Bill," or "you've still got a chance, Bill," fell upon welcome or unwelcome ears.

Republicans kidded democrats and both of them kidded socialists; wets and dries rebashed their arguments sedate judges "bummed" chews of tobacco from "two by four" politicians. Yea, verily, politics make strange bedfellows.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW HALED INTO COURT

Union Pacific Railroad Will Test Constitutionality of Wilson's Adamson Act.

TRAINMEN DEFENDANTS

Union Pacific Railroad company filed suit in the federal court here to test the constitutionality of the so-called "eight-hour law," recently passed by congress, and known as the Adamson act.

Thomas S. Allen, United States district attorney, and four Union Pacific trainmen representing the different railroad brotherhoods are made parties defendant. The bill of complaint alleges that the law is unconstitutional because it is not a proper regulation of interstate commerce; because it violates the guarantee of the fifth amendment to the federal constitution, and because it is unworkable as applied to existing conditions under which the trainmen are operating. The bill of complaint is a printed document of considerable size and contains copies of all the schedules under which the trainmen work.

It is said that this is the first suit filed in the United States to test the Adamson act.

Arkansas Retains Its Prohibition Policy

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 8.—Arkansas retained prohibition in this state by a vote of 3 to 1 against the proposal to repeal the statewide prohibition law, it was indicated by incomplete returns. In national and state contests the democrats returned their usual majorities.

Hughes Has Lead of Three Thousand in West Virginia State

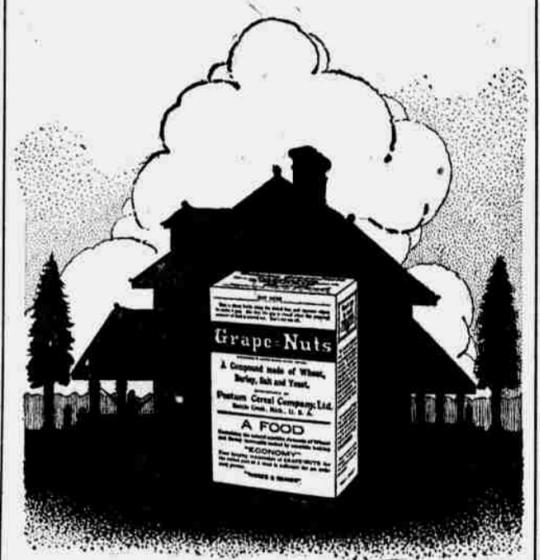

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 8.—Returns from 155 precincts out of 1,713 in the state give Robinson, republican nominee for governor, a lead of nine votes over his democratic opponent, Cornwell, while Sutherland, republican nominee for United States senator, is assuming a safe lead over Chilton, democrat. Returns also indicated that the republicans will elect at least three congressmen.

The suffrage amendment is defeated on the face of the returns thus far received. Of 265 precincts out of the 1,713, Hughes' has a plurality of 3,042. If this ratio is maintained throughout the state Hughes' plurality will be 19,700.
