

WILSON SPEAKS OF NEED FOR FIGHTING

President Says "We Can All Address Ourselves to Welfare of Nation."

SPEAKS TO A DELEGATION

Williamstown, Mass., Nov. 11.—"Now that the campaign is over we may all address ourselves to the welfare of the nation without thought of partisan feeling," declared President Wilson in his first public speech since the national election, delivered before a delegation of Williamstown residents and Williams college students, who greeted him late yesterday. The president was welcomed by the students and townspeople after the christening of Eleanor Axson Sayre, the second child of his daughter, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, and for whom he stood as godfather.

Soon after his arrival at the home of his son-in-law, assistant to the president of Williams college, the delegation, headed by President H. A. Garfield, of the college, marched to the Sayre home. The president spoke from the porch of the house and was cheered enthusiastically by the students.

Comes to Rest and Forget.

"I came here to forget the field of politics and for a brief rest. I came simply to visit my daughter and to attend a simple ceremony here today," he said. "Now that the campaign is over we may all address ourselves to the welfare of the nation without thought of partisan feeling." The president referred to his service as chief executive of Princeton university, saying he knew from experience there was politics even in the running of a college.

He Tells a Story.

Mr. Wilson told a story of a man having a vision in which he was offered a horn and a sword and chose the horn. Immediately the vision vanished and the man was cursed for taking the horn before the sword. He told the story to illustrate the necessity for fighting.

Baby Cries All the Time.

Soon after his arrival with Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, his cousin, the president went to St. John's Protestant Episcopal church to attend the christening. The family party rode the few blocks to the church in an automobile. The baby cried continuously. Inside the church only a few intimate friends of Mrs. Sayre witnessed the ceremony.

Leaves This Afternoon.

Tonight the family had dinner together at the Sayre home. The president will remain here until 5:25 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and then will return to Washington, where he is due to arrive Sunday night. Tomorrow he will sail quietly with his family.

On his way here the president was cheered by crowds at Troy and several other towns in New York and Massachusetts. Railroad engineers blew shrill blasts on their whistles as he passed their locomotives.

Will is Filed, but It Will Not Be Read For Some Time Yet

Wanted—Someone who is not afraid of germs to read a will just filed with the clerk of the county court. Apply to Clyde C. Sundblad.

Reposing behind a mass of old records in a dark recess of the vault in the office of the clerk of the county court and safe from the hands of the curious, is an old tin can. In the can is a will, providing for the disposition of the estate of an Omaha man, who recently died from a contagious disease.

But the will hasn't as yet been opened and read. In fact, the officials in the office in question won't even touch the can containing the will. And they won't touch it until the formaldehyde placed in the can has done its work.

When the will was brought into the office to be filed for probate, and the nature of the diseased man's death was made known, there was a rush for the formaldehyde bottle and the nearest garbage can. So the contents of the will will not be known for a while, at least.

The Family Medicine Chest

Must contain a good treatment for colds, coughs and catarrhal troubles.

It must contain a reliable treatment for disordered digestion, impaired appetite, etc.

It must also have a good tonic to restore strength after illnesses, to overcome depression and nervousness. These three lines of physical trouble are all closely allied. One good remedy will treat all of them successfully in most cases.

PERUNA Is Indispensable

It's the one remedy that covers all of these various complaints, and it is the one remedy that has won a strongly entrenched position in the American home, as a result of forty-five years of successful ministration.

Peruna is insurance. Its prompt use has beaten off many a serious attack, and it has conquered catarrh of many years' standing.

In its liquid form it has well established itself, solely on its merits, and in the tablet form thousands rely upon it to give quick aid.

Manalin is another indispensable. It is the ideal laxative and liver tonic. Ideal because it is effective, mild and pleasant, and because it overcomes the difficulty without forming a habit. Used rightly, it often is the means of restoring correct bowel action. In the liquid form it has been used almost as long as Peruna, and in the new tablet form it is delightful to the taste, convenient in administration, safe for invalids and children, and promptly effective.

These medicines are standard in the homes of thousands. Merit has won success.
