POTASH FIELDS ARE PAYING OUT WELL

Omaha People Put Close to Million in Development and Get Big Returns.

MAKING THE DESERT YIELD

Omahans within the last ninety lays have put close to $1,000,000 ino an infant industry in the western part of Nebraska and already they are garnering immense returns from the investment. The Omahans referred to have turned the hitherto worthless alkali flats and lake beds into what are proving to be veritable gold mines, proving to be veritable gold mines, for from them 'they are gathering commercial potash that is worth around $1 per pound.

The potash industry has been developed through the investigations of E. A. Cudahy of the Cudahy Packing company, W. A. Page of the American Smelting and Refining company, the Redicks and a number of other capitalists. They started in a small way and without any flourish of trumpets, thus securing long time trumpets, thus securing long time léases on numerous alkali flats and lake beds in and around Antioch, Birdsell, Lakeside and Huffland in Sheridan and Garden counties.

Evaporating Plants. At Antioch and Huffland evaporating plants have been erected at a cost of nearly $500,000. In addition, in numerous of the takes, large wells have been sunk to the hard-pan soil, have been sunk to the hard-pan soil, and into these, which are cased with heavy iron, the surrounding low lands have been drained. From the wells the water, strongly impregnated with potash, is puniped to the evaporating plants. In the evaporating process the water is boiled off, leaving only the potash salts and crystals. The fields give employment to more than 1,000 men, who live in small wooden buildings that have been erected around the works.

1,000 men, who live in the fields the buildings that have been erected around the works.

At another place in the fields the evaporation is being done by the heat of the sun. At this plant a space of ten acres is covered with immense iron pans. Into these the water impregnated with the potash is pumped and left to evaporate. This is conand left to evaporate. This is con-sidered much the cheaper plan, but the process of securing the commer-cial potash is slow.

RELUCTANT ROMEO'S TO MAKE SURVEY OF BUSTED ROMANCE

Jacob Fried Faces Firing Squad of Lawyers to Get Heart Balm.

The case of the timorous tinner, who is making legal efforts to pry his father-in-law and mother-in-law loose from much coin of the realm, on the grounds that they cajoled him into grounds that they cajoled him into marrying their daughter and then disrupted the harmony of the newlyweds' household, continues to hum along merrily in Judge Estelle's court. Jacob Fried, 314 North Twenty-fifth street, tinner and erstwhile reductant Romeo, is suing Mr. and Mrs. Max Venger of Genoa, Neb., for $10,000 for alleged alienation of his wife's affections. Mr. Venger, a prosperous affections. Mr. Venger, a prosperous merchant of Genoa, resents his son-in-law's assertions and has a double-barreled legal battery to see that Fried doesn't deplete the Venger exchequer without a struggle.

Prigid Glances.

Mrs. Venger eyed Fried with cold disdain when she mounted to the witness stand to tell of her daughter's love affair and subsequent marriage to the Omaha tinner. The comely wife of the Genoa merchant emphatically denied that Fried manifested any philanthropical proclivities in his relations with the Venger family.

To the query by attorneys as to whether or not the tinner ever gave her any money when she visited the young couple in Omaha after their marriage, Mrs. Venger replied:

Money from Jake? Ha! Ha! Frigid Glances.

Money from Jake? Ha! Ha!

Money from Jake? Ha! Ha!

"Who? Jake Fried give me money

Jake? No! No!"

The answer caused a big laugh in the court room.

The walls of the court room reverberated with the tongue of Moses when several witnesses, unable to speak English, were called. An interpreter was kept busy for some time getting the testimony to the court.

Also, the attorneys kept busy entering objections when they "had hunches" that the witnesses were getting off the track of the cross-examination.

No reliable statistics, they say, are obtainable from Russia and Russian-Poland, where formerly many hogs were raised, and many bristles marketed. This is known, however, that Russian bristles today are 20 per cent higher than they were. French bristles are unobtainable. China bristles are holding firm, and dealers say China and the United States will have to furnish the bristles in the future. The American hog has been bred so fine that it no longer produces the long bristles once available for brush manufacture.

Farmor Crushed to Death Under Wagon

ufacture.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 14.—(Special.)—Neighbors passing along a highway found the body of John Strom, a well-known farmer residing four miles south of Wallace, pinned under his overturned wagon on the road between Wallace and his farm. He is believed to have been killed instantly when his wagon ran off the grade in the darkness and tipped over. He started from Wallace for his home shortly after dark. When his body was found his horses were standing quietly near the highway, still hitched to the wagon. He was a pioneer settler of the Wallace territory. The dead man is survived by a widow and several children.

Wheat Off and Corn Up Here on Light Receipts

The cold weather and the storm brought Omaha grain receipts down to a low level, there being only thirty-nine cars of wheat, twenty-three of corn and seventeen of oats on the market.

Wheat was off 2 cents per bushel, selling at $1.83 to $1.88½ per bushel. Corn was up ½ to 1½ cents and sold at 95½ to 99 cents per bushel, while oats were unchanged from Monday, selling at 55% to 55% cents.
