

TEACHERS ENROLL TO NUMBER OF 3,700

Most Representative Gathering of All the State in Spite of Some Holdbacks.

ATTENDANCE SHOWS WELL

Although Kearney, Lincoln, Aurora and some of the other towns in the state systematically avoided attendance at the convention of the Nebraska Teachers' association this year in Omaha, other towns from all over the state brought such excellent attendance that the enrollment suffered very little in the total.

St. Edward, for example, was here with eleven teachers, while the teachers from that place were not here at all last year. Tekamah had twenty-three teachers here as against fourteen last year. Rising City was here with seven, while last year there were no teachers from that place. Plattsmouth enrolled thirty-one, while last year it enrolled but four in the association. The West Point schools had sixteen here this year as against two last year. Wisner had seven as against two. Eagle had five, and none last year. South Sioux City had six as against three the previous year, Lexington also had six as against three. North Bend brought fifteen as against six the previous year. Snyder enrolled four as against one the previous year. Uehling enrolled four as against none the previous year. Spalding enrolled eight as against none the previous year.

More From University.
The University of Nebraska enrolled a larger force of instructors than ever before. Cotner university also had a larger representation and College View was stronger than in past years.

Fullerton registered eighteen teachers as against one the previous year. Plainview brought in ten teachers as against none the year before. Friend had sixteen, to none the previous year. Dorchester had four teachers, to none the previous year. Pender enrolled nine of its teachers as against four the previous year. Blair registered forty-five as against thirty-nine the previous year. Wayne came in with thirty-four as against none the previous year. Wahbe brought a force of thirty as against twenty-one last year. Ceresco came with four as against two last year. Ashland brought fourteen to only one the previous year. Alliance furnished six teachers as against two last year. Butte came in with six as against one last year.

More Representative.
There are representative towns from all over the state that show up the attendance at the association to have been more representative than ever in spite of the efforts on the part of some to withhold attendance. Superintendents and school boards in certain sections of the state sought to hold down the attendance, and thus it is found on checking over the attendance that Aurora enrolled but five teachers this year as against thirty-four last year. A. E. Fischer is superintendent there. Only a fragment of the Lincoln teachers came over, out of something over 300 who normally attend. Superintendent Fred Hunter was up for one day only. In Adams county the influence of this movement against the association was also seen in that there were but twenty-seven teachers here from the county, as against sixty-five the year before. Johnson county also fell under the spell, the whole county producing but seven enrollments out of forty-three last year. Jefferson county is another where the influence of the anti-associationists is strong. But four teachers came from that county, out of forty-four last year. Kearney was meagerly represented at this year's convention. A. L. Caviness is superintendent there.

These are a few significant facts the preliminary check of this year's enrollment shows. The increased interest among the smaller towns all over the state, however, has brought the attendance well up to former marks; and the attendance this year was something over 3,700.

Daughters Favor Bureau For Service for Women

Establishment in Omaha and Lincoln of bureaus of free service in securing employment or better positions for unemployed, either Americans or foreign born—after made recently by the federal government—was advocated by local Daughters of the American Revolution at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. F. J. Hoel. Notices will be posted in every postoffice of employment opportunities in that locality and elsewhere and further information will be furnished at these bureaus, according to the plan. Commissioner Caminetti has this national work in charge. Miss Katherine Green of Lincoln, Neb., director of the society, Children and Sons of the Republic, was the speaker. Patriotic education among children of foreign-born and unacculturated citizens, and raising the number of men who take out naturalization papers, is the work of this organization. One thousand night classes in citizenship have been formed. Children are given patriotic education through public and Sunday schools.

Sunderland Bros. May Now Construct Garage

Sunderland Bros. company may complete the erection of a barn on Twenty-first street, between Leavenworth and Pierce streets.

Five members of the city council—Butler and Kugel dissenting—voted to place on file an ordinance to restrict this street to residence purposes.

Residents of the neighborhood made a hard fight to prevent completion of the barn.

Gould Dietz Buys Election Dinner for a Big Lunch

Gould Dietz paid an election bet Monday by buying a dinner at the Commercial club for the whole municipal affairs committee of the club. He bet on Hughes of course. He felt that Hughes must not lose, especially since Dietz was on the committee to notify Mr. Hughes of his election.

LABOR BUREAU TO GO IN COURT HOUSE

U. S. Government, County and City to Stand Back of the New Plan.

OPENS ABOUT JANUARY 1

The Co-operative Employment bureau, sponsored by the United States government, the state, county and city, although the state has no funds for the project at the present time, will be opened in the court house about the first of the year.

The use of the large room on the ground floor of the court house, facing Harney street, formerly used as a branch station of the public library, and more recently as a recruiting station, was granted at a meeting of the county commissioners Tuesday morning.

It is the intention of those who will be in charge of the bureau to furnish employment of all kinds—vocational and labor—for both men and women. As the name implies, the bureau is to be conducted on a co-operative basis. The county furnishes the room, the government the furnishings and equipment and the state and the city go fifty-fifty on the expenses of the clerical force. Bids on the equipment are to be asked for in a few days. While the state has no funds for the labor bureau at the present time, agitation is said to be under way for legislation that will permit the state to bear part of the expense.

To Complete Arrangements.
Tentative plans for the Co-operative Employment bureau were made when Commissioner General Caminetti of the bureau of immigration was in Omaha recently. He will return to this city shortly to complete the arrangements for the opening of the bureau.

Mr. Caminetti will talk in the city council chamber before representatives of all women's organizations in the city and will hold conferences with the county commissioners, the city commissioners and the Welfare board.

Coykendall in Charge.
M. A. Coykendall, a labor inspector, sent here by the government, who has had temporary quarters in the federal building, is to be in charge of the bureau, according to the present plans. The city will furnish two clerks and the government two or three workers. The plans call for a man chief and a woman chief, each specialists in labor matters.

A timely matter of considerable interest in the employment bureau line is the case now under advisement by Judge Sears of the district court as to the constitutionality of the state labor law. His decision, which the judge declared would probably be forthcoming this week, is expected to have quite a bearing on the operation of the private labor agencies.

Frail Little Girl, Musical Marvel, Weeps Bitterly at Dead Man's Bier

Pet Prodigy of the Late Prof. Landsberg Grows Hysterical with Poignant Grief at Services.

SWEETHEART IS PRESENT

Although the death of Sigmund Landsberg, musician and composer, was mourned by many friends, there was none, save perhaps his fiancée, who appeared to grieve so deeply as 13-year-old Anna Leaf, daughter of Mrs. Gusta Leaf, 1726 South Twenty-sixth street.

The little girl is a musical prodigy and was discovered by Prof. Landsberg some six years ago. Since that time he had conducted her instruction and after the sensation she created before the Tuesday Morning Musical club was visited by a number of prominent society women, who agreed to co-operate with him in sending the child to Europe to complete her musical education.

Mrs. Leaf is a widow in moderate circumstances, and Prof. Landsberg's interest and declaration that he would educate Anna in the profession he loved won a regard and affection from both mother and child that was pitiful to behold at the funeral services conducted in Hoffman's chapel Monday afternoon.

The little girl first learned of her instructor's death on the car Saturday evening, and upon reaching home was placed under the care of a physician.

The sight of the last music lesson that Prof. Landsberg had given her so affected the child that her condition was really precarious for a time, as she is very delicate.

At the funeral both mother and little girl wept bitterly when they looked for the last time on the face of their friend, and it was through the invitation of a sympathetic witness that they were able to go to Pleasant Hill cemetery.

Miss Martha Schumann, the betrothed of the dead man, asserted in Hoffman's that in her opinion ill health was the reason why Landsberg took his life.

Hayward Gives Brooklyn 8-Cent Electric Light

A four-year fight for a new electric light schedule for Brooklyn has just been settled by a decision of the public service commission of New York rendered by William Hayward, well known here in Nebraska, where he has lived.

The voluminous opinion goes in great detail into the vital factors of capitalization, physical valuation, franchise and giving value claims, depreciation, rate of capital return and relative charges as between large and small consumers. Brooklyn had been paying a maximum 11-cent rate with $1 a month minimum on a lamp capacity scale and this Mr. Hayward's order reduces to an 8-cent maximum with steps down to 6 cents and 4 cents. The decision has the concurrence of all the other members of the public service commission and is likely to become a standard precedent in light rate contentions.

Street Railway Company Finishes Some New Cars

During last summer in its Omaha shops the street railway company started building twenty-five cars for the city lines. Thirteen of these cars were completed and put out on the lines for the Ak-Sar-Ben rush traffic. Another was turned out Monday, going into service on the Harney line, and the remainder will be ready for service before the Christmas rush sets in.

The new cars are forty-one feet long, with each having a seating capacity for thirty-six people. They are heated by electricity, standard yellow in color and equipped with solid brass hardware.

Ducks Whistle at Lazy Alligators in Hanscom Park Home

One of the happiest families in Omaha comprises five Mexican ducks and thirteen alligators, occupying quarters in the steam-heated greenhouse at Hanscom park. The gators mass themselves against a steampipe and snooze the happy hours away.

The ducks from the land of Pancho Villa are identified by a peculiar shrill whistle which disturbs the nerves of the alligators. When one of the ducks gets its whistle in working order the large alligator languidly raises its head, blinks its eyes, opens its mouth, then reverses these movements and resumes its siesta.

Four for School Board for Four Years, Four for Two

Reed, Burns, Clark and Wells, being the four highest on the face of the unofficial returns for members of the school board, are elected for four years, and Talmadge, Falconer, Brogan and Warfield, being the low four of those elected, will serve for two years, if the official count bears out the unofficial returns.

When it was announced that J. W. Carpenter was to resign from the school board it was given out that John Bekins probably would be chosen to fill out the unexpired term. Now new candidates are being considered. Friends of W. A. Foster are urging his selection and Arthur Rosenblum, who withdrew, is also being mentioned.

SPENDING YEARS EVERY DAY HERE

Composite Citizen's Age Makes Methuselah's Grandma Look Like Young "Chicken."

WASTING SECONDS COSTLY

By A. R. GROH.
We, the 200,000 inhabitants of Omaha, use up 548 years of time every day.

Do you "get" my thought, Socrates? If is rather deep, so I'll elucidate. Every living person uses up one day of time every day. Admitted. Therefore the 200,000 persons in Greater Omaha use up 200,000 days of time every day.

Dividing by 365, we get 547 years, eleven months and thirteen days. That is 124 years longer than the time that has elapsed since Chris Columbus discovered America.

Every day between the time you leave the office at 5:30 and the time the show starts or the time you arrive at "her" house or the time you get settled with the "Descent of Man" or Anybody's magazine for an evening of reading at home—every day during that short two and a half hours we 200,000 people use up more time than has elapsed since the first house was built in Omaha.

Cost of Lore.
The 30,000 children in our schools use up seventeen years, one month and fifteen days of time every day, assuming that they spend five hours daily in school. Do I hear little Jimmie remark that it seems longer than that?

We spend about 183 years every night sleeping—which makes Rip Van Winkle look like a night rouser and a sun dodger.

Figuring that we spend on an average an hour and a half every day eating our meals, we use up thirty-four years and three months of time doing that.

Assuming that half our people spend an average of one hour in church on Sunday, they use up eleven years and five months of time in worship upon the Sabbath day.

Every time the clock ticks off one minute we 200,000 spendthrift people use up four months and eighteen days of time.

High Cost of Loafing.
Talk about the high cost of living! We can all buy bread and meat and potatoes—even at present prices. And if we can't buy, somebody will give them to us. But we can't buy or beg for time. It is the one necessity that costs nothing and yet is the most valuable. And because it costs nothing we are the most careless about spending it.

If we all used our time as carefully as Benjamin Franklin did we would be either famous or insane. Ben was as careful with his time as with his money and he left footprints in the sands of time.

There is a happy medium. Every moment should not be devoted to producing money or noble deeds or stonemasonry. Moments spent in rest, in meditating or just in "loafing" are well invested. Only don't invest too many of them this way.

U. P. Employees Must Cut Out Smoking

If you are a Union Pacific employe you have got to be mighty cautious about smoking in, or around, the headquarters building. If you are caught smoking a pipe, cigar or cigarette, you are likely to be fired, and fired without any ado, according to a tobacco-using official circular issued from the office of General Manager Jeffers.

For a long time there has been a

Union Pacific order placing a bar upon the use of tobacco in any of the offices of the headquarters building, at least, so far as employes are concerned. Now the scope of this order has been broadened, taking in halls, corridors, lobbies, toilets and other places. In addition, the order prohibits the scattering of saliva that is mixed with tobacco. It discourages the scattering of waste paper around the building. The disfiguring of the walls is the next thing to a penal offense.

While the Jeffers order mentions only Union Pacific employes, a copy has been sent to President Calvin but up to this time he has not commented upon what effect it will have upon his smoking inside the building of which he is the recognized boss.

Keeps Her Children In Perfect Health

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the Family Laxative for Many Years

Mrs. Aug. Doellefeld of Carlyle, Ill., recently wrote to Dr. Caldwell, at Monticello, Ill., that she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in her home for a number of years, and would not be without it, as with it she has been able to keep her four children in perfect health.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that acts on the bowels in an easy, natural way, and regulates the action of this most important function. Nearly all the sickness to which children are subject is traceable to bowel inaction, and a mild, dependable laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, should have a place in every family medicine chest. It is pleasant to the taste and children like it, and take it readily, while it is equally effective for adults.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere for fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.
