

APPONYI PREDICTS EARLY END OF WAR

Statesman Thinks Peace Negotiations Will Open Soon as Roumania is Crushed.

PREMIERS LESS BITTER

Berlin, Nov. 13.—(Via London, Nov. 15.—Delayed.)—The opening of peace negotiations may perhaps be expected with fair prospects of success in the course of the coming winter, according to Count Albert Apponyi, veteran Hungarian leader and former Hungarian premier, Count Apponyi, who is visiting Germany to deliver two addresses on Hungarian history, expressed his views in an interview given to a correspondent of the Associated Press in which he discussed the general European situation.

Finish of Roumania Near. "We cannot expect," he said, "to see peace negotiations opened within the next few weeks while the Roumanian campaign is still undecided. However, I regard our chances for success there as excellent and once Roumania is crushed I think both sides will be willing to consider the question of peace. Roumania was the entente's last card and is proving a losing one. We are massing a big army against the Roumanians and I think that the end will come shortly.

"Of course, our progress on the Transylvanian front is a bit slow, owing to the great difficulties of the country and particularly to the deficiency in rearward communications. These communications are far poorer than in the west, or even in Galicia and Roumania. However, the entry of Roumania into the war has in many respects been really advantageous to us.

Chancellors Less Exact

To illustrate what he regards as the improving chances for peace negotiations, Count Apponyi referred to recent speeches of statesmen in the opposing camps. "Not Lloyd George, of course," he interjected parenthetically, "but such as Lord Grey and Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, for example." He suggested a comparison between the utterances of these leaders a year ago and at present. "Then," he said, "their respective standpoints were as far apart as the poles, but now, although there are still wide differences between them, they have most appreciably drawn nearer. The joy has been eliminated from the British pronouncements and the agitation for annexation is dwindling in Germany."

Wilson May Mediate

Count Apponyi was asked if he thought the impulse to start peace discussions could come from within the camps of the warring powers or whether an outside impetus, in the form of a tender of good offices from a neutral personage or power would be necessary. He replied that he saw no reason why neutral mediation should not be welcomed when the opportune moment to which he had referred should arrive and added that he knew no reason why President Wilson should not be acceptable as an intermediary.

"We feel, of course," he said, "that President Wilson has not treated us fairly and that he has departed from the way of strict neutrality. But, even though one does not like a person, that is no reason for rejecting his services when these may be useful."

The Hungarian statesman believes that the war should not only end because of what he regards as the futility of further hostilities, but because of his expressed conviction as to the menace of Russia. He declared that the western states of Europe must band themselves together for defense against Russia, which country he characterized as the great menace to the future peace of Europe and the world.

In his opinion France's efforts to retain Alsace-Lorraine are doomed to failure and the republic may as well reconcile itself to peaceful and friendly relations with its eastern neighbors. He holds that Great Britain has made an abortive effort to crush Germany as a trade rival by appeal to arms, but that there is nothing essential in the character of the three nations to prevent their union as friends.

In respect to Russia, however, on the other hand, Count Apponyi declared that the organization of the country contains the germ of war and that it is compelled by the very essence of its being to attempt to extend its domination at every opportunity over the nations with which it is in contact.

"Once this war is finished," he said, "Europe will probably have at least twenty-five or thirty years of peace, until the generation which has passed through this conflict has departed from the stage. This should give time and opportunity to a wise and far-seeing diplomacy by which the western states of Europe can arrange for protection against the disturbing element in the east."

Count Apponyi says that his views are shared by all leading Hungarians, and, with the possible exception of certain Slavonic elements in Austria, are also held by the leaders in that country.

Governorship of Arizona in Doubt

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 15.—The identity of Arizona's next governor still is in doubt. At democratic headquarters today it was said Governor Hunt was leading by seven votes.

The republicans claimed Thomas Campbell's election by a plurality of at least 160. The official count will begin next Monday. On the face of the unofficial returns, with twelve precincts missing, Campbell today had a lead of 138 votes.

H. E. Fredrickson and Wife Plunge Into an Irrigation Ditch Full of Ice

Though he drove his car into an irrigation ditch in Colorado, smashed through the ice and abandoned the car in four feet of ice and water, H. E. Fredrickson is back in Omaha healthy and happy.

Mrs. Fredrickson, who with her husband in this adventure, is recuperating at the home of her parents in Fremont, nursing a scratched nose, a scarred lip and other facial bruises.

"If we hadn't left Denver on a Friday," said Mr. Fredrickson, "we would have been killed; but I am always lucky when I start anything on Friday. That's why I started for Omaha on Friday."

The Fredricksons encountered much bad weather and therefore did not get out of Colorado by Monday of this week. It was on Monday that they were hurled into the irrigation ditch. They were driving thirty miles an hour on a graded road with a big irrigation ditch on either side.

Another car was approaching and also two men on horseback. Fredrickson sought to turn out and found to his dismay that his steering gear was broken. He kicked his heel upon the brake and rammed down the emergency, but the car leaped the embankment and crashed into the ice, slush and water, so deep that the water flooded the body of the car and the Fredricksons got their feet wet and their heads bumped and scarred.

Farmers working in the beet fields hitched thirty horses and mules to the car before they could pull it out. The Fredricksons left the car for repairs and came in on the train.

IRISH BETTER OFF DESPITE UPRISING

Even Dublin Women Make Good Wages in Shell-Making Factories.

LORD MAYOR EXPLAINS (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)

Dublin, Ireland, Nov. 1.—The Dublin correspondent of The Associated Press has interviewed the Right Hon. James Gallagher, lord mayor of Dublin, in reference to the statements which have been made regarding a supposed exceptional state of distress in the city due to the April rebellion, and its suppression.

The lord mayor said: "We are absolutely better off this year than last year, notwithstanding the rebellion. There is, as far as I can see, no exceptional distress at all. There is, on the contrary, a good deal of money coming into the city for separation allowances for the dependents of the men, most of them of the working classes, who joined the army. Information obtained from various traders in the city enable me to say that trade is as good if not better than it was twelve months ago. Moreover, employment has been added to owing to the amount of munition work done in the city. We have five or six factories each employing from 100 to 600 hands. Women are earning very good wages, and Dublin women have proved very adaptable in shell making. The result is that the government is able to turn out shells in Dublin and in Ireland generally, cheaper than it can do in England."

The effect of the rebellion, said the lord mayor, "was only temporary. A certain number of people were thrown out of employment by the destruction of the premises in which they worked; but that temporary need was promptly met. I got up a fund which amounted to 500 or 600 pounds, and the local committee which had been working for the Prince of Wales' fund in relief of war distress gave me permission to spend from their resources something like 2,000 pounds in addition. We had the advantage in distributing these funds in the necessities of all the machinery used by the local relief committee. The need was only temporary, most of the people who were not employed at that time have got employment either from their old or new employers. Some went to England and secured employment in the munitions factories."

The authorities of the St. Vincent de Paul society, who have closer touch with the poor in the city of Dublin than any other organization, tell me that the number of cases on their books in the city is exactly the same today as it was at the beginning of October last year."

Germany's Income Tax Shows Less Business

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.) Berlin, Nov. 1.—In making up the income tax list for 1915, which is to yield the city of Berlin 45,072,981 marks this year, instead of 42,700,000 last year, the authorities find that the incomes of individuals in all classes of taxpayers have increased, while those of firms and business houses in general have as consistently decreased.

There are 30,834 more persons with taxable incomes under 3,000 marks than in 1915, and 593 more who are taxed on incomes over 3,000 marks than there were a year ago. On the other hand there are a total of 156 less firms who will help fill the city's coffers than there were.

Mrs. Brame's case is typical of many others who have found S. S. S. the only relief from Rheumatism. Mrs. Brame's happy experience will be yours if you follow her advice and take S. S. S.

Not a Mystery. There is nothing mysterious about this accomplishment. Mrs. Brame only needed a remedy that would drive out of the blood those impurities responsible for her Rheumatism, and at the same time replenish the blood with the strength-giving qualities that only S. S. S. in such cases, as well as in other blood disorders, is due to the fact that the ingredients of S. S. S. are purely vegetable and distinguished for their restorative properties.

HEARING OF 'MASTER SPY' IS POSTPONED

Arraignment of Graves Delayed Until Prince Gets Permit to Testify.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The preliminary hearing of Karl Armgard Graves, self-styled international spy, charged with attempting to extort $3,000 from Countess von Bernstorff, wife of the German ambassador, was postponed until December 6, at the request of the United States attorney's office.

When Graves, with his lawyers, appeared before United States Commissioner Taylor, the prosecution announced that testimony of Prince Hatzfeldt, counselor of the German embassy, with whom Graves dealt, was essential. The prince, however, may not appear without permission of his government. It may be two weeks before permission is received.

The bond of $2,000 under which Graves was released after his arrest last Saturday was continued. Graves and his lawyers planned to leave Washington for New York during the day.

TIMOROUS TINNER PRESSES HIS SUIT

Father-in-Law Waxed Fiery on the Stand When He Tells of Efforts to Avoid Trouble.

JAKE TITTERS AT SIGHT

Max Venger, well-to-do Genoa (Neb.) merchant, one of the defendants in a $10,000 alienation of affections suit, brought by Jacob Fried of Omaha, a timorous but persistent tinner, who insists that his father-in-law "gyped" him out of his spouse's love, waxed fiery on the witness stand in Judge Estelle's court when he told of his efforts to keep peace in the Fried household when a disruption seemed imminent.

Fried, whose path crossed that of the Vengers while he was on a tinning expedition in Genoa, where the Indian school is located, tittered when his father-in-law told of the courtship, the wedding and the eventual "bustup" in the young couple's home. The Genoa business man testified that he and his friends did all in their power to keep the young people sailing along smoothly on the sea of matrimony. "If anyone rocked the boat, Venger averred, it was the son-in-law and not he or Mrs. Venger, whom the tinner would have the court separate from the price of several fivers.

All Call Him Jake. On the other hand Jake Fried (practically all of the witnesses call him Jake) and his attorneys are attempting to get out of their proverbial "twelve good men and true," that Ma and Pa Venger were the ones who threw sand in the harmony machinery of the newlyweds' household. Jake emphatically insists that when he first went to Genoa he was just a plain sort of fellow, a member in good standing in the tinner's profession, with not a whit of a thought toward the fair sex or matrimony in any way, shape or form. He adds that he was convinced against his will by Venger that it was not good for man to live alone and that the belle of the Venger domicile was his logical mate.

President Wilson Sends Wireless Greeting to the Emperor of Japan

Washington, Nov. 15.—The opening of direct trans-Pacific wireless service between the United States and Japan through the Marconi company, was signalled today with the following message from President Wilson, to which a reply is expected during the day:

"To His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, at Tokyo: The government and the people of the United States of America send greetings to your imperial majesty and to the people of Japan and rejoice in this triumph of science which enables the voice of America from the far west to cross the silent spaces of the world and speak to Japan in the far east, heralding the dawn of a new day. TEIPER ARRAIGNED ON MURDER CHARGE

Buffalo Man Accused of Shooting and Beating His Mother to Death.

CRIME IS SENSATIONAL

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Charged with murdering his mother by shooting and beating her to death at midnight, January 30 last, John Edward Teiper was brought into court for trial here today. At her home his sister, Grace, who is expected to be the chief witness in the trial, lay under the care of a physician, her mind said still to be a blank as to events immediately preceding the assault it is charged Teiper made upon her at the same time and place their mother met death. It is understood that both defense and prosecution are agreed that it will be necessary to take Miss Teiper's evidence by deposition at home.

It is said that the defense expects her evidence to support Teiper's claim that the crimes were committed by an unknown man, supposedly a negro, who attacked his mother, sister and brother, Frederic, to rob them as their automobile stood in the roadway near her. The brother also met death and Teiper is charged with his murder, as well as with assault with intention to kill his sister, but it is only for the murder of the mother that he was placed on trial.

Authorities assert that the lads for several weeks have systematically robbed freight cars in the South Side railroad yards and hidden the loot, consisting principally of butter, boxes of soap and grain. Most of the boys, whose ages range from 9 to 14 years, go to school. Stolen cartons of gutter were traced to several homes. Detective Phillips of the Union Pacific reported.

Youthful Boxcar Thieves Caught

Juvenile court officers and Union Pacific detectives have broken up a band of youthful freight car robbers which has given the South Side police considerable trouble in the last few weeks.

According to Gus Miller, probation officer, at least eighteen members of the boydom "outlaw clan" will be given a hearing before Judge Leslie Saturday morning. The three ring-leaders are being detained in River-view home, while the others have been taken in hand by their respective parents.

Save $175 On A HUDSON SUPER-SIX

The Hudson Super-Six, Winner of all Worth-While Car Records, Advances $175 December 1

Every Hudson Super-Six owner takes pride in the fact that his car is just like the Super-Six cars which have broken all worth-while records. A 7-passenger Super-Six touring car went from San Francisco to New York and return in 10 days, 21 hours—only 2½ days longer than last spring's best one-way time. So when a Super-Six owner starts on tour he knows that he will have no difficulty in going wherever he may want to go.

He knows that no other car has ever given such proof of endurance. He knows no stock car can excel in speed or acceleration. He knows that, if he wishes, no one can match the things he can do with his Super-Six. You, too, can own such a car and save $175 in its purchase if you buy before December 1st. You have only sixteen days in which to act. Some dealers have already sold all the cars they are to get at present prices. You should see about it today—else you may be too late.

Note Its Rapid Strides The Super-Six invention is but a few months old. It entered a field disputed and doubted. Today it stands as the unquestioned monarch of motordom.

The Super-Six invention gave more than was claimed or sought for in other types of motors. Without adding cylinders, size or complications, greater power, more flexibility and—as proved in tests—an endurance such as was unknown to motor cars before was obtained.

That is why it won every stock car record up to 100 miles. It is why it recorded a speed, with a stock chassis, as high as 102½ miles per hour. It ran 1819 miles in 24 hours, exceeding the former stock car record by 52 per cent. It holds the record in the Pike's Peak hill-climb—the greatest hill-climbing event in all history—against 20 famous rivals.

It won the ocean-to-ocean record—San Francisco to New York—the most coveted American record. Then it did what no other car ever did—it turned around and went back across the con-

Look Ahead

Such is its first-year history. Now comes a time, for several reasons, why fine-car buyers ought to look ahead.

The car you buy now, open or enclosed, will last you for years to come. The Super-Six next year, even more than now, will be the recognized peak-place car. Men who seek the best will have it.

This motor is patented, so other cars can offer nothing like it. It is exclusive to Hudson. These are facts to consider now, before the Super-Six advances. For you can save $175 by making prompt decision.

It Will Pay to Buy Now

Material prices have advanced enormously. When we begin on the December production we begin with materials of higher cost.

There was no other way open to us. We should either have to skimp and reduce quality or advance the price in keeping with the higher material costs. You save $175 by buying now. That is, if your dealer has not sold all his allotment of cars of the present production.

The Super-Six models will remain as now. The changes, if any, will be minor refinements. So if you can get a car of the present production, it means a clear saving of $175. That is worth considering even if you buy an open car and lay it up until spring.
