Children Are Free

All children under 15 are admitted free to the Fine Arts exhibit at the Hotel Fontenelle, Mrs. George Prinz announces. "They need not be ac-companied by parents or teachers, but will be admitted at any time. We desire every child in the city to view the exhibit, if possible." The plan of setting aside certain afternoons for children of each school was abandoned this year be-cause the gallery is too small to ar-comm date so many at one time.

telephones had been installed and the first directory was issued. This directory was a single sheet of paper, 7 by 14 inches in size. At the top were printed voluminous instruc-tions for using the instrument, "How to call the central office," "How to converse with someone on your own circuit," etc. These Instruments

Those Instructions.

The corner at Nineteenth and Doug-las streets was recently purchased from O. C. Redick. It is 66x132 feet. It is planned to erect a building of not less than fifteen stories on the south half of this site. Then, when the businss expands, a twin building con-nected by a court can be erected on the north half. "To communicate with the central office," the instructions said, "signal two bells and wait for their response. two bells and wait for their response, after which remove the telephone i from its hook and be careful to push the hook to the left, and then, hold-ing the telephone firmly" (under-scored) "to the ear you will hear the voice of the operator at the central office. If you hear nothing, turn the bell several times to the right and call, as it may be someone is calling on your own circuit." After two or three weeks of study, it is probable most people were able to call the central office with consid-erable success. Today we grab the receiver from the hook and there's the central office. "A child can op-erate it."

General Headquarters. The new building will be the home of the executive and district offices of the Nebraska Telephone company. It will be the headquarters for Ne-braska, Iowa, Minnesota, South Da-kota and Wy ming. It will also house the Douglas and Tyler ex-changes of Omaha. and will in its entirety hold from 1,500 to 2,000 em-ployes. Plans of construction have not been determined as yet, but it is probable the building will be steel and brick and that the ground floors of the structure will be given over to stores. The cost has n't yet been decided uperate it.
