

Nebraska
FLAGMAN BEATEN
BY TRAIN ROBBERS

Comes Upon Two Men Throwing Switch Which Might Derail Train.

HE IS THEN BADLY CUT UP

Telegraph Operator Martin of the Missouri Pacific at Strausville, a flag station three miles this side of Falls City, was badly beaten up at 2 o'clock Friday morning by two unknown men. The presumption is that the men intended to hold up passenger train No. 105, due to pass Strausville at about 2:15 o'clock.

Strausville is just a semaphor station, only an operator being kept there and he occupying a box car set off beside the tracks. Just before 2 o'clock, looking out of the window of the box car, Martin noticed two men working with the north end of the switch. Grabbing a lantern he went out where they were. As he approached one of them struck him over the head with an iron bar, knocking him down. His lantern was taken away from him and with this he was struck in the face several times, inflicting some painful flesh wounds. The men then ran off into a field to the east, leaving Martin nearly unconscious.

Weak from loss of blood and suffering intense pain, Martin crawled back to his car and commenced working the wires, notifying agents along the line of what had happened. He stopped No. 105 when it came along and was taken aboard and brought to Nebraska City.

The Strausville siding is one of the most lonely places along the river line of the Missouri Pacific. It is on the edge of the woods and is nearly a half mile from any house, there being nothing there but the dismantled box car that houses the telegraph operator.
