

For Booklovers

Juvenile Fiction.
THE GOOD LITTLE GIRL. By Gaillet Burgess. New York. Frederick A. Stokes Co. $1.25.
 "Don't be a Goop!" The ill-mannered but fascinating O-heads of Mr. Burgess have served as many looking-glasses for a good many years. Here are 254 goops—each "caught in the act." This biggest of all the goop books includes a few of the best verses Mr. Burgess has published before with a great number of new ones.

WATER BABIES. By Charles Kingsley. The MacMillan Co. New York. $1.50.
 This is one of the golden books that is particularly delightful to children between the ages of 6 and 12. The text has been edited with notes and an introduction by Clifton Johnson. Some of the scientific digressions have been omitted, and it is believed that this is the most readable edition for young people ever published.

THE WAY TO THE HOUSE OF SANTA CLAUS. By Frances Hodgson Burnett. New York. Harper & Bros. $1.00.
 A Christmas story for very small boys in which every reader is the hero of a big adventure. This fascinating little book is written by the author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and is printed in such a way that if intended as a gift for a small boy there is room on the pages for his own name to be inserted, making the adventure apply to him as his very own. Something new in the way of a Christmas story and one that will surely appeal to every little boy.

WONDER BOX STORIES. By Will Bradley. New York City. The Century Co. $1.00.
 A collection of a dozen stories for boys and girls of fairy tale age. Each story is complete in itself, but familiar scenes and old acquaintances met previously in the book turn up now and again. Young people will find Mr. Bradley's new book a treasure box—as well as a wonder box—of delight.

DOROTHY DAINTRY'S NEW FRIENDS. By Amy Brooks. Boston. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company. $1.00.
 Dorothy Daintry, whose name is a household word, has here her first experience as a pupil in a public school, a striking change from the exclusive private classes which she and her happy little friends have attended. Her sensible parents believe that Dorothy should learn to meet people from other homes. Dorothy with her gentle tact fits easily into her new surroundings, with no lack of fun and activity.

THE YOUNG FOLK'S BOOK OF IDEALS. By William Byron Forbush. Boston. Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company. $1.50.
 This is intended to be the fundamental book in the library of boys and girls between 12 and 18, and it deserves its place in interest, fullness and worth. This book wisely, safely and at the same time entertainingly provides what young people long to be told if only it is done capably and pleasingly. The book is produced in a style worthy of its really great contents.

THE ALLIES FAIRY BOOK. By Edmund Gause. Philadelphia. J. B. Lippincott & Co. $1.75.
 What! Is the war to be mixed up with fairies? It looks that way. But it is really a collection of fairy tales, one each being from the nations known as the allies, with the exception of Rumania, which joined the allies after the book had gone to press. The book is attractively bound and the print is exceptionally clear and black. Fairy tales, as we all know, never fall on the "young idea."

POLLY TROTTER PATRIOT. By Emilie Benson Knipe and Alden Arthur Knipe. New York. The MacMillan Company. $1.25.
 That a little girl can serve her country in time of trouble quite as heroically as the boys and men of the family is the thought underlying this stirring story. Polly Trotter's brother and father help the colonists in their fight for freedom and Polly, for a while, bewails the fact that because she is a girl there is nothing she can do. Her error in thinking this way and the splendid way in which she aids the cause comprise as interesting a story of revolutionary days as "The Maid of '76," by the same author.

Miscellaneous.
THE SCIENCE OF RELIGION. By Daniel A. Simmons. New York. Fleming H. Revell Company. $1.00.
 There are big questions dealt with in this notable and timely book. Religion answers them in the affirmative—physical science, apparently, in the negative. This work employs the findings of science to show that science and religion are really in harmony, and that all the known facts of nature are in accord with the fundamental postulates of religion.

THE STORY OF THE BATTLE HYMN OF THE REPUBLIC. By Florence Howe Hall. New York. Hill, New York. Harper & Brothers. 50 cents.
 How the song which set a nation singing, and roused its patriotism to white heat, came to be written and how it has lived is told by the daughter of Julia Ward Howe, who wrote the Battle Hymn. The frontispiece is a fine clear-cut illustration of Julia Ward Howe.

FEARS OF MY YOUTH. By William Dean Howells. New York. Harper & Brothers. $1.00.
 Here, at last, William Dean Howells has written down an important contribution of American literature—the interesting facts of his life up to the time he went abroad as United States consul. And not only the facts, but the early impressions and numerous influences which went to mold the man and the writer.

PSYCHOLOGICAL ECONOMICS. By Edwin G. Nourse. Chicago. The University of Chicago Press. $2.75.
 Carefully edited selections with original introductions. A text and book of readings in one volume. Selections from numerous specialists impart vitality to the volume. Concrete cases furnish an abundance of convincing details, intimate personal viewpoints and wealth of actual experience.

THE NEW MAP OF AFRICA. By Herbert Adams Gibbons. New York City. The Century Company. $2.00.
 This new book does for Africa what the author's immensely successful "The New Map of Europe" did for the continent—that is, it gives the history, especially on the diplomatic side, of the crucial years from 1899 to the great war as it affected Africa. Necessarily the author also glances at African affairs before 1899, as far back as 1850, and considers the future of that rich and coveted continent. "The New Map of Africa" covers a field as yet untouched, in compact form, in any language.

THE POSSIBLE PEACE. By Roland Hurlin. New York City. The Century Co. $1.25.
 This book is a penetrating study of world politics. It combines a cool and dispassionate analysis of the international situation with an ardent conviction that permanent peace is the goal toward which mankind should strive. The book is neither pro-ally or pro-German. The writer is not only a pacifist but a warm advocate of preparedness.

FAMOUS SCULPTURE. By Charles L. Bartow. New York City. The Century Company. $1.00.
 After a preliminary chapter on "How a Statue is Made," the author traces the story of sculpture through the Egyptian, Greek, Roman, Medieval, Renaissance and Modern (classical, romantic and realistic) schools. He outlines the principal classic myths embodied in Greek sculpture; he characterizes the individual work of the chief sculptors of the world, with brief biographies in each case, and wherever possible describes the social and historical conditions out of which they arose. The book contains enough anecdotal matter to maintain the interest of younger readers, and is particularly full in its treatment of outstanding individual works.

WEBSTER'S COLLEGIATE DICTIONARY. D. and C. Merrilam Company, Springfield, Mass. $3.00.
 Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, in this paper, seal binding, while designed to be the successor of the earlier collegiates, is in no sense a revision of these editions, but is based upon and abridged from Webster's New International Dictionary. The new book contains 1248 pages, and 1700 illustrations. Never before in a book of this size has so large a vocabulary been included, the total number of words and phrases numbering more than 100,000. In the selection of this large vocabulary and the information to be given under each entry the editors had in mind the needs of the everyday user of English, such as the letter writer and the advertising man, as well as the students in college and university, and sought to record answers to such questions as would be likely to come up in their work, especially those pertaining to the proper forms of irregular verbs, degrees of comparison of adjectives and adverbs, use of prepositions, the exact and effective choice of words and the like. This compact and elegant little volume also contains various supplemental vocabularies. It is so light, so handy, so well printed that it is a real pleasure to use it. It is just the volume for the home or office, or a lady's writing desk, a gentleman's table or a tourist's satchel.

PRACTICAL THINGS WITH SIMPLE TOOLS. By Milton Goldsmith. New York. Sully & Kintzsch. $1.00.
 This book practically covers the entire field of toys and useful articles of furniture, the directions being given in a clear, concise manner, so that the youngest boy can readily understand and follow them. Many of the articles described, with the aid of inexpensive wood and material, can be reproduced in a practical and simple way.
