De Facto Reinforcements Approaching Chihuahua City Hurdled Back by Villa's Bandits.

THIRD RUSH IS REPULSED

Attempt of Bandits to Capture State Capital Which Began at 4 O'clock Frustrated.

DEFEAT CALLED DECISIVE

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 25.—A band of approximately 150 men, mounted and armed, was seen moving along the Mexican bank of the Rio Grande early today. The men were moving in the direction of Juarez, according to United States army officers who are watching them closely through field glasses.

The identity of the mounted force has not yet been established, but the Juarez garrison commander has been notified.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 25.—Government agents here received a report today that General Murguía's cavalry column, which was said to be approaching Chihuahua City from the south, had been driven back by Villa cavalry, which had been left by Villa to prevent reinforcements reaching General Trevino, according to this unconfirmed report.

The report is said to have been received before the interruptions in the federal telegraph wire started.

Juarez, Mex., Nov. 25.—The Villa bandits again were repulsed early today by the Carranza forces defending Chihuahua City, according to a message received at military headquarters here. The message said the repulse was even more decisive than those of yesterday and Thursday, the bandits being driven clear of the suburbs after desperate efforts to penetrate to the heart of the city and take it by storm.

Francisco Villa and his bandit forces resumed the attack at daybreak today, according to Carranza officials, marking the opening of the third day of fighting in Villa's effort to wrest the Chihuahua capital from General Jacinto B. Trevino's constitutionalist forces.

Communication with Chihuahua City was still unimpaired, indicating the attack was directed from the southeast and southwest of the city.

Hope to Capture Villa. General Murguía's cavalry is advancing overland from the vicinity of Santa Rosalia in an effort to relieve General Trevino's tired troops, according to General Gonzales, commanding the Carranza garrison here.

General Murguía ordered the cavalry to proceed by the shortest trail, leaving the main column at the railroad, according to a wireless message received by General Trevino at Chihuahua and transmitted here by telegraph.

Carranza officers here are elated at the prospect of Murguía's men reaching the scene of the battle before Villa retires and express the hope that Villa and his chiefs will be captured in the general drive.

The battle, which opened at 4 o'clock this morning, still is in progress, but communication with the border continues uninterrupted. General Trevino, after sending a message telling of the resumption of the fighting, took the field in person.

No details of the attack had been received at military headquarters up to 10 o'clock today.

Carranza Officers Killed. El Paso, Tex., Nov. 25.—Soriano Bravo, Mexican consul, today received a message from General Jacinto B. Trevino, commanding at Chihuahua City, saying Villa renewed his attack at 4 o'clock this morning and giving the names of the following de facto government officers included in the casualty list:

Killed—Lieutenant Colonel Ulises Mier, General M. Gandara, Second Captain Rudolph Cabello and Lieutenant Elijido Garza, the latter two officers of General Trevino's staff. Wounded—Colonel Borquez.

NAVAL LAUNCH SUNK BY RIVER STEAMER

Thirty-Five Sailors from Glacier Thrown Into San Francisco Bay by Collision.

THREE DROWN, TEN HURT

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—Three United States sailors met death here today and half a score were injured when a launch carrying thirty-five men of the supply ship Glacier's crew was swept under the paddle blades of the stern wheel river steamer Apache.

The dead: R. E. WILEY, GROVER CAMPBELL, WILLIAM CAMPBELL, chief machinist's mate, Glenale, Cal., internally hurt, but died of submersion.

The relatives of all were notified by the Navy department. Wiley's mother, Mrs. Rita Wiley, lives at McKinney, Tex. Campbell's mother, Mrs. Nancy Campbell, lives at Middletown, Ky. Daniel's father, Dave Daniel, lives at Franklin, Texas, and Heiberger has a sister, Mrs. Louise Schneider, at Arvada, Colo.

The launch, putting off crowded with men returning from shore leave, was swept by the tide under the stern wheel of the Apache. The big steel paddle blade sheared off the stem of the launch, which sank like a stone, and every man aboard tumbled for himself.

A fleet of small boats was rushed to the scene and began picking up men. The United States cruiser South Dakota, at anchor on Man-o-War Row, a mile away, rushed its launches to the rescue and picked up the first body.

One man, Fred Wright, was taken to the harbor emergency hospital. All the others went to the Glacier.

The accident occurred almost in the path of the trans-bay ferry boats bringing thousands of commuters to San Francisco from Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda. These were first aware of it when a little cloud of sea-going tugs and launches scattered from the piers allotted to various towing companies and clustered around the Apache. To the fact that these craft were so near at hand was attributed the remarkably small loss of life as contrasted with an upset in New York harbor some years ago.

The launch, in charge of Bob Roberts, coxswain, put out from the slip between piers 14 and 16. At pier 14 lay naval water barge 25. At pier 15 was the Apache; just docking. The space between was small, but Roberts considered it ample, and headed the launch midway between the two big boats.

As the launch ran out from the projecting piers the tide caught it, and it swept it against the stern of the river steamer.

The Apache's wheel was reversed and revolving slowly. Before Roberts could twist his wheel the launch was directly under the great steel blade.

Berlin Hints Britannic Was Used for Transport Work

London, Nov. 25.—A virtual disavowal that a German submarine had anything to do with the sinking of the British ship Britannic in the Aegean Sea is contained in a wireless dispatch received today from Berlin, which reads:

"According to the reports so far at hand the Britannic was proceeding from England to Saloniki. For a journey in this direction the large number of persons on board was extraordinarily striking and justifies a strong suspicion of the misuse of a hospital ship for transport purposes.

"Inasmuch as the ship bore the distinguishing marks of a hospital ship in accordance with regulations there can naturally be no question of a German submarine in connection with the sinking."

Trusted Employee Steals Gems of Mrs. Harriman When Debts Pile Up

New York, Nov. 25.—Behind the $60,000 Harriman jewel robbery, brought to solution today by police investigators, lies a story of a middle-aged and trusted employee, who succumbed to temptation, according to his confession, while struggling to meet the cost of living in a fashionable suburb, too expensive for his means. As a result he is under arrest charged with grand larceny, together with his brother, who is held on a similar charge, accused of having disposed of part of the proceeds of the robbery.

CHICAGO HEALTH OFFICIALS SAID EGGS RESERVES

Three Gold Storage Warehouses Attacked in War Against High Cost of Living.

DIG UP OLD ORDINANCE

"I've Got Them; What Are You Going to Do About It?" Stirs Row.

WOMEN TO BEGIN BOYCOTT

Chicago, Chicago, Nov. 25.—War against the high cost of living became militant here today with simultaneous raids by the city health department against three of the largest cold storage warehouses in the city. The raids were based on a city ordinance, long ignored, which places a restriction on the time foods may be kept in cold storage and were due partly, it was said, to James Wetz, a wholesaler, so-called "egg king," who is said to be holding 72,000,000 eggs.

"I've got them. What are you going to do about it?" was the answer Wetz gave to investigators who sought to discover what quantity of foodstuffs was in storage in the present time of high prices.

The ordinance prohibits the storage of eggs for more than ten months. Examination showed that many millions, including many stored by Wetz, were put away in March and April. "We will be obliged to throw these on the market by January 21," said Dr. John D. Robertson, health commissioner, "and my advice to the people is to stop using eggs until he begins to market them. I will see that they are not held in cold storage a minute longer than ten months, and that when they go on the market they are fit for consumption."

Women of the Political Equality league adopted a resolution today declaring that "eggs at 50c a dozen are prohibitive" and agreeing to buy none at that price.

Explains the Rise. The high price of eggs is the result of general prosperity which has induced the extraordinary consumption together with a shortage of production, according to a statement by the Chicago Butter and Eggs board, which announced that it would welcome any investigation into its manner of arriving at prices.

Food Commissioner Reports Cases Filed

Lincoln, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Food Commissioner Harman this morning said that the department, while making 320 prosecutions, had been successful in 309 of them during the present biennium.

Five cases were lost, one case is still pending, three were dismissed and two failed because the defendant could not be located. The fines by reason of such prosecutions amounted to $545.80 and the court costs $1,138 in addition.

The most important prosecution was that of a dealer in Dewitt, who was arrested for selling near beer that was so near that it filled every want and necessary, being 4 1/2 per cent alcohol and in every respect just as good as the real article. A carload was seized and destroyed at a loss of $800 for the beer, $200 fine for the seller and $200 more for the brewing company furnishing the beverage.

Next in importance was the prosecution of a storage company for having in cold storage food unfit for consumption. A fine of $250 was assessed against the company.

CASH AND SECURITIES ARE CONTRABAND

Entente Declares All Forms of Money and Credit Paper Subject to Seizure.

REAL SINEWS OF WAR

London, Nov. 24.—8:25 p. m.—With reference to the royal proclamation issued yesterday making all financial instruments contraband, it is explained officially that the new proclamation is an amendment to the entente governments of the one issued in April. In order to introduce absolute certainty into financial operations, it is declared the entente governments frankly intend, if possible, to prevent every transaction calculated to assist the Teutonic allies to prosecute belligerent operations in any part of the world.

The official statement adds: "Money in the long run wins wars, and no one who realizes the power of money can regard our action as either illegitimate or unnecessary. To give one indication of the vast importance of this question it is calculated roughly that since the allies began examining mails to neutral countries contiguous to Germany they have stopped about 50,000,000 pounds sterling which were going to banks or persons in enemy countries and including large numbers of subscriptions to enemy war loans.

"If instruments of any kind whatever having the object of transferring such vast quantities of money to the enemy are not to be regarded as contraband, it is impossible to concede what can properly be so regarded."

The proclamation gives the following definition of what will be considered contraband:

"Gold, silver, paper money, securities, negotiable instruments, checks, drafts, orders, warrants, coupons, letters of credit, delegation or advice, credit and debit notes or other documents which authorize, confirm or give effect to the transfer of money, credit or securities."

Five Hundred Good Little Folks Rewarded With Chicken Dinner

"Gee Billy ain't you glad that you've been a good boy?" This was the general opinion of 500 boys and girls who crowded the People's church last evening at a chicken dinner.

And this was how it happened. Rev. C. W. Savidge gave a Halloween party at his church several weeks ago and invited a lot of poor children. The women baked eight cakes which would have been plenty had not boys stolen five of them. When T. F. Stroud of the Stroud Manufacturing company heard of the situation he decided that the poor children should be rewarded for their honesty and the bad ones punished. He gave the supper last night, but the bad boys were not invited.

And it was a supper that the little folks relished. There was soup and chicken and mashed potatoes and hot rolls, cakes, candy and fruit.

WILKERSON TELLS WHAT HE WAS PAID

Burns Detective at Red Oak Gives Testimony in Damage Suit.

LANDERS STICKS TO STORY

Red Oak, Ia., Nov. 25.—(Special Telegram.)—Detective J. N. Wilkerson was recalled to the witness stand this morning in the Jones-Wilkerson $60,000 damage suit, and in answer to the questioning of Attorney Beeson for the plaintiff, stated that he had practiced the profession of law for about ten years, that he passed directly from law practice to his work as a detective. He said further that he had received no pay for his work on the Villisca murder case other than his salary and expenses. He stated that approximately $5,000 has been paid to the Burns agency for their investigations of the case, and that $2,000 is yet due the agency. This money, he stated, was contributed by the state of Iowa, Montgomery county, the estate of Joe Moore and by private subscription.

F. F. Jones was then called to the stand, and an attempt was made by the plaintiff to introduce evidence before the jury that would connect Jones with the sending of anonymous notes received by Mrs. Alice Willard, warning her not to talk about the plotting she claims to have heard on the night of the murder. After long argument Judge Rockefeller allowed the evidence to come in. The defense rested its case at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

E. H. Landers, who created the biggest sensation of the week when he testified yesterday morning that he saw a man whom he believed to be Albert Jones enter the Moore home on the night of the murder, was recalled, and reiterated his statement of yesterday.

ROUMANIA IS IN GRASP OF TEUTON ARMY MACHINE

Process of Squeezing Little Country Between Jaws of Giant Nutcracker Proceeds Rapidly.

LOWER ALT LINE BROKEN

In Meantime Von Mackensen, on Other Front, Forces Passage of Danube.

CLOSING IN ON BUCHAREST

BULLETIN. London, Nov. 25.—The Roumanian troops operating on the extreme left of their line in Wallachia have extricated themselves after destroying millions of hundredweights in cereals, according to a wireless dispatch received today from Petrograd.

London, Nov. 25.—The process of squeezing Roumania between the jaws of the Teutonic military machine is proceeding with notable rapidity. Pushing eastward after their capture of Craiova and the conquest of Little Wallachia, General von Falkenhayn's troops have broken Roumanian resistance in the valley of the lower Alt and apparently already have turned this supposedly strong line of defense across western Roumania, to which the Roumanians had retreated. A crossing of the Alt in this region is reported by Berlin.

Concurrently, Field Marshal von Mackensen, operating the other jaw of the nut-cracker, has forced a passage of the Danube near Zimnitza, giving him a footing on Roumanian soil twenty-five miles in the rear of the Danube end of the Alt line, which touches the river near Turnu Magurele. The landing at Zimnitza also placed Von Mackensen at seventy miles from Bucharest to the northeast.

Roumanian Defenses Fall. On the northern end of the Alt line where the Teutonic armies have been pressing down from Rotherburn northward into Severin, as the Roumanian defenses have been effected, according to Berlin, which records the capture of several villages. The Petrograd statement admits a Roumanian retreat here. On the frontier of Lovadia, the Germans report the repulse of a Russo-Roumanian offensive movement in the Gergyo mountains.

The Roumanian forces which were operating in the Osova region evidently have retreated into the mountains northeast of Turku Severin, as Berlin reports Roumanian battalions there "cut off from the main army." They are still making stubborn resistance, the German statement says, but apparently they have no recourse but ultimate surrender to escape annihilation.

Advance in Macedonia Halts. The entente advance in Macedonia shows signs of halting. Paris reports further progress for the Italians west of Monastir, but announces that generally the operations have been slowed up by rain.
