PEP MEETINGS ARE HELD FOR HUSKERS

Rotary Club Treats Nebraska Eleven to Luncheon and School Holds Rally.

COACH ORDERS SCRIMMAGE

(From a Staff Correspondent)
Lincoln, Nov. 28.—(Special)—Rooters and Lincoln business men took their turn today in pumping pep into the Cornhuskers in preparation for the Notre Dame battle Thursday afternoon.

The Lincoln Rotary club entertained the Husker squad at luncheon at the Lincoln hotel today—an annual affair, given under the direction of the organization. Fred M. Hunter, a former Husker star, gave a short talk on Nebraska spirit and C. C. Quiggle followed with a short speech. Dr. Stewart said the Nebraska eleven realized fully the job it had on its hands, but one thing was certain—the Husker rooters would not need to feel ashamed of their team next Thursday evening.

At the university, the annual Thanksgiving rally of the Huskers was held. The university band aroused the rooters with a number of selections, and Coach Stewart, Captain Corey and Cameron spoke. The rally was the most enthusiastic of the year.

Although the coaches had not intended to scrimmage the Huskers last night, it was found wise to change plans and Dr. Stewart put his charges through a stiff drill on new plays for half an hour. Every member of the squad reported and apparently the team is in fair physical trim, although some of the back-field men are lugging bruises from the Iowa battle.

Stiehm to Visit Old Love.

Jumbo Stiehm, according to report circulated here today, is going to pay his old love a visit and at the same time Dame Rumor says that Stiehm would be glad to return to Nebraska. It is said that Stiehm has found Indiana lacking in foot ball material and he longs for the old conditions at Nebraska. Still another rumor is that Stiehm will attempt to schedule a game with the Huskers next fall. There is very little chance of this, however, as the Nebraska athletic board is not very favorable to the plan unless the former Nebraska mentor would bring his eleven to Lincoln. Bloomington is out of the question from a financial standpoint and the Missouri Valley conference rules forbid games off the college grounds. The Indiana boosters wanted the game for Indianapolis.

Notre Dame will arrive in Lincoln early Wednesday morning and will establish quarters at the Lincoln hotel. Coach Harper is bringing a squad of twenty-three players and is said to be more fearful of injuries to some of his star men than any other feature of the game.

Seats Are All Sold.

With practically all of the seats snapped up for the game, Manager Reed planned additional bleachers today to accommodate the record-breaking crowd expected. Seats will be constructed on the east and west ends of the grounds.

The Huskers went through their last actual scrimmage of the season today and also had a long practice drill. The season will be formally closed with the signal drill Wednesday afternoon preceding the Thursday game. Notre Dame will be given the field for a part of the afternoon to limber up Wednesday.

Stiehm to Watch Former

Pupils Against Hoosiers

Jumbo Stiehm, for five years coach at the University of Nebraska, will be one of the 10,000 spectators expected to crowd Nebraska field to see the Cornhusker-Notre Dame game turkey day.

Stiehm is coming west with his wife at a visit with his wife's parents at Plattsburgh, and expects to journey to Lincoln to see his former pupils in action, according to a letter received by Bud Kearns of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Stiehm didn't have much success with his eleven at Indiana. He lost four games, won two and tied one.

Church and Throckmorton Off for Long Tennis Tour of the Orient

GEORGE M. CHURCH

HAROLD THROCKMORTON

Traveling 15,000 miles to play tennis is covering a longer circuit than most players follow during the tournament season. But when George M. Church and Harold Throckmorton leave Vancouver, November 30, they will be starting a trip that will take them to the Orient and will keep them traveling until March 15, 1917.

Tennis players from the United States are not strangers in Manilla, Honolulu or Japan, where this pair is to play, for Californians have been competing with their trans-Pacific rivals for years. William M. Johnston, C. J. Griffin, Elia Fottrell and Ward Dawson are the most recent representatives of this country in these Pacific tournaments. Church and Throckmorton are the first easterners to make such a trip for several seasons, and so their experience will be watched with more than the usual interest.

It is certain that they will attract much attention in the Orient, for they are dashing players, whose spectacular performances on the court are bound to arouse a gallery's enthusiasm. They hit the ball hard, cover lots of ground and have a smashing style of play overhead that provides plenty of thrills for those who watch.

Church ranked No. 9 in 1915, but is picked by many experts for a higher rating in 1916, although that cannot be made known until the ranking committee reports. His record, however, was most unusual, for he defeated Armstrong, Mathey, Pell, Washburn, Davis, Beckman, E. P. Larned, Rosenbaum, Griffin, Inman, Whitney, Voshell, Murray, Byford, Kinnagae, Warren and McLoughlin. He was beaten only by Davis, Doyle, Williams and Murray.

Tennis enthusiasts will be greatly interested to see if Church can dislodge Kumagae in such summary fashion, supposing that they meet in the tournament for the championship of the orient, as he did when they met in the National championship. It was due to Church's wonderful work at the net that the sensational little Jap did not go further in the National, but Kumagae may have learned something in that meeting which will help him the next time he faces Church.

Throckmorton won the national junior championship by beating Roland Roberts, the promising youngster from the Pacific coast. Throckmorton does not confine himself to that branch of the game by any means, for besides the title he has won the Maryland and New Jersey state titles, as well as the Chevy Chase event. He has beaten Mathey, Hall, Murray, Pell, Doyle, Breck, Garland, Stevens, Clothier, Mikami, Niles, Roberts and Tilden, while he has had to yield to Davis, Mathey, Murray, Griffin, Mikami, Johnston and Beckman.

Church is a better basket ball player than base ball player.

Bud Kearns is a former Bellevue star and at present athletic director at the Omaha "Y." Doc Metheny is a former Lincoln High man and Cotter crack, while Max Towle will be remembered as the quarterback who led the famous Cornhuskers of 1913 to victory over Minnesota.

The Hager brothers were Lincoln stars, as was Arthur Hiltner, who later coached Cotter university.

This aggregation of talent is expected to give the Brandeis a run.

The Brandeis consists of Virg Rector, three years a star at Dartmouth and former Central High crack; Les Burkenroad, ex-Omaha High; Hopper, ex-Wisconsin; Warren, Ritchie, Bob Koran, and others.

The game is to be played to raise a fund for the three basket ball leagues which operate at the Omaha "Y" throughout the winter.

Jumbo Stiehm may referee the game.

He is coming to Nebraska to see the Cornhusker-Notre Dame game, and an effort will be made to get him to act.

Dick Rutherford, Les Mann, Bud Kearns, Doc Metheny, Max Towle, Harold Hager, Bob Hager and Arthur Hiltner will make up the All-Star team.

Rutherford was one of the best guards the Cornhuskers ever had. He was as good on the basket ball floor as on the gridiron, which is going some. Les Mann is the former Lincoln High star who is playing professional base ball with the Chicago Cubs. Les is also basket ball coach at Amherst college and is a demon

New Orleans, La., Nov. 27.—Damage

amounting to several hundred thousand dollars was done to crops and property in the Yucatan by severe wind and rain storms, including tropical storm 12 worst in 20 years" and the wind and rain was accompanied by high tides all along the coast of the peninsula.
