MOLLIE KING
— in —
"ALL MAN"
A strikingly convincing story of the real worth of an apparent idler. Jim Blake, as played by David Warwick, is a character you will like even when he is foolishly wasting his youth in harmful pleasure. When he is shown the real opinion his father and other decent men hold for him he is big enough to admit the error of his actions. He immediately resolves to undertake the management of a poor-paying ranch his father owns in Wyoming, and amid nature's wonders, all the great strength of his character is brought out, and he is enabled to return in less than a year, even more successful than his father had dared to hope. A beautiful little love story runs through the play, and the lovers are brought together in a new and novel manner.

Stars Who Will Shine on Screen for Omaha This Week

When Jerry Marston found a red poppy on his desk one evening, he knew he had been marked for death by Hop Li's folk, and fright stilled his weak heart. Now begins further reprisals and a series of exciting episodes, fraught with mystery and adventure concludes the story. For Tuesday and Wednesday the attraction is Fannie Ward in "Witchcraft," Friday and Saturday, Owen Moore and Marguerite Courtot appear in "The Kiss."
Diamond—William Russell will be at the Diamond theater today in "The Man Who Would Not Die." Monday the bill offers "The Heart of a Hero," with William Davenport in the stellar role. With this is "The Lost Messenger," and a comedy called "The New Salesman." Wednesday the feature is "As Ye Sow So Shall Ye Reap."
Farnam—Jane Grey will be presented at the Farnam theater today in "The Flower of Faith," a feature production especially made to suit her gentle and lovable characteristics. Mr. Kohlberg announces the coming of the film entitled, "Protect Your Daughters."
Alamo—An interesting picture, "The Diamond Lure," is showing at the Alamo theater today, many scenes made at real mines vividly portray a series of exciting situations. On the same program is an episode of "Liberty," the big Universal Mexican novel, with two comedies, "In Love With a Fireman" and "For Love and Gold."
Dundee—"The Flying Torpedo," a preparation picture, featuring John Emerson, is the attraction at the Dundee theater today. "Motor Mat and His Fliv," is the comedy. Monday, J. Warren Kerrigan and Louise Lovely in the film version of "The Social Secretary."
Lothrop—Louise Lovely, cast in the feminine role, Monday Robert Wilson in a five-reel feature, "The Isle of Life," with this is an L-K comedy, "Terrors of a Turkish Bath." Tuesday the first Universal screen magazine is shown, with "The Outcasts," a Pathe picture. Wednesday Mary Pickford, the Paramount star, in "Poor Little Peppina," the comedy is a Nestor, called "The Bar Fly."
Rohlf—"The Social Secretary," which is showing at the Rohlf theater today, with Miss Talmage as the star, is one of the most pleasing pictures that she has appeared in. In the story she changes from a prim, straight-bound and high-colored secretary to a flirty, airy and pleasing bit of humanity. "The balance of the week the following is offered: Monday, "Grant, the Police Reporter," and "The Shining Shadow." Tuesday, Louise Gladio in "The Wolf Woman." Wednesday, William Farnam in "The Fire of Conscience." Thursday, Viola Dana in "The Flower of No Man's Land." Friday, Robert Edson in "The Light that Failed." Saturday, "The Scoundrel's Toll" and "Amorose's Rapid Rise," comedy.
Grand—Today's attraction at the Grand is Frank Keenan in "The Thoroughbred," with a comedy rest, Monday, "The Little Girl Next Door." Tuesday, Robert Warwick

Bluebird Company Makes Claim "The Play's the Thing"

So much has been printed and said about the value of the big stars in the drawing power of a moving picture. There has been a mad rush by the photoplay producers to sign up all the former famous stars of the stage and some fabulous salaries have been reported.
The producers of Bluebird photoplays have said that it is not the star that should draw, but the play. On this basis they claim they can produce a good play with an almost unknown cast and so long as the acting is good the play should please better than a medium play with a great star in the leading role.
H. Calvert, local Bluebird manager, speaking on the subject, said: "Our company believes, and the critics have upheld them, that the audience enjoys a play or not according to the story it tells and the way it is directed. There is a difference of opinion on this by some and our continuous advertising of high class plays will sooner or later cause a reversal of the popular thought that a play must have a great star in order to entertain. Of course, we have stars too, but only to make the plays better. We are producing photoplays, not stars."
Norma Talmage in "The Social Secretary," Thursday, a special Fox drama, "The Shining Shadow" day, with "Grant, the Police Reporter," which shows a series of daring exploits by a newspaper editor, Saturday, a three-reel drama, a two-reel Key-Stone and "The Hazards of Helen," Edwin Stevens organ recitals in a variety show, are the attraction of patrons from many parts of the city.
Sun—The Sun theater opened on Thanksgiving day and thousands of people were turned away during the day. Every day since then the patronage has been phenomenal, with everybody expressing surprise at the beauty and satisfaction of the pictures shown. Today and Monday the offering is Robert Warwick in "All Man." The story deals with a young man of the name called "the rich" whose father becomes tired of his easy manner of living and sends him out west to the ranch to try and make something of him. The young fellow gets his pride stirred up and resolves to make good. He goes after things in a manner that wins success for him and in a close race with circuitous he succeeds in winning the girl of his choice over the strenuous objections of Old Man Maynard, a newspaper editor. Tuesday, a three-reel drama, a two-reel Key-Stone and "The Hazards of Helen," Edwin Stevens organ recitals in a variety show, are the attraction of patrons from many parts of the city.
Clifton—"The Secret of the Swamp," a picturesque photoplay of the Florida everglades, is the feature at the Clifton theater today. "The Sheriff's Blunder," "Near to Earth" and "The New Salesman" Wednesday, "The Harvest of Gold," from "The Girl from Frisco," from "The Girl from Frisco," "Following the Flag" and "Some Bravery."
Besse—A spectacular Kalem drama, "The Border Wolves," is the feature at the Besse theater today. Comedy is on the same bill; Monday, Gladys Hulette in her latest feature production called "The Shine Girl."
Palm—"The Mystery of the Brass-Bound Chest" in the photoplay of the "The Girl from Frisco," is showing at the Palm theater today. "The Man from Yukon," an episode from "Grant the Police Reporter," is on the program, with two comedies, "Butts Casey, Crook," and "Dudes for a Day." Variety vaudeville is shown between pictures.
Magie—Valencia Surratt, Fox star, is presented at the Magie theater today in "The Straight Way," a story which portrays the trials and temptations which beset the girl who struggles for existence alone.
Orpheum, South Side—"The feature at the South Side Orpheum theater today is entitled "Denise," a four-reel production. With this a Keystone comedy, Monday, the Anti-Vice Crusade presents "Protect Your Daughters," Tuesday, "The Sheriff's Blunder," with a drama, "The Capture of Rattlesnake Ike," featuring Warren Kerrigan, and a comedy, "The Little Church Around the Corner." Wednesday, Donald Hall in "The Man Who Went Some," and "The Mystery of Myra." Thursday, "Grant, the Police Reporter."
Empress—For the first four days of this week, starting with today's performance, the offering on the photoplay side of the bill will be Clara Kimball Young in "Without a Soul." The story is unusual in that it deals with a theory held by a great doctor that he can restore life to the human body after the soul has fled. His daughter, a beautiful girl, however, will die, and as her dead body he performs his experiment for the first time, and she returns to life. But the doctor has not counted on one thing—she has no soul. So this girl without a soul shows a complete change of disposition, leaves her father's home, and she does not come back until she is told by a doctor she has incurable heart trouble and cannot live. She tells her father that she has returned, only because she knows he can restore her life, and then she dies. But the father has learned his lesson and he destroys the instruments that have caused him to many years of labor and his beautiful daughter. For the second half of the week the feature will be "The World and the Woman," with Jeanne Eagles in the leading role. Comic and comedies also are shown.
