CORN SALES ARE GOOD

Omaha, December 5, 1916.

There was a good cash inquiry for wheat today, and while the market sold from unchanged to 2e lower, the trade was pretty brisk, and a good percentage of the samples were disposed of before noon. There was not much during when the samples were disposed of before noon. There was not much during demand for the better grades of hard winter wheat, and these grades sold quite readily. No. 2 hard brought around $1.50 hard winter wheat, and these grades sold quite readily. No. 2 hard sold generally at $1.51 to $1.50, and a few sales of No. 4 hard were made around $1.00 and $1.50. And $1.50, and a few sales of No. 4 hard were made around $1.00 and $1.50. A the depression which was noticeable in the early wheat trade. Some relaxing of the carry wheat the carry that the carry the rest of this most would clear the rail congestion away.

Improved domestic cail, as well as a better export demand tended to give strength to corn. Trade, which at first was small, breadened out, especially after wheat began to climb. Elevator concerns absorbed surplus offerings of oats. Export transactions were of greater volume than recently has been the case.

Higher quotations on hogs put provisions on the upgrade. Arrivals of hogs throughout the west were much reduced in number as compared with a west ago.
