Council Bluffs Social Notes

On Monday Mrs. Robert Sprague entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon at her home on Flith avenue. The guests were seated at one long table, decorated in blue and gold. Covers were laid for twelve. Luncheon was followed by bridge. The prize for high score was won by Mrs. George Wickham and the cut-for-all by Mrs. Oscar Baumeister.

The regular meeting of the art denartment of the Council Bluffs Woman's club was held at the library on Monday evening. Mrs. Belle Sanford acted as leader. George Romney and sir Thomas Lawrence, two of the great artists of the eighteenth centure, were the subjects of the evening's study. A sketch of the life of Romney was given by Mrs. C. G.
Saunders. She discussed the early influences which gave him his conception of the sublime, his home life, his own simple liabits, his work in France and Lighy. She told especially of his great friendship with Halley and of the Royal academy. She also mentioned a great number of his paintings.
Miss. Jennie Rice considered him asthe connecting link between the eightcenth and nineteenth centuries. She put special emphasis on the fact that he and Reynolds shared the popularity of the people of London. His tanciful imagination, his eye for details, the beauty of his coloring, particularly his browns, rose pink and green, and his Besh tints are the distinctive features of his work. The rapidity of his painting and the excellence of his portraiture are also considered unusual. Mrs. A. B. Walker discussed the life of Lawrence, touching upon his early life and his environment. She also reviewed his life and work in Bath, London and Rome. Mrs. E. J. Towslee considered his work as expressing the spirit of the age, and particularly as a reflection of political changes of the time.
The special changes of the time.
The special characteristics of his painting which she noted were the idelity of his portraiture and the endurance of his coloring, in which reds, greens and purples predominated. She named a number of his pictures, including "Nature," which he himself considered his masterpiece. Mrs.
Kate Cook will be the leader at the next meeting, January 8.
