

BISHOP TO PRESIDE OVER MANY PEOPLE

Roman Catholic Diocese, of Omaha Has One Hundred Fifty-Eight Churches.

HE IS ARCHBISHOP HARTY

By A. R. GROH.

The Roman Catholic Diocese of Omaha, over which Archbishop Jeremiah J. Harty has just arrived to preside, contains, according to the 1916 Official Catholic directory, 80,465 people, 116 parishes, 138 churches, 179 priests, twenty-one clerical students, thirty-eight chapels, four religious orders of men, nineteen religious orders of women, one university, one agricultural college, seven academies for young ladies, one orphan asylum, four hospitals, one home for young women, one industrial school, one home for the aged. The diocese comprises seventeen counties, with an area of 14,998 square miles.

Last year in this diocese there were 864 marriages, 286 conversions, 3,628 baptisms and 957 deaths. There are three Catholic dioceses in Nebraska, those of Omaha, Lincoln and Kearney. The total Catholic population of the state is 142,309. The Omaha diocese was erected October 2, 1885; that of Lincoln, August 2, 1887, and that of Kearney, March 8, 1912.

Province of Dubuque. These dioceses are a part of the Province of Dubuque, which province comprises the states of Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming, and is presided over by Archbishop James J. Keane of Dubuque, Ia.

In the United States there are sixteen archbishops and 100 Catholic bishops, besides three cardinals and the apostolic delegate.

In the entire world there are four cardinal bishops, forty-nine cardinals and eight cardinal deacons. Three of the cardinal bishops, seventeen of the cardinals and five of the cardinal deacons are Italians.

While the new prelate of Omaha will preside over a bishopric (or diocese) he has the title of archbishop, and this title he will retain.

He is the fourth Catholic prelate to have official residence in Omaha. The administration of his three predecessors extended over a period of fifty-eight years.

Here Before the War.

The first prelate to live here was the Rt. Rev. James O'Gorman, D. D., Vicar-Apostolic of Nebraska, and Titular Bishop of Raphanea. He was consecrated in St. Louis, Mo., 1858, and came here soon afterward, when there were but four priests in the whole state. He died suddenly, July 4, 1874.

The Rt. Rev. James O'Connor, D. D., Vicar-Apostolic of Nebraska, and Titular Bishop of Dibona, was consecrated August 20, 1876. He was the first to hold the title of Bishop of Omaha, which title he received when the Diocese of Omaha was erected, October 2, 1885. He died May 27, 1890.

The Rt. Rev. Richard Scannell, D. D., was consecrated Bishop of Concordia, November 30, 1887. He was transferred to Omaha following the death of Bishop O'Connor, and was installed Bishop of Omaha, January 30, 1891. He administered the affairs of the Omaha diocese for a quarter of a century, dying January 8, 1916.

Business Men Find County Poor Farm Is of Little Value

The present county hospital, or county poorhouse, of Douglas county is no good—that is about the sum total of the findings of the city health and hospitals committee of the Commercial club.

The language used by the committee is: "The present building is wholly unsuitable for the care of the insane and those afflicted with tuberculosis or for taking care of the county poor."

It is the committee's opinion that the sick and insane should be cared for in an institution separate and apart from the work farm. At their last meeting J. P. Palmer, who was a member of the last legislature, met with the committee to discuss the provisions of further legislation, which it is proposed to submit to the legislature this winter and which will at least provide for a workhouse and work farm. It is not expected that a separate city and county hospital can be obtained at this time. It is thought, however, that the county poor could be taken care of in a new workhouse and the upper floors of the present county hospital building with some changes used temporarily for hospital purposes.

A special committee has been appointed to confer with Mr. Palmer relative to the provisions of the bill mentioned. Guy C. Kiddoo, representing the city health and hospitals committee; T. F. Sturgess, public welfare committee, and John A. Rine, the municipal affairs committee, are the special committee. They will meet with Mr. Palmer during the coming week and will probably be ready to submit their conclusions to the executive committee within the next week or ten days.

SIX WIVES FIND MARRIAGE IRKSOME

Dr. E. C. Abbott is Named as Cruel Husband, and So is James Armstrong.

FOUR DIVORCES GRANTED

Dr. Edward Carson Abbott, 3618 Mason street, physician and oculist, is named defendant in a suit for divorce filed with the clerk of the district court by Helena A. Abbott. She alleges extreme cruelty. The Abbotts were married in New York City on May 25, 1916. The plaintiff asserts that her husband has an income of $2,200 a year and is the owner of real estate worth $5,000.

Extreme cruelty is alleged by Gertrude L. Armstrong, who seeks to be freed from James Armstrong after having one divorce decree set aside at her own request when hubby promised to "be good." She also charges nonsupport and asks for the custody of an infant son, James W. Armstrong.

Lucy Maurine Clark sets forth in her petition for divorce that her husband, Albert M. Clark, knocked her down and whipped her.

Makes Her Travel.

Hazel Williams declares that her spouse, William P. Williams, makes her travel about the country with a carnival troupe and treats her cruelly. Isabel Giltner names Lloyd B. Giltner as defendant and alleges nonsupport.

Cruelty and nonsupport are the allegations made in a suit for divorce brought by Ida May Goodwin against John T. Goodwin.

The divorce mill has ground out the following decrees in the last twenty-four hours:

Mary Vaughn from Jesse Vaughn. Frances Copeland from Wilnie L. Copeland.

Emma Miller from Arthur Miller. Claude H. Rohrbough from Lulu Ethel Rohrbough.

Newsboys Will Eat Christmas Turkey

Turkey, that delectable bird who values himself very highly at Christmas time, will be humiliated Christmas night, December 25, in the Rome hotel's banquet room. Four hundred newsboys, who will be the guests of George Brandeis, will not only humiliate the proud gobbler but they will gobble the gobbler.

George Brandeis will be there to see that the boys are as happy as healthy humans. At Christmas time and he will also talk to the street merchants.

R. C. Phelps, manager of the candy department of the Brandeis stores, will be the Santa Claus of the occasion. The dinner will be a six-course affair, just like they serve at the Fontenelle and the Blackstone. From soup to nuts, not a palatable-pleaser will be lacking.

"Mike" Barto, deputy master of ceremonies, will marshal the Bee newsboys in fitting array to charge on Mr. Turkey. Tony Costanzo and Sam Veigman will have charge of the other paper vendors. And Mogy Bernstein, ex-newsboy, and now a prosperous business man, will be the toastmaster.

Accidentally asphyxiated during the night, B. N. Severson, aged 28, of Jewell, Ia., was found dead in his bed by roomers at the home of Mrs. Mary E. Jordan, 2772 Cuming street.

Severson came to Omaha Thursday to enter an automobile college and he was introduced at Mrs. Jordan's by Arthur Lear, an automobile mechanic who lives at 4706 North Twenty-fourth street. Severson retired early and it is believed that he turned a gas heater down so low that a draught from an open window extinguished the flame.

Mrs. D. McClain, also a roomer there, detected the odor of gas in the morning and opened the door. Police Surgeon Charles F. Shook was notified, but when he arrived at the house he said that Severson had been dead several hours. The body is in the hands of the coroner and an inquest will be held.

Commercial Club Wants to Know the "Hyphens" Better

To fraternize with the "Hyphens" is the purpose of a plan now being worked out by a special committee of the Commercial club. Of course, the committee doesn't put it that way, but the idea is to get better acquainted with the foreign-born of the city.

In this project the club intends to work along lines suggested by the bureau of naturalization of the United States Department of Labor. Commercial organizations everywhere are showing a growing tendency to seek to become better acquainted with the newly naturalized citizens in order to induce them to learn more rapidly national, state and civic ideals.
