

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial saddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent the sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, turned tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. If you have a sallow, muddied complexion, watery eyes, all denote liver uncleanness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent cathartics, which is a dangerous violating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the liver.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like cathartics, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.—Advertisement.

Nebraska WATILES DELIGHTS HIS FELLOW DINERS

Omaha Magnate Turns to Pleasantry and Poetry to Historical Society Dinner.

JESTS AND SINGS FOR JOY

Lincoln, Jan. 10.—(Special.)—At the annual dinner of the Nebraska Historical society this evening G. W. Wattles of Omaha was the principal speaker. Mr. Wattles, in a very pleasant way, referred to his connection with the society and what brought him to Lincoln, telling of John Lee Webster's recent visit to his office for the purpose of getting him on the toast list. He went on:

"He thinks he knows what I am going to talk about, but he doesn't know and you don't know, and let me confide in you a little secret, I am not very certain, for as the boy said, I am going to speak 'expectoraneous,' but one thing is certain, I am not going to talk about the semi-centennial celebration, the first installment of which was held in Omaha last fall.

Nobody Much Present.

"You all know what happened on this occasion, we only had 300,000 or 400,000 people on the streets to witness the parade. All the dignitaries we had there consisted of the president of the United States, the governor of Nebraska, the mayor of Lincoln, Arthur Mullen and a few other democratic politicians. The president made three nonpartisan speeches and in November he carried the state of Nebraska by a majority of about one-tenth of the number who attended the celebration and who were undoubtedly converted to his standard during his visit in Omaha. I see you are going to have the president in Lincoln at your celebration in June. I had hoped by that time we might have a brand new, first-class, up-to-date republican president, but my hopes were blasted, so I wish you success in your efforts to get the old one to come. He owes it to Nebraska. He ought to come out here regularly to all our public functions.

Never Mind Celebrations.

"But in considering what I am going to talk about this evening, I believe I will speak of something more pleasant than serious semi-centennial celebrations. I am off down here at Lincoln, where the folks at home will never hear of what I do say and I have a big notion to take a big drink of—water, kick over the traces, recite some poetry and talk about something pleasant. In Omaha I am expected to think only in dollars and to deal only in banks, street railways, grain exchanges and million-dollar hotels, with an occasional exposition or centennial celebration thrown in for diversion."

Pleases With Poems.

Mr. Wattles then recited a semi-humorous ode relative to his first visit to California, following this with a poetic tribute to work, its pleasures and rewards, and concluded his enjoyable talk with a poem dedicated to mothers. This revelation of his ability as a poet delighted his hearers, who loudly applauded the captain of commerce and industry before them in a new light.

Notes from Beatrice

Beatrice, Neb., Jan. 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. Martin Vermaas, who has resided northeast of Beatrice for years, was found dead in bed at her home Monday. She ate a hearty dinner, and a short time later her husband found her dead. Heart trouble is given as the cause. The deceased was about 50 years of age and leaves her husband and several children.

The board of supervisors held a meeting yesterday, disposed of the business before it and adjourned sine die. The new board was organized by the election of J. W. Marples of Wynmore chairman.

J. N. Floyd, who was formerly engaged in farming southwest of Beatrice, died Sunday at his home at Stronburg, Kan., where he had been living for a number of years. He was 73 years of age and leaves a widow and nine children.
