HOUSE PROPOSES TO BACK WILSON IN PRACE STAND

Leidigh, Hopkins, Beal and McAllister all spoke for the bill. They said that the merchants as well as the railroad employes want such legislation. Mr. Reynolds, who lives at the railroad town of North Platte, said nobody lad urged him to support it, and he was in doubt as to whether the railroad men are demanding it or not. After voting down a motion to defer action, the committee of the whole ordered the bill to third reading.

Coursing Meets Opposed.

Rouse Roll No. 99, the bill to prohibit coursing meets at which rabits are chased by dogs, was sent to third reading. It was first amended, on motion of Thomaa, by cutting out the part which referred to wild west shows and exhibitions of broncho busting and steer throwing, which are a feature of frontier festivals and county fairs held in the western part of the state.

Mr. Liggett proposed to eliminate are a feature of frontier festivals and county fairs held in the western part of the state.

Mr. Liggett proposed to eliminate rabbit coursing also from the prohibited list, but others declared that this would practically emasculte the bill and the motion failed. Mr. Mey-senburg tried to get an amendment adopted cutting out the penalty for anyone who lets a horse, mule or ox stand hitched in a public place, exposed to a blizzard or stormy weather longer than two hours at a time. He wanted the limit raised to five hours. This was also defeated.

On motion of Peterson, a long list of names of Omaha people belonging to the humane society there, that appeared in the bill's title, was stricken out, leaving only the name of the legislative introducer, Jerry Howard.

Yukia Oaki, who had a narrow escape, the lower house was packed with spectators and the session was a tumuituous one. Takeshi Unukai, leader of the Kokuminto (national party), led the attack on the ministry, accusing it of being unconstitutional. Confronted with the certainty of an adverse vote, Premier Terauchi said the situation involved the prosperity of the empire and declared that while he maintained the confidence of Emperor Yoshihito he could not accept the verdict of the house.

Mr. Ozaki mounted the rostrum to continue first attacks on the government, when an imperial messenger suddenly appeared with the rescript of dissolution. The members of the house dispersed in an uproar.

Elections to the new house of representatives will be held in April or May. There are indications that in view of the criticism of a nonparty ministry. Premier Terauchi will throw his forces to the Seiyu-Kai (constitutional party), which is said to favor the new China policy outlined by Premier Terauchi and Foreign Minister Motoni.

A political crisis developed at the opening of the Diet on Tuesday. The chief reason was the appointment of Field Marshal Count Terauchi as premier by the emperor last October. This appointment was a surprise both in and out of Japan and was criticised unfavorably by Japanese political leader, who contended the premier did not command public support. He is regarded as a representative of the radical militarist faction in Japan, although in an interview with the Aasociated Press shortly after his appointment, he disavowed any policies of aggression. Japanese newspapers said the premier did not command a majority in parliament and predicted that the outcome would be dissolution of the house and a new election.

HEAVIEST FIGHTING NOW ON RIGA FRONT

Teutons Sustain Reverse in Attempt to Resume Advance Across Marsh.

OTHER ARENAS ARE QUIET

(Associated Press War Summary) The heaviest fighting now in progress in any of the war areas is on the Russian front in the Riga sector, where the Germans recently took the offensive and drove back the Russians a mile and a half in the region of the Great Tirul marsh that long has barred the way to Riga for the German forces.

German forces.

Attempting again to advance over the frozen ground which has made the efforts in this swampy region possible, the Teutonic army has sustained reverses, according to Petrograd today. Northwest of the marsh they opened a heavy artillery fire and then attacked, but failed to make any headway against the Russian defense. Elsewhere there has been little but artillery and patrol fighting. Entire artillery and patrol fighting. Entire quiet apparently prevails along the Roumanian front, owing to the severe winter weather.
