Old Members Want to Reorganize Exchange

Vague suggestions are coming from some real estate men of a desire of some of the old members of the Real Estate Exchange to reorganize that exchange, since the exchange has gone out of existence and those at gone out of eastern and morporated under the name of the Omaha Real, Estate board. There are some who no not like to pay the increased dues for membership in the board, and would like to keep the old exchange alive.

It has been suggested that the exchange be reorganized purely for social and business purposes, cutting out all political and religious reforms whatsoever. The first forty members who join are to be charter members and free from membership fee with dues of $3 per pear, payable semi-annually. After forty members have been procured, all others will pay a membership fee of $10.

A meeting of those interested will probably be called in a few days to talk the matter over

Rickard Family. POLICE CAN'T EXPLAIN IT

Mystery surrounds the near asphyxiation of the entire family of Mr. and Mrs. Adam M. Rickard, 1492 Ogden street, at 3:30 o'clock yesterday

Mrs. Rickard was awakened by the noise of a falling body in the room of her daughter, Ruth, aged 23, and when she got up to investigate she, too, toppled over. Her husband and three sons, Raymond, George and Marshall, who followed, were similarly affected. who followed, were similarly affected.
Raymond was the first to recover consciousness and telephoned police headquarters, but when Police Surcons Meyers and Connolly arrived with pulmotors all had revived.

Miss Ruth Rickard said she awakened from a dream and went to the bathroom to get a drink. As she reentered her room a sudden weakness overcame her and she fell.

Her mother described her own experience in the same way, and so did her brothers and father.

There was no trace of gas or poison, and police surgeons were sure that their condition had not been caused by anything they had eaten. The Rickard home is electrically lighted and is not equipped for gas.

"It seemed as though the instant we touched the threshold of sister's room the mysterious influence over-just seemed to lapse suddenly into unconsciousness."

After regaining their senses all of the victims suffered from terrible headache, they said.

Police at first thought that gas escaping from a hardcoal stove in the dining room might have caused the family to suffer, but this theory was abandoned when it was pointed out that every connecting door in the house was open and that if it had been coal gas it would have in all probability mainuated its way into all rooms instead of only into the room of the daughter of the family. Every member of the family was positive that there was no odor of gas or any kind of poison in the air.

By the time police surgeons came the family had opened all of the windows, airing out the louse. Investigation of the room revealed no trace of anything which might cause such a condition.
