Jack Spiegel's "Merry Rounders" Have Much Merit

Newness fairly vibrates through The Merry Rounders," Jack Spiegel's burlesque offering at the Gayety theater for the week, which burst in upon Omaha last night for its debut. Not an old song, not an old joke, not even an old dance is perpetrated upon the audience. The show is a carnival of novelties, replete with carnival of noverties, replete with clean entertainment.

George F. Hayes is a real comedian. He personifies (the word is used advisedly) a very rural citizen. He doesn't attempt to portray the rustic citizen, whose whiskers are playgrounds for field mice. He merely acts the part of a farmer who has acts the part of a farmer, who has come to town to see the sights. He sees them (mostly feminine) and wins the audience with his wit and his inhaled "Gosh dern ye," which twangs through his nose as though hay were his daily diet and cows his customary

Then there's Abe Reynolds, who is laugh-nurse de luxe, a comedy creafor who incubates the germ of a smile into an uproarious ha-ha. Those who have tired of other comedians on the burlesque stage will appreciate the refeshing mannerisms of Mr. Rey-nolds, who acts as well as speaks Frank Ward has a finger-dancing specialty, which nets much applause He gets two dolls (real china, inani mate things) and puts them through mate things) and puts them through terpsichoreau stunts, which are as unique as they are clever. Also, Frank himself has a pair of educated feet which twirl at a merry clip, when music entices them. Eugene Mac-Gregor is a good singer, a good dan-cer and a good "straight man."

One cannot entirely escape admir-ing Eileen Sheridan, whether one is a connoisseur of feminine physique or merely an applauder of graceful dancing or fair singing. Ruth Wesley has a bodily composition which wins the masculine eye and can sing and dance to approval. Similar charms are the possessions of Elizabeth Jane. ## Sembrich Sings Sioux Songs and Finds Melody Worthy of Repetition

Washington, Jan. 28.—One of the Sioux Indian songs collected by Miss Frances Densmore for the bureau of American ethnology of the Smithstonian Institution was sung by Mme. Marcella Sembrich at an historical song recital in New York on January 4. A setting for the melody was arranged by Alberto Bimboni of New York, and Mme. Sembrich received so much applause that she was obliged to repeat the song.

"The Indians," says Miss Densmore, "do not keep a regular rhythm throughout a song but frequently alternate double and triple measures in a way that appears absolutely erratic, yet the song as a whole will have rhythmic completeness; in other words the rhythm makes sense."

Some of the most interesting songs recorded by her have had this irregularity of measure-lengths, and she has made a careful study of this phase of the music. She has found, by analyzing the structure of about 600 songs, that the melodic form of the song was connected with its idea. This she has followed with a test of the charm of the native recognized the interest of the melody and the charm of the native words was that of the mative words was that of the native words was that of the song.

"But the real test," continued the investigator, "was to learn whichten the native words was that of the native words

The best dramatic work of the company was done in the three operas presented yesterday afternoon and evening, and in every performance without exception the company have sung the music splendidly. junction with this plant. Another buttermilk meal factory is already being constructed by an eastern company in conjunction with the Fairmont Creamery company's plant.

The completion of these plants will mean that the old buttermilk wagons, long seen on the streets with a huge hogshead carrying nearly a ton of buttermilk at a load to be fed to hogs in yards on the outskirts of the city, will be a thing of the past. No longer is buttermilk to be sold in great quantities here for little or nothing and fed to swine. It is to be manufactured into meal and used by human beings in various ways. This meal is used in making the prepared pancake flour and in many other products.

No sooner had the U. P. Steam Baking company announced that it would build a fine new plant in the city than there came the announcement that Winfield Campbell of Kansas City, Wichita, Des Moines and Sioux City baking fame would probably establish a large modern baking plant in Omaha.
