HAPPENINGS IN THE MAGIC CITY

C. R. Waters Made Head of the South Side Hospital Association.

STOCK RECORDS BROKEN

C. R. Waters will head the South Omaha Hospital association for another year. The board of directors of the association in session Friday evening re-elected him as their head.

The retained president immediately announced his committees to assist in the work of the hospital. Other officers elected were: W. B. Cheek, vice president; A. F. Stryker, second vice president; Mrs. Emma L. Talbot, secretary; and J. H. Kopietz, treasurer.

Prominent men in business and professions were appointed on the committees by President Waters. The annual report of the board of directors will be published shortly. There will be little change in the affairs of the hospital during the year. The committees announced yesterday are: House—Etta Brewer, Mrs. C. L. Talbot, A. F. Stryker.

Finance—W. N. Cheek, W. A. Rathbeck, J. H. Kopietz, W. B. Cheek, R. Tazze, Mrs. Etta Brewer.

Judiciary—W. B. Cheek, Mrs. A. W. Jones, W. B. Cheek, Medical Staff—A. F. Stryker, W. A. Rathbeck, W. B. Cheek.

Training School—Mrs. C. L. Talbot, Mrs. Etta Brewer, Mrs. A. W. Jones. Publicity—C. R. Waters, W. B. Cheek, A. F. Stryker.

Students Here Tuesday. Three hundred and fifty students of the State farm at Lincoln will be coming to Omaha early Tuesday morning.

Everett Buckingham and officials of the Union Stock Yards company will be hosts. The occasion is the annual visit of students of the Nebraska Agricultural college in excursion to study the workings of the local yards and the new equipment.

Traffic Manager William Shellberg has charge of the arrangements, but has announced that a definite program will not be ready until Monday morning.

There will be a formal reception of the students at the L. street Building station, from where the delegation will be escorted on special street cars to the Exchange building.

The entire force of commission, exchange and yards men will be here awaiting to tender an informal reception. During the remainder of the morning and the afternoon the visitors will be divided and escorted through the yards and the packing plants.

Dean Burnett of the Farm college will accompany the students and will have Prof. Gramlich, an alumnus of the local South High school, who is one of the leading teachers at the farm, with him.

In the evening at 6:30 o'clock the yards company will be hosts at a banquet in the Exchange dining hall. The dean and professors from the university, as well as Mr. Buckingham and others prominent in the yards, will speak.

Runaway on O Street. A runaway farm team terrorized a street crowded with early Saturday afternoon traffic several minutes yesterday.

Sam Gramlich, driver, narrowly escaped what at first seemed a collision with a team driving east on the narrow street viaduct. By a miracle he emerged from the overturned heavy farm wagon when one of the horses fell half way across the bridge.

The team broke away from Gramlich, the owner, at Twenty-fourth and O streets, a half block from the police station. Policemen witnessed the spectacle of a big farm wagon dashing by the station house at breakneck speed with the driver clinging to one rein and holding on to the doubletrees for life.

The horse that fell was considerably cut on one side and broke an ankle. There were no other injuries.

Sergeant James Sheahan came up just as Gramlich was extricating himself from the disaster. The wagon was hardly smashed.

Again Break Record. By a margin of more than 20,000 head the week's record for hog receipts was broken in the week past.

The day record was broken twice. The new pens were taxed to capacity, taking care of the biggest rush in any department of that stock market that has occurred since its establishment a quarter century ago.

The official figure for the week as given out in the office of A. C. Davenport Saturday is 132,938 head for the number of hogs received in six days starting Monday. This record is considered remarkable as the week started out with a light run of 4,000 head.

The previous record was established in 1916, the week ending January 22 totaling 109,234 head.

Since the construction of the new hog pens started three years ago $350,000 has been put into the work. Three of the four big divisions are completed and all that remains to be done is to finish the upper deck of the fourth division.

The steel work was completed last fall, but it is impossible to place the concrete superstructure until warm weather sets in again.

Youths in Holdup Game. A rusty revolver of light caliber pattern that once sold as "nickel-plated" may lead to the arrest of a couple of marauders that have been roving about the residence district north of L street and east of Twenty-fourth street for several weeks past.

The police have a "hunch" that the two young men who held up George Bruder, 3602 South Twenty-third street, Thursday night at Twenty-fourth and L streets are persons of amateur making.

The hope is that the kids have been taking in the movies too often and are about to be rescued before some real citizen pumps them full of lead in their next attempt. Both men appeared to be less than 24 years of age and wore similar clothing.

Entertainment at St. Mary's. The last entertainment before Lent will take place on Thursday evening at St. Mary's school building at Thirty-sixth and Q streets. The Three X club with Jay Trapp at the head of the entertaining committee have prepared something exclusive that is guaranteed to satisfy all Catholics of the city.

A small wrestling match with local talent in the mix-up is one of the banner cards on the program. There will also be dancing and entertaining of individual character. The evening will wind up with informal refreshments served.

Valentine Party. Mrs. Stephan Vail entertained at a Valentine party Saturday afternoon for her daughters, Jeannette and Claire. Those present were:

- Virginia Randall, Joseph Kelley, Irma Randall, Carolyn Kelley, Vera Vermilion, Ethel Bell, Margaret Crockett, Dorothy Scott, Rose Mayerwich, Mary Hickey, Patricia Lynch, Claire Vail, Luree Combs, Jeanette Vail, Isabelle Sullivan.

A Valentine social will be given as a benefit for the West Side Congregational church Wednesday evening, February 14, at the church at Thirty-eighth and Q streets.

The Ladies Aid of the Wheeler Memorial church will be entertained Wednesday, February 14, at the home of Mrs. William Grothe, 2114 South Twenty-second street.

Mrs. Fred Lightfoot will assist the hostess. *GAS COMPANY DEMONSTRATES SPECIAL DEMONSTRATION AT OUR SOUTH SIDE OFFICE MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12.

Mrs. Sam Whitten will entertain the Ladies Aid society of the West Side First Congregational church Thursday evening at her home, Thirty-eighth and Q streets.

Principal Hurwaid will entertain his father, August F. Hurwaid, and three brothers, Fern, Arthur and August, Jr., at his home in the Hancock park district Tuesday. The home of his parent is in Randolph.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the Grace Methodist church will meet with Mrs. T. G. Johnson, 2112 South Twenty-fourth street, Friday evening, February 16.

Mrs. Charles Martin will be assistant hostess. The X. L. club will entertain publicly Friday evening, February 17, at the Rusling hall, Nora Donoghue, Clifford Long, the Misses Ray, Emmet McMahon and Miss Rhoe Harding are on the program.

Some Show Is "Maids of America," Now at the Gayety

When the audience stays after the final curtain drops and continues to applaud, the natural conclusion is that what the audience has just seen is well worth seeing. Well, that's what happened last night at the Gayety theater, where Al K. Hall and his "Maids of America" staged the best, cleanest and the longest burlesque show that ever came to town before one of the largest audiences that the Gayety ever held.

There are a good many superlatives in the foregoing paragraph. Well, there are a good many superlatives in the show. Al Hall and Bobby Barry are two of them. They are comedians who know how to satisfy laugh-lovers.

Both of them are wholesome fun-makers whose every antic generates at least a giggle. When they invade the orchestra pit, their triumph is complete. Several men and women laughed so heartily at the "opera" that they seemed to go hysterical for a while.

Al Hall's big individual hits are his song, "When Uncle Sam Leads the Band," his specialty as a ventriloquist, his box number and his Hawaiian dance. If the blues bedevil you, these numbers will surely chase them away.

If Mr. Hall picked out the girls who are with the show, he thereby wins another bunch of laurels and qualifies as a connoisseur of choice femininity. There is beauty and youth and pep in every member of the chorus. And to prove that they can sing, each one of them steps forth and croons a little ditty and wins a round of applause.

Many of them have trained voices and all of them have educated feet whose dancing is good to see.

If you have an eye for beautiful and scant costumes, you may use them to advantage by looking at Norma Bell, Mary Mack and Alfarquia Symonds, who do not believe in concealing their charms. If you like specialty numbers, then you will join with the rest of the applauders in the enjoyment of Miss Symonds' and Joe Weston's act. In short, if you like good burlesque, you will see the show.

B-Line Highway Boosters Plan to Mark the Road

Fremont, Neb., Feb. 11.—(Special.)—At a meeting at Blair attended by representatives from the towns between Missouri Valley and Fremont, the B-Line Highway association was formed.

Major George A. Murrell of Fremont was named president; Fred Claridge of Blair, vice president, and Fred Bader of Fremont, secretary and treasurer. An advisory committee composed of Robert Peterson, Fremont; J. D. Eakin, Arlington; O. Marshall, Kennard; W. A. Smith, California Junction; Don C. Van Dusen, Blair, and J. D. Snell, Missouri Valley, was appointed. This committee will log and map the route at once. The highway connects Fremont and Missouri Valley and passes through Arlington, Kennard, Blair and California Junction, connecting with the Lincoln Highway at each end. The letter "B" in blue on a white background with blue borders was selected as the insignia.

Potato Meal Factory Might Be Real Help to Housewife in Cutting H.C.L.

No one has as yet come forward with a potato meal factory, although it is said potato meal has long been successfully made in Germany and other parts of Europe. While the industrial committee of the Commercial club and the new industries committee are busy looking for new industries and offering prizes for the best suggestions as to what kind of factories should succeed, there are those who feel that a potato meal factory should have consideration. Omaha lies in the very center of a great agricultural belt, where potatoes are raised in vast quantities. They are cheap in the fall about the time for harvesting potatoes. Then hucksters cry themselves hoarse to sell them to the housewives at 20 cents a peck.

The ordinary home in the city with a furnace in the basement cannot lay in a big supply of potatoes for the winter, because they decay rapidly when kept too warm in a basement with a furnace. The result is that families cannot take advantage of the cheap potatoes. Meantime potatoes rot in large quantities, or are stored here and there until the storage charges and hauling and handling charges, and other manipulations raise the price in midwinter to three times the fall price.

In the meantime the potatoes which should have been made into meal in the fall have decayed and are lost forever.

More and more the world is seeking means of conserving the vital elements in perishable produce, reducing them down to dry solids, canning or barreling them, so that they may be kept for an indefinite time. Peaches, pears, apples and other fruits may be canned and thus preserved indefinitely, but in America little has been done for the highly valuable potato in the way of conserving the nutritious starch of this perishable tuber. The European war is teaching the world many lessons along this line. Milk flour, and buttermilk flour have been manufactured for years and with great success; yet potatoes, which grow readily in this Nebraska soil, are persistently neglected by the man who has money to invest in a factory.

The average crop of potatoes throughout the United States is 106 bushels per acre, according to government statistics. It has been pointed out that at the present price this would mean $302 per acre. Of course, that is retail price, and everyone knows the farmer does not get $2 a bushel for his potatoes. Nevertheless, a good crop of corn is about forty bushels per acre, which at the present price to the farmer would be something less than $40 per acre.

The difference between the value of a potato crop and a corn crop in Nebraska is here evident, though the price of potatoes in the fall, when the farmer digs them, is usually so low that he does not consider his potato crop a very profitable one. A potato meal factory, it has been suggested, could create a demand for potatoes in the fall, when they are most abundant, when they are also in the finest condition; and might thus result in increased production of potatoes on high-priced Nebraska farm land, to the advantage and profit of the farmer as well as to the great comfort of the consumer of the necessities of life.
