STUDENTS TAKE IN SIGHTS AT YARDS

Visit of Students From Agricultural School Tests Capacity of Exchange.

OFFICIALS WELL PLEASED

"If this room isn't big enough to hold all of you when you come here again next year, we can build another that will be big enough"—Everett Buckingham.

In such fashion did the general manager and officials of the Union Stock Yards company greet the 400 or more students of the University of Nebraska Agriculture school on the occasion of their annual visit to the yards yesterday.

Mr. Buckingham, in the course of his remarks, referred to the excellent system with which stock was handled. "In the last nine months there have appeared in my office but six shippers who have had complaint for the methods employed by the stock yards interests in handling the stock."

F. Stryker emphasized this remark by saying that his office, which is the one neutral intervening point between shipper and commission man, has had occasion to settle but eleven disputes in the year past. "The business here is run on honor," the secretary said, "and could render no finer example to you young people who are today realizing its magnitude."

Price Awards Made. The banquet served gratis by the yards company was the occasion of the awarding of silver cups as prizes to scholarship students in the three divisions of the state farm. Prof. Howard Gramlich, one of the leading instructors, made the presentation speech and paid tribute to the two stock judging teams that had given

The mode of the moment is reflected in this varied display of New Spring Suits $2500-$2950-$3500-$3950

MADAME Fashion has been "quick-stepping" these days filling the orders, specifications and demands of the representative of the Burgess-Nash Company, who is now in the Eastern markets.

"Omaha's discriminating women must have something that is smart, distinctive, yet practical and attractively priced," said Mr. Buyer.

"Here is a group of smartly tailored suits—in fact, so tailored that one would almost call them mannish—then, too, there are girlish models of box pleated and Norfolk effects—but oh, pshaw, what is the use of enumerating every suit I have," said Madame Fashion, "because I'm sure I have a suit to fit every feminine taste in Omaha."

And the result is the varied group of strictly new Spring Suits on display Thursday. The notable difference from the styles of past seasons is the newness in fabrics, shadings, designs and the extra fine finish.

Yes, and some of the very newest show the much-discussed barrel silhouette. Come in and see them for yourself. You're most welcome.
