REVERSE THEIR ATTITUDE

New York, Peb. 16.—Traders were again in sole presention of the market today and in part reversed their attitude of the pending session, covering short contracts on the more encouraging developments over night. Chief among these was the action taken by the leading transpertation lines to relive freight congestion.

Conditions in Mexico and Cuba also were regarded with less apprehension. Steamship issues avinced some relaxation of recent pressure on the more satisfactory outlook for that industry and metals responded to reports of further inquiries for the refined product from beme and abroad.

Dealings were only nominally larger than in the early days of the week, but took in a considerably larger number of individual stocks. Among these were some of the derimpetus or support largely from speculative pools.
