Miss Mary Coll is having a costume party for her little folks tomorrow afternoon. The Elks club gave a costume party last evening.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church entertained the new society of young people called the King's Heralds at the home of Mrs. J. O. Phillippi Saturday afternoon. Hearts, cupids, flags and flowers were used to decorate the rooms and refreshments carried out the valentine scheme. The young people came in costumes, varying from the red, white and blue Uncle Sam and the German kaiser to the King and Queen of Hearts. Following a program, the little guests thanked their hostesses by reciting this original verse:

First Church, First Church—

The promise made by friends of Mr. and Mrs. Nile Booth, who serenaded them when they returned from their wedding trip last week, that they were not through with them yet, was carried out last evening, when the members of the Original Eight slub and a few guests arranged a survise party for the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Booth were sent over to their brother's house to see a little niece who was ill, Mrs. Booth wearing a new gown to please both the child and her father, who is ill for that was the pretext used to induce ther to put on party attire). As soon as the couple had left the house the Original Eight gathered at the Houck home. They formed in couples at the head of the stairs just as the bride and groom had done a week ago, marching downstairs to the music of the Lohengrin wedding march from the Victrola, going through the kitchen, and after having a grand right and left around the dining room table they appeared in all solemnity before the amazed young couple in the living room.

SMOKE IN "DEVIL'S HOME"

Vigorous exception is being taken by eigar store proprietors to utterances credited to Rev. C. W. Savidge in his Sunday evening sermon. The paster of the People's church is said to have characterized the modern gigar store as the "home of the devil." J. T. McVittie, president of the Omaha Retail Cigar Dealers' associa-

"We decided to take no action," he explains, "as we believe the preacher's attack does not merit serious consideration. We cannot, however, refrain from taking exception to Rev. Mr. Savidge's classification of all cigar stores in one group.

"It would be just as sensible to say that all ministers' sons are bad, because the well-known son of a certain Omaha preacher was found gambling in a place that sought to hide its true nature by pretending to be a cigar store."

With Jims Again Friday

Friday night at the Metropolitan club is the time and place for the next meeting of the Friendship club, in which lonesome Janes and Jims join to cast dull cares away. The organization is now complete and anyone may now come twice without being a member, but after that must possess a membership card. Promoters of the club are pleased that the idea of providing a place where respectable men and women who are lonely may meet to form congenial acquaintances. Interest in the new club is shown by the way numerous inquiries keep coming in. The club is to be operated strictly on a club basis.

A correspondent asks whether such creatures as electric eels exist. If they do, what are they, and what waters do they inhabit?

Anybody who doubts the existence of "electric eels" would get a mental as well as a physical shock if she should happen to take hold of one of those animals while it was alive, especially if he got both hands upon it. It is true, however, that this wonderful animal is not a member of the eel family. It gets its popular name to simply from its resemblance in form to an eel. Its zoological name is Gymnotus electricus. Its best known places of residence is in the swamps and marshes of Guiana and Brazil, where it haunts the pools. Ordinability it is about three feet long, but individuals are said to exist having a length of six or seven feet. So powerful is the electric shock from a man and kill small animals outright.

The famous philosophical traveler, Humboldt, who wrote the best of all lit ravelers' stories because he studied and explained the things he saw, found that the South American Incident and provide the dangerous creatures.

In several Omaha restaurants the waiters or waitresses were called solemnly together by the head waiter and these portentious words were pronounced:

There are other electric fishes besides those named, such as the "electrical catfish" found in the River Nile, and the significantly named "crampfish," a species of torpedo found on the Atlantic coast, and which, it is said, sometimes attains a weight of 200 pounds. "Pommes de Terre" Are Now Imported Like Other Gems

While there's life there's hope, and, likewise, while there's hope of getting plenty of spuds, there's life and no spud boycott.

So news of the pending importation of many carloads of potatoes into Omaha from Canada is putting life into the tuber business and into the hearts and homes of local high-cost-of-living victims.

hearts and homes of local high-costof-living victims.
Collector of Customs McCune breathed a sigh of relief Wednesday at his federal building office when a hig local commission firm took out a permit to import potatoes and onions direct from Alberta and Saskatchewan to the port of Omaha. Arrival of the first carloads is expected soon.

In spite of a duty of 10 per cent on such importations, Omaha dealers say they believe the present diamond-and-egg prices of spuds may be smashed by the arrival of a lot of the Canadian vegetables.

Though Canada has been sending shiploads of spuds to Britain and the war front, there are plenty left and prices are said to be much lower in Canada than here.
