PART OF JAIL FEEDING ROW

The sight of garbage, bags of beans and baskets of bread being carried from the basement to the jail on the passenger elevators while hurrying lawyers and scurrying clerks punched signal buttons in vain surprised even the most sophistiated court housers this morning.

Later elevator passengers got a scare when one of the operators appointed by the democratic board following the recent head chopping of court house attaches stopped his car too quick between floors, shaking up those in it and putting all of the lifts in the building out of commission temporarily. The court house eleva-tor jobs are said to be the best paid in that line of work in the city and passengers look with askance at the two new appointees, who started work March 1, as they lumble with the con-trol levers.

Garbage Flits By.

Attendants in the sheriff's office were compelled to use the passenger elevators to carry provisions to the jail and remove the garbage when the power was shut off for the freight and and remove the garbage when the power was shut off for the freight lift. Commissioner Lynch ordered the power shut off for the jail clevator, following with an embargo on the freight lift the next morning.

It is part of the jail feeding fight between the county commissioners and Sheriff Clark. The county board has gone on record that it will not allow the sheriff's claim for feeding prisoners in January, based on the 32 cents a day allowed by law. Commissioner Lynch reiterated his statement that no funds will be supplied for the jail feeding until the sheriff submits itemized bills of his actual expenditures for foodstuffs.

The sheriff insists that he is feeding the inmates of the county bastile better food and more of it than ever before and says he will go to the mat with the commissioners before he'll let them "office boy him," as he expressed it.

Health Department Wants Power for Regulating Cafes

The health department is working on a proposed ordinance for stricter regulation of restaurants and cales. The health commissioner has general orditions of each case.

"I look for quite a few new eating places to open after May 1 and 1 want to be in a position to regulate these places in the interest of public policy. Variables and the control of the control of the control of the control of the case of the control o policy. Ventilation and sanitation in a public eating place should be mar-ters of definite regulation." stated Health Commissioner Conn. II.

Reduction in New Wheel

Tax Law Agreed Upon A material reduction of the sched-ule of the new wheel tax ordinance was proposed at a conference held by was proposed at a conference held by City Commissioners Jardine, Hummel and Parks in Mayor Dahlman's office. It was suggested that automobiles used for pleasure purposes should be taxed $3 to $6 per year, and trucks taxed $4 to $7 a year. Another proposal was to tax teams $2 a year and motorecycles $1 each. This matter will be brought up next Monday at a meeting of the council committee of the whole. The wheel tax ordinance, which should became operative next Wednesday, will be resisted fin court, the commissioners have been advised.
