English Courts Hold That Aliens Cannot Be Deported

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.) London, Feb. 10.—The British courts have decided that the government has no right to deport to Russia or France, citizens of those countries who have refused here. An order of deportation may be issued against any alien, but the order must not specify the country to which the deported alien must go. The decision completely nullifies the widely proposed deportation of all allied aliens for military service in their own countries.

The test case discussed by the courts was that of the Duke de Chateau Thierry, a French subject of military age, resident in England prior to the war, against whom the British government made an order of deportation to France at the request of the French government. No offense or misconduct was alleged against the duke, but the home secretary claimed the right to deport him under certain war legislation, which authorized him to deport aliens, while the war continues, "whenever such deportation is incidental to the safety of the realm."

The duke contended that he was a royalist, and therefore a political refugee, and stated in his affidavit that he had been threatened, over the telephone with the fate of being placed in a dangerous part of the firing line, notwithstanding an English medical certificate of unfitness.

The French government disclaimed any political animus against him, or any intention to treat him as suggested, but claimed him as of military age and subject to military service.

Will of Lucas Sets Aside Land for Home for Birds. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.) London, Feb. 1.—Under the will of the late Lord Lucas, land and premises in Norfolk have been bequeathed to Ivor Grenfell. This property of 3,000 acres was acquired by Lord Lucas, Viscount Grey, E. S. Montague and B. Russell, all keenly interested in bird life, in order to provide protection for rarer kinds of birds.

Elaborate precautions have been taken to preserve from disturbance some young birds of a very rare species and careful study is made of the habits of the colony of birds on the estate by the headkeeper and others in the employ of these bird lovers.

Bad Boys of England Being Transformed Into Good Ones. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.) London, Feb. 1.—Bad boys, or hooligans, as they are often called, are being transformed on an extensive scale. One way to reform them is to take them to instructive moving picture shows and allow them to mingle with the good Boy Scouts according to some of the remedies outlined by Lieutenant General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, the chief scout.

"The problem is to get hold of the existing hooligan and tame him," said the chief. "In Birmingham they have formed what are called reserve scouts." There are 2,000 young hooligans who are honorary members of scout troops, and they are allowed to play games without taking up scouting at all unless they wish, but 90 per cent of them want to become scouts after they have been playing a week or two.

"Many of them have already been rewarded for public service. That is what these hooligans want. It is a most pathetic sight to see a real hooligan who had been a 'bobby baister' (police nagger) suddenly turn into an orderly for the police—a copper's companion as one of them called himself. In Hull a number of hooligans have been turned into Sea Scouts."

Better Settle, Young Man. A young lady who lives in Worcester sued for damages in a case of breach of promise of marriage. She was offered $100 to leave the breaking heart. "Two hundred!" she exclaimed. "Two hundred dollars for ruined hopes, a blighted life! Two hundred dollars for all this! No, never; make it two-fifty and it's a bargain!"—Chicago Post.
