

VON IGEL PLOTTED INVASION OF INDIA

Men Arrested at New York Received $60,000 from Him to Start Movement.

LITERATURE IS SEIZED

New York, March 6.—Dr. C. Hanador Chakiberty, a Hindoo physician, and Dr. Ernest Skunner, 34, described as a German, were arrested today on charges of conspiring to set up a military expedition against a foreign country on friendly relations with the United States. The police say the men confessed that they had plotted under the direction of Wolf von Igel to invade India by way of China. Von Igel, indicted, but never tried, for complicity in an alleged plot to destroy the Welland canal, is with Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, who is approaching Copenhagen on the steamer Frederik VIII.

Von Igel Furnishes Funds.

From Von Igel, according to the police, Dr. Chakiberty and Skunner, who have been suspected for some time, received $60,000 and the Hindoo, posing as a Persian merchant, obtained a passport which enabled him to get to Berlin. In this connection an additional charge of fraudulently obtaining a passport has been made against the physician.

Dr. Chakiberty, according to the confession, revealed his plans of an invasion of India to certain officials in Berlin and then returned to New York, where he and Von Igel prepared literature printed in various native Indian languages. In the house in West One Hundred and Twentieth street where the two men were arrested today the police seized large quantities of literature and found also a complete chemical laboratory.

Agent Sent to China.

After the literature was prepared, according to the police, Dr. Chakiberty and Skunner employed as their agent an influential Chinaman, whom they sent to his native country with the idea of interesting his government in a plan to ship arms and ammunition from the United States to China, where, with the Chinese government's permission, they were to be stored until the time set for the invasion.

The police said the two men declared they had heard nothing from their Chinese representative and did not know what success, if any, he had.

Former Central High Principal Addresses School Teachers Here

"I am willing to challenge the statement made by some that the public schools are Godless. Usually that is the opinion of those whose interests and sympathies are close to sectarian schools," stated Homer P. Lewis, superintendent of schools of Worcester, Mass. He addressed public school teachers yesterday afternoon at Central High school, of which he was principal many years.

He said there is evidence of religious training in the schools of Omaha, as well as in those of his home city, but he admitted that educators regard moral training of the young to be a big problem.

American League's Teams Will Compete For Drilling Honors

Chicago, March 6.—Base ball clubs of the American league, now receiving military instruction in the southern training camps, are to compete for drilling honors, Captain Franklin R. Kenney, U. S. A., in command of recruiting in the Central department of the army, announced tonight.

Captain Kenney said that President B. B. Johnson of the American league, originator of the military training plan for the ball players has offered a $500 prize to the best drilled team in the league and a prize of $100 to the drill sergeant who instructed the winning players.

The competition, Captain Kenney said, will be decided in July. A board of army officers will be selected to review the players and make the award. The $500 will be distributed to the players.

The military training plan for ball players has been adopted by the Milwaukee and Indianapolis clubs of the American association.

"BUFFALO BILL" STATUE.

The national monument to William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) will be modeled on the figure shown in this photograph. ## TWO-DOLLAR WHEAT IS ALMOST HERE

Bullish Market Boosts No. 2 Hard to Within One Penny of That Mark.

CORN IS ABOVE A DOLLAR

Two-dollar wheat on the Omaha market is coming long before the end of the week, providing the daily gains continue. Right now the price lacks only a cent of touching the mark, for today No. 2 hard sold at $1.99 a bushel. If there had been any No. 1 hard offered, according to the usual split between the two grades, it would have sold at better than $2.

It is certain, say most of the grain men, that $2 wheat is in sight, and some of them would not be surprised to see the price go to $2.10 within two weeks. They assert that everything points to the next government crop report being a bullish one, and then again, the armed neutrality situation is another bullish factor.

While $1.99 was top price for cash wheat on the Omaha market, there was none that sold under $1.96. On the whole, the price was fully a cent over Monday. Receipts were thirty-two carloads.

Corn Climbs High. Corn was fully as bullish as wheat, the top being $1.04, and the low $1.02 for cash, a cent up and thirty-seven carloads on the market.

There were several features that conspired to boost corn, one being the fact that New England buyers took over 250 carloads, or close to 300,000 bushels, to be shipped out as soon as the available cars can be found. The sales of this quantity of corn were made on the basis of around $1. The freight rate to New England terminals averages around 20 cents a bushel, bringing the price up to $1.20, delivered. It is understood that most of the corn is for milling purposes.

That corn is going to follow wheat in the advance is the opinion of most of the grain dealers. They point to the fact that May futures are selling up to $1.09½, July 1.08½ and September $1.07 a bushel.

The demand for oats was just the same as for other classes of grain, though the advance was only ½ cent. There were seventeen carloads on the market and the sales were made at 59 and 59½ cents a bushel.

Lucy Page Gaston, Cigarette Lady, Hunts Evidence Here

Miss Lucy Page Gaston, bearing credentials as founder and director of the Anti-Cigarette League of America, 1119 Woman's Temple, Chicago, spent the day in Omaha, making purchases of cigarettes at local stores, so she reported at the city hall, where she visited Mayor Dahlman and City Prosecutor McGuire.

She said her mission to Nebraska at this time was to work against the passage of a bill at Lincoln for the repeal of the anti-cigarette law.

"I was surprised at the ease with which a woman may buy cigarettes at any of your leading stores. I bought six brands, some being 25 cents a package. Notwithstanding my forbidding appearance, I was able to get the cigarettes, although some of the men did look at me rather suspiciously," said the Chicago woman.

Miss Gaston said the evidence which she secured here will be placed in the hands of local people who are interested in the enforcement of the cigarette law.

She is a tall woman, wearing a black hat and of severely plain apparel. She said several cigar men told her that many Omaha women smoke cigarettes. At one store a woman clerk sold her a box of cigarettes and when the proprietor learned of the sale he was chagrined.

Miss Gaston proceeded to Lincoln at 4:10 p. m.

KUGEL YEARS FOR COMING OF MAY ONE

Commissioner of Police Says "The Boys" Are Trying to Let Out a Few Links.

City Commissioner Kugel is yearning for May 1.

"Will it never, never come?" is his plaint. He says "the boys" are trying to let out a few links just because the time is drawing near for them to close up.

"But let me say that from now until May 1 the lid is going to be kept tight. Just take that from me," exclaimed the head of the police department.

Mr. Kugel says he did not make the rounds Monday evening, but he understood from his subordinates that all lights were out at 8 bells.

"But I do wish May 1 was here. You just don't know how much I wish it," he added, his smile-bereft face indicating secret sorrow.

He announced that on and after May 1 he expects to co-operate with the sheriff's office in maintaining vigilance over those that may try to evade the liquor laws.

Mr. Kugel, however, seems to take the position that most of his worries will have fled before the breaking of dawn on the first day of May.

HIGH COURT SAYS NEBRASKA WATER STATUTE IS VALID

tion was in its infancy in this state. The volume of water flowing in the North Platte river at various seasons of the year had not been definitely ascertained, and the actual flow was largely a matter of conjecture. A number of the determinations made therefore, were for water in excess of the actual amount which experience has shown was available for the respective enterprises and which the works could convey.

"Perhaps this fact should be considered by the state board in times of scarcity, but this question was not presented, and is not decided. The true test of ultimate right to the water is its actual application to a beneficial use. The spirit and the letter of the statute compels the most rigid economy in the use of water so that the full benefit of it may be derived. If not in use by prior appropriators, others may use it. No dog in the manger policy can apply.

"If the non-use is continued for the statutory time the right ceases, may be forfeited, as the statute provides, and more diligent users may acquire the right to its use under the authority of the board. A land owner taking more than he is entitled to is liable to damage to those injured. No appropriator is entitled to more than can be beneficially used or more than the least amount which experience indicates is necessary for the production of crops in the exercise of good husbandry.

"We find it unnecessary to consider the questions presented as to the rights of the plaintiffs and cross-petitioners between each other, since the result reached eliminates the same."

COMPENSATION LAWS HELD VALID

Compulsory Act of Washington and Voluntary Act of Iowa Declared Constitutional.

NEW YORK LAW ALSO GOOD

Washington, March 6.—The first compulsory workmen's compensation or industrial insurance law—that of Washington state—to come before the supreme court was upheld today as constitutional.

The court also affirmed state decrees compelling the Mountain Timber company of Kalama, Wash., to contribute to the state compensation or insurance fund.

The decision as to the constitutionality of the law was by a vote of 5 to 4. Chief Justice White and Justices McKenna, Van Devanter and McReynolds dissenting.

Constitutionality of the Washington law was questioned in a suit by the state against the Mountain Timber company of Kalama, Wash., a Nebraska corporation, to collect contributions to the state compensation fund levied by the State Industrial commission, created to enforce the law and fix compensation of injured employees.

Several Issues Involved. Extent of the law's application—whether it or the federal employers' liability act applies—to certain employees of common carriers was involved in three other suits of such employees for personal injuries.

In all four cases the Washington statute was upheld as constitutional and also applied to the common carriers' employees, displacing the federal statute to that extent. In the Mountain Timber company case the state supreme court held the law valid and gave judgment to the state for the contributions assessed.

The employees' suits against the common carriers the Ninth circuit court of appeals affirmed their dismissal by Federal District Judge Neterer. The Mountain Timber company case was argued in February, 1916, but the supreme court reached no decision and it was reargued in January, 1917. Between the two hearings Justices Brandeis and Clarke were appointed, Justice Lamar died and Justice Hughes resigned.

That the law, enacted in 1911 and the only compensation statute of any state establishing compulsory compensation standards exclusive of any other procedure, violates the "due process" constitutional clause, deprives employers and employees of liberty of contract and abridges rights of both to jury trial of personal injury actions, were the principal grounds of attack upon the statute—an attack made both by the Mountain Timber company as an employer and by William Raymond of Seattle, a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad employee.

The state authorities defended the law as a valid exercise of state "police powers" to prevent waste in litigation over industrial injuries and as social legislation to meet changed modern conditions. The Iowa workmen's compensation law, voluntarily upon employees, was today upheld as constitutional by the supreme court.

New York's compulsory workmen's compensation law was sustained as generally constitutional by the supreme court today.

Bennie Kauff on Way to Training Camp in Texas. Sioux City, Ia., March 6.—Bennie Kauff, center fielder for the New York Nationals, was in Sioux City today en route to the training camp in Texas, where he says he should have reported ten days ago. He has been looking after investments in Montana.

MAYOR FAVORS MILITARY TRAINING

National Security League is Sounding Sentiment of Various Parts of Country.

GREAT EDUCATIONAL VALUE

The National Security league is making a canvass of the country, submitting to the mayors a questionnaire on their personal opinions and the general sentiment of their cities on the subject of universal military training.

The league wishes to know whether the subject has been discussed in Omaha, whether the city would endorse its senator and congressman for voting for universal military training, whether there are any emphatic advocates or opponents in Omaha and whether there have been any expressions of opinion as between the six months' training proposed in the Chamberlain bill and the eleven months' planned in the general staff bill.

Mayor Dahlman emphatically indorses universal military training. On this subject he said:

"I am strong in my advocacy of universal military training for six months. It is my firm belief that more than half of the people of Omaha favor this training and would endorse our senator and congressman if they should vote for such a measure. I also realize there are many opponents and some who are strong in their opposition. It has been a regret that I did not have military training when I was a youth. Such training is of inestimable value to every young man. It is of great educational value."

AUSTRIAN BREAK APPEARS CERTAIN

Vienna Note Holds Out Little if Any Hope Rupture Averted.

ARMED SHIPS "PIRATES"

Washington, March 6.—Austria's note, declaring adherence to the general principles of unrestricted submarine warfare, holds out little, if any, hope that a break between the United States and the Vienna government may be avoided. It was considered probable that the course of the United States toward Austria might, tentatively at least, be determined at today's cabinet meeting.

Austria's efforts to substitute for the individual warning every merchant ship is entitled by international law to receive before being torpedoed a general warning to all vessels not to enter barred zones cannot be accepted by this government. Furthermore, the United States contends now and always has contended that neutrals aboard enemy merchant ships are entitled to safety.

One portion of the communication which undoubtedly will not meet with the approval of the United States is that having to do with defensively armed merchant ships. Austria's declaration that armed merchantmen "are to be regarded as pirate vessels, which may be destroyed," was regarded as being especially significant in view of the intentions of the United States regarding armament for its merchant shipping.

At the last moment, however, today's cabinet meeting was abandoned and the Austrian reply will be taken up at the meeting on Friday. Meanwhile the president and Secretary Lansing will have opportunity to go over it in detail.
