

LODGE ROOM NEWS OF GREATER OMAHA

Post A of Traveling Men's Protective Association Plans for Big Convention.

CALL ANNUAL MEETING

The call is out for the annual meeting of Post A. Traveling Men's Protective Association. It is to be held in the Commercial club rooms at 2:30 o'clock next Saturday afternoon and a that time delegates will be elected to the state convention, to be held in Grand Island April 20-21 and also delegates to the national convention that is scheduled for Savannah, Ga., June 11-16.

Besides electing delegates, the members of the Omaha post will hold the annual election and select the governing board for the next year. But the election is by no means the important feature of the Saturday afternoon gathering. The members figure that the business will keep them busy until well into the night and consequently they are going to have supper in the club rooms. It will be more than an ordinary supper, for everything on the menu will bear the Omaha and Nebraska brand. In other words, not a thing will be eaten that is not produced either in this city or state. The feast will spread at 6:30 o'clock in the evening.

Woodmen of the World.

Omaha Seymour guards will give a dance in Crouse hall Tuesday evening.

Schiller camp No. 304 will furnish special entertainment to its members and friends Thursday evening in the German Home.

Nebraska Lipa No. 183 will meet Thursday evening in Bohemian Turner hall, Thirteenth and Dorcas streets.

Sobieski camp No. 75 will meet to-day noon in Woodmen of the World hall, Twenty-ninth and Walnut streets.

Cedar Wood camp No. 19 will meet next Saturday in Woodmen of the World hall, Twenty-first and U streets. Vac Opocensky has been active in the camp interest by securing a number of new members.

South Omaha camp No. 211 will meet Wednesday evening in Woodmen of the World hall, opposite the postoffice, for its regular business session.

Alpha camp No. 1 is meeting temporarily in Baright's hall, Nineteenth and Farnam streets. Its regular meeting will be held Tuesday evening. Many desirable locations are being considered by the special committee as the future home of Alpha camp.

Woodmen Circle.

A large gathering greeted the officers of W. A. Fraser grove No. 1 at its special meeting last Friday evening. Many speeches were made on the "Good of the Order." The Dora Alexander guards did several special drill stunts.

Alpha grove No. 2 will give a card party Tuesday evening in Lyric hall, with refreshments.

Trope of Ben Hur.

Mecca court No. 13 will give an open meeting Thursday evening to members and friends. J. J. Cassidy, state manager, will present the banner which was won by Mecca court for the largest increase in membership during 1916.

Order of St. George.

St. Mary lodge No. 219. Order of St. George, will hold a business meeting and initiation Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Lyric building.

Modern Woodmen.

Magnolia camp, No. 1833, Modern Woodmen of America, is filling stomachs these days. It started March 13 with an "Oyster Stew" night. On March 13 members will gather to a fruit banquet. A genuine Mulligan stew is the offering for March 20. Open meeting night will be held March 27.

Knights of Pythias.

Regular meeting of Nebraska Lodge, No. 1, will be held Monday evening at Crouse hall at 8 p. m. sharp. There will be work in the second rank. Refreshments will be served at the close of the ceremonies. Every knight in Omaha should be there.

The Pythian Sisters are reorganizing and becoming active again in lodge work. Nebraska Lodge, No. 1, has granted them the use of its reception room on the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

Two auto loads of knights journeyed to Bellevue last Thursday and surprised Brother John Q. Goss. It was his 90th birthday and it was with a joyful expression that he received their congratulations and tokens of esteem from his many friends.

The D. O. K. K. of Council Bluffs will hold a dance and card party Tuesday evening, March 13, for the knights and their relatives. An invitation has been extended to Omaha knights. Zem Zem will flow.

There is something of importance under the fifteen and one-half order of business for every knight. It will pay to investigate.

Odd Fellows.

Tuesday evening about fifty Odd Fellows from Omaha went to Plattsmouth where the first degree staff of Omaha Lodge, No. 2, conferred the first degree on several candidates for Platte Lodge, No. 7. Members from Louisville and other surrounding towns were in full force. Grand Master Hoagland from North Platte was also present.

Friday evening Omaha Lodge, No. 2, conferred the first degree on several candidates. A delegation from Elk City was present to witness the degree work. Next Friday the second degree will be conferred.

will confer the Golden Rule degree next Thursday on a class of about twenty-five. Some of the new robes will be used for the first time and a large attendance is expected.

Canton Ezra Millard, No. 1, met Thursday evening. About twenty petitions were received, most of them being Patriarchs from Falls City, who expect to make a Canton of their own in the near future. Arrangements are being made to confer the

Omaha Lads Join Uncle Sam's Naval Forces

Omaha is doing its full share toward manning Uncle Sam's battleships. During the last two months recruiting for the navy has been more vigorous and successful throughout the country than at any previous time since Admiral Dewey and his fighters made lasting names for themselves and brought Old Glory to the front rank in the Spanish-American war.

In this recruiting, which has been so keenly stimulated by the tense international situation, territory covered by the Omaha recruiting corps has kept up with the pace set by the authorities. During February more men were recruited by Lieutenant W. W. Waddell and his assistants than during any other month since he took charge here.

This group of twenty likely "rookies" were enlisted through the Omaha station and its branches during thirty days, ending February 8. The picture was taken at Lake Bluff, Ill., where the would-be seamen are being trained to man the ships in the nation's fleets.

Of the score seven lived in Omaha and two in Council Bluffs at the time of their enlistment. The others were from nearby communities recruited through the branch stations at Lincoln, Des Moines, Sioux City and Sioux Falls.

Omaha lads in the picture are: Merritt A. Sharp, 515 North Seventeenth street; Peter L. Christensen, rural route No. 2; Edward M. I. Schmidt, 4619 North Twenty-ninth street; Welden P. Darland, 1716 North Twenty-eighth street; Harold G. Coffey, 1701 Manderson street; Lawrence M. Landon, 2005 St. Mary's avenue; James F. Webster, 1001 Park avenue. The Council Bluffs recruits are: Frederick A. Ross, 534 West Broadway, and Henry Schafer.

Over 100 youths applied to join the navy through the Omaha district recruiting station during the thirty days these twenty were accepted. These passed the various examinations, the majority of the others failing to meet the physical requirements, which are strict.

MUMMY AT LIBRARY CAUSES MUSINGS

Groh Can Now See the Beautiful Princess of Thirty Centuries Ago.

SAYS SHE WAS BEAUTIFUL

By A. R. GROH.

I like to go over to the museum in the public library building and look at the mummies. One of them particularly interests me. It is that of a woman, a dainty, little woman.

Her spirit took its flight from that body 3,000 years ago. When Rome was founded her body had already lain, wrapped in its linen swappings, for more than three centuries. While Christ was on earth, while Alexander, Caesar, Charlemagne, Napoleon had their careers, when Magna Charta was signed, when America was discovered her body lay just as it lies today.

She was a beautiful woman. Of that I am sure from the form of the mummy and the outlines of the face under the linen windings.

No doubt she was of royal blood. I can see her, a child, growing up in the palace on the banks of the Nile, a palace where many slaves waited upon her and hastened to do her slightest bidding. Perhaps she watched the toilers building the pyramids.

Of Surpassing Beauty.

She was a laughing, happy girl, this girl whose soul once inhabited that mummy in our museum. She learned to dance and to sing. And as she grew to young womanhood she bloomed into surpassing beauty, a black-eyed, black-haired maiden.

She was robbed in the richest clothing and wore a jeweled necklace. She loved the splendid feasts at her father's palace, where there were also skilled musicians and jugglers and wonderful dancers.

It was at one of these feasts that she met a young prince, a handsome, dashing young fellow and a warrior, distinguished in spite of his youth. It seemed they were intended for each other from the first. She had eyes for none but him and he was charmed and fascinated by the beauty of this slim, young princess.

But, alas, her father had other plans. He commanded her to marry another, by which match he hoped to strengthen his power. The lovers managed to meet in secret in the palace gardens. There, in the soft Egyptian moonlight, the prince pressed to his breast that beautiful form which is now only a mummy and kissed those warm lips which have been dust for thirty centuries.

Happy Pair Separated.

And then, one night they were surprised by the princess' father with a guard of soldiers, who overpowered the prince, bound him and sent him back to his own kingdom.

The princess' grief was pitiful. In midsummer she died. The body was embalmed with the finest spices and was laid in the curious coffin of wood and stucco, painted with hieroglyphics and pictures that you can still see upon it. Then it was laid away in the royal sepulcher.

The prince was killed in a battle with those who kept him from the princess, and his body, too, was embalmed in a manner befitting his station. Perchance that is his body in the very next case in the museum. Who knows?

The sun knows. Every day he shines upon them through the south windows of the museum. He saw them while they were throbbing to all the emotions of life. He shone on the prince and princess 3,000 years ago, back in old Egypt. He smiled upon their joy. He witnessed their death and their burial. He knows.

Walters Finds the Car Shortage Not So Acute

General Manager Walters of the Northwestern is back from Chicago and while there met a number of the officials of eastern and western lines. He asserts that the opinion is general that there has been considerable of an easing up in the freight car congestion and that the worst has passed.

Mr. Walters asserts that railroad men are of the opinion that consignees are using their best efforts in hastening the unloading of cars and that these efforts are being attended with good results. However, he says that none of the roads have any surplus of empty cars, adding that they will not so long as present high prices for grain maintain and there is grain to sell.

Pape, Who Beat His Wife's Visitor, Wins Freedom

Frank Pape, 1803 South Fifty-seventh street, recently was arrested for giving Jeff Banks, Thirty-sixth and Bedford avenue, an all-round beating up. Pape declared he had found Banks in the Pape home when he went there unexpectedly. However, Banks failed to appear in police court to prosecute the case when it was called, so Judge Fitzgerald discharged Pape Saturday.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Nature warns you when the track of health is not clear. Kidney and bladder troubles cause many annoying symptoms and great inconvenience both day and night.

Unhealthy kidneys may cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition, but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.

If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results may be expected; Kidney Trouble in its very worst form may steal upon you.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS IN POLICE COURT

Six Winsome Misses Inspect the Omaha's House of Scandals.

SEE LIFE'S SEAMY SIDE

After watching police court procedure for a while Saturday morning, six junior civics classes girls of Central High school became disgusted and went out doors to avoid the disagreeable surroundings and atmosphere.

It was their first visit to the city's moral clearing house. When asked what she thought of police court, one of the girls, Miss Tolliver Dinneen, replied, "Not much."

She is the daughter of W. T. Dinneen, chief special agent of the Northwestern railroad, who attended court with the six girl students. They were there to get first hand knowledge of police court procedure and of the habits and surroundings of the place. This they will use in connection with their study of government in their Central High school course.

Miss Autumn Davies of the school faculty plans to attend the court with her entire class of twenty-five girls and boys a week from Monday. The girls present in court with Miss Dinneen and her father Saturday were Catherine and Maybelle North, Blanche Johnson, Ruth Holmes and Marie Huntzinger.

For about an hour the girls sat together in the front row of spectators' seats in the dingy old court room. All around them were Third ward characters, inmates of resorts arrested and out on bond, awaiting trial, burly negroes, dirty boxer thieves, "shyster" lawyers, as well as more respectable persons, whose business or curiosity had led them to the court.

Scarlet women were also in the room. Their gaudy dress and typical features were interesting subjects for the gaze of the school girls, who took keen interest in all that went on.

However, the air in the crowded room became stifling, and long before court adjourned the school girls had seen, heard and breathed more than

Jail Bird On Jury? That is Charged

By Melcher Folks

Allegations that one of the members of the jury which returned a $4,750 verdict in the case of Beatrice Melcher, girl-wife of Rueben Melcher, who sued her father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Melcher, for $25,000 damages for alienation of her husband's affections, had served a sentence in a penitentiary are made by the plaintiffs in an affidavit filed in district court in support of a motion for a new trial. The elder Melchers assert that this would disqualify the juror, thereby providing a legal loophole for a new trial.

London Bars News Posters To Conserve Paper

London, March 10.—Beginning today street news vendors will no longer display posters to indicate the contents of the newspapers which they are selling. With the object of conserving the supply of government paper issued an order prohibiting the use of the "contents bills" as they are called, which have been so familiar on the streets of London.

Little Ladies Are Wearing Suits This Season

Silverleaf Suits (For Girls From Age 10 Up)

SILVERLEAF suits for girls have met with instant success.

It is now possible to dress girls at hard-to-clothe ages in the most becoming apparel ever created for feminine wear—the natty tailored suit.

“Silverleaf” suits are essentially juvenile in every detail. In addition to being economical, they have a charm that is unapproached by any of the usual garments for girls.

Won't you bring your little daughter in and let her try on a new “Silverleaf” suit?
